Triumph Captured by Submarine and Armed for Attack on Fishermen.

Officers Confident That the Life of the New Enemy Will Be a Short One.

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 21.—The operations of the steam trawler Triumph, manned by a crew from a German submarine, have resulted in the sinking of four fishing vessels and probably others, according to reports at hand tonight. The schooners known to have been sunk are the Una P. Saunders and the Lucille Schnare of Lunenberg, N. S., the A. Piatt Andrew of Gloucester, Mass., and the Francis J. O'Hara of Boston. Their crews, numbering eighty in all, have reached port safely.

A fifth vessel, the Pasadena, was in sight when the Lucille Schnare was sent down, and it is believed that she shared the fate of the other fishermen, although no direct news of her has been received. Great anxiety is felt here also regarding other vessels of the fishing fleet known to have been within the scene of the raider's activity.

The Triumph, which left Portland, Me., last Monday for the Western Banks, was captured by a German submarine at 2 P. M. yesterday. A crew of sixteen men was placed on board and they lost no time in arming her with two guns and beginning their work of havoc among the fishermen.

Captain Myrrhe, master of the Triumph, who landed here with his men this morning, said he was told by the Captain of the submarine which captured his vessel that his was only one of six U-boats operating on this coast.

"We intend to destroy the fishing fleets," the German commander added. Captain Myhre and his crew were taken aboard the submarine yesterday afternoon and photographed by the Germans, who offered them refreshments and cigarettes. They said they started for shore, sixty miles away, late in the afternoon. Before they left, the Germans had put two light guns on the Triumph, fore and aft, and fitted up a small wireless apparatus. The Triumph then set off, in company with the submarine, for fishing vessels in the vicinity.

Motor boats have gone out from here to meet survivors of other fishing vessels which are believed to have been sunk by the Triumph, but do not venture far off shore for fear of themselves falling victim to the improvised sea raider.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 21.—The steam trawler Triumph, which was owned by the North Atlantic Fisheries Company, had landed her catches at this port during the Summer for a canning company with extensive Government contracts and for local dealers. The trawler was built about four years ago, and had a carrying capacity of 300,000 pounds of fish. She took on a supply of coal on leaving here.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Fishermen here said today that if the German submarine made use of the trawler Triumph as a raider they would have to recoal her at least every ten days. The Triumph was manned entirely by a Canadian crew. She is 125 feet in length, fifteen feet deep with a twenty-two-foot beam, and registers about 250 tons gross.

Sweden to Punish Paper for an Attack on Wilson

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 21.—According to a special dispatch from Stockholm, the American Ambassador has applied to the Minister of Foreign Affairs to bring an action against the Aftonblatt for an article in which President Wilson is characterized as "the Presbyterian war god of the Democratic money mob," and in which it was said that the Entente both feared and despised America.

The Minister of Justice has expressed his wish that the newspaper be prosecuted.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Earl of Reading doubled in his rôle of British Ambassador Extraordinary to the United States today when as guest of the American Luncheon Club at the Hotel Savoy he made his first public speech since his arrival in England. He spoke to the Americans present of his mission to their country, but at the same time his description of what had come under his observation there was such a message of good cheer to the large numbers who will read his speech in British newspapers as no official envoy from America could have given in more eloquent or convincing terms.

Lord Reading's appreciation of the United States was patently as wholehearted as American appreciation of himself or, as he put it in his modest disclaimer of personal qualifications, as America's admiration for the efforts Great Britain had made in this war.

Englishmen who only knew the Lord Chief Justice's forensic methods were pleasantly surprised by the fire and eloquence with which he delivered a speech that on all hands was pronounced the best among many remarkable oratorical efforts made at gatherings of the American Luncheon Club in London.

Saw War Spirit Rise Here.

LONDON, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.)—Lord Reading, in his address to the American Luncheon Club today, after referring to the success of his mission in America as due to the generous goodwill of the United States, expressed his thanks for that country's tribute of high admiration for the efforts Great Britain had made in the war and the valor and heroism of her soldiers and sailors, which could only be described as "one of affection and love."

When he first visited America, in 1915, he said, he found the country neutral, but sympathetic. On his second visit he found America at war, and added: "Whenever the history of the war comes to be written as to the part America has played very high will rank the achievements of the Administration and Legislature which passed the selective draft."

On his third visit h efound that preparations were proceeding with redoubled energy. He declared that the events in the beginning of March had awakened America, and added:

When the demand for men was made, that which seemed an impossible thing became a living thing almost as soon as put forward. At the same time the

GERMAN PLOT FOR AFTER-WAR TRADE BARED BY PALMER

PROFITS TO DUMMY CONCERN

A MATTER OF CAMOUFLAGE

Five officials of the Bayer Company, one of the German-owned chemical firms taken over by A. Mitchell Palmer, the Alien Property Custodian, were arrested by Government agents yesterday after discovery of what the Government officials describe as a conspiracy to divert a large proportion of the future profits of the company into German hands and to retain a strong footing in the chemical industry in this country for the purpose of enabling Germany to re-establish her dye and drug interests in the United States after the war.

The Bayer Company, which has the largest drug and chemical plant in this country at Rensselaer, N. Y., had been earning money at the rate of $1,500,000 a year before it was taken over by the Alien Property Custodian. Its principal owners were in Germany, the chief of them being Herr Duisberg, General Director of the Bayer Company in Germany and the head of the German War Trade Board.

After the company had been taken over by the Government, it was found that it was bound by a peculiar contract to transact business with a concern in Providence, R. I., in such a way that the Providence company would profit enormously. Had Custodian Palmer accepted the contract as bona fide and followed its terms, the Bayer Company would have purchased the output of the Providence concern at prices which would have given the Providence company a profit of $600,000 a year.

Money Going Into German Hands.

This profit, until the schmee was detected, was going into the hands of the Germans who had formerly controlled the Bayer Company, and they were using it to buy land on the New Jersey waterfront and to make other arrangements to rehabilitate the German chemical industry in this country under the guise of American ownership. Several American citizens, including a prominent lawyer, whose case is in the hands of the Department of Justice, are said by Mr. Palmer to have co-operated in the scheme to retain a bridgehead for an attack of German commercial interests on the chemical industry in this country after the war.

The men under arrest are Herman C. A. Seebohm, Director and Secretary of the Bayer Company; Dr. R. J. Pabst, manager of the New York and Southern sales department; A. Reiser, office manager of the Williams & Crowell Color Company, Inc., of Providence, R. I.; Dr. Albert Segin, chief of the pharmaceutical department of the Bayer Company, and Dr. R. Huts, a former Director of the Bayer Company, who was taken into custody in New Hampshire.

The men arrested in this city were locked up in separate jails in Manhattan and Brooklyn to prevent any possibility of communication between them.

Cardinal Farley, After Attack of Pneumonia, Is in a Serious Condition at His Country Home

Cardinal John M. Farley, Archbishop of New York, it was learned yesterday, is ill at his country home near Mamaroneck, N. Y. The Cardinal left this city in June with Mgr. Carroll, his secretary, and the fact that he was in ill health did not become generally known until yesterday, although the friends of the Cardinal have been anxious regarding his health for some days.

Two weeks ago, it was reported, the cardinal contracted pneumonia, and this has resulted in inflammation of the lungs. Considering his age, the condition of the prelate is considered serious. It is said that his physicians are working day and night to bring him back to health. The Cardinal is in his seventy-seventh year and he felt the recent hot spell keenly.

As soon as he was taken ill his physicians, Dr. Thomas F. McParlan of 1,039 Madison Avenue and Dr. Fahnestock, were summoned, and they have been in attendance ever since. At the Cardinal's home at Orienta Point it was said last night that he was resting easily, and had shown signs of improvement during the day.

At the parish house of St. Patrick's Cathedral it was said last night that while it was true the Cardinal was ill, his condition was not as serious as had been reported. Dr. John McParlan said that his brother, Dr. Thomas McParlan, was at Mamaroneck, and he had not heard how the Cardinal had fared during the day.

Gen. Bernhardi's Corps Is Badly Mauled by Haig

LONDON, Aug. 21, (British Wireless Service.)—The present series of German defeats has involved a German officer who is perhaps better known to the reading public of the allied nations than almost any other German General. He is General Bernhardi, the author of the famous books which so frankly revealed Germany's war aims. He commands the 55th Corps of the 6th Army, which has been steadily driven back by the British across the plain of the Lys toward Armentières.

The 55th Corps has been badly hit in endeavoring to hold the Merville salient confronting the Forest of Nieppe. It lost many positions and was badly shaken by the enfilading fire of the British batteries as it retired.

AMERICAN PLANES CHEER OUR TROOPS

GREAT OPPORTUNITY IN AIR

5,000 Bombing Fliers Could Inflict Untold Damage Behind Enemy Lines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 21.—It is to be doubted if anything could have caused more satisfaction throughout our army than the announcement that the first American made airplanes were doing duty on the front.

Many discouraging delays and discomfiting stories from the United States about our air program have caused a certain spirit of apathy and doubt, not only among our aviators but in the infantry and artillery as well—a sort of feeling that America was never going to produce any airplanes on the front lines. Our soldiers had seen Germany and our allies increase their air strength, and had realized the growing importance of air work, while all the time American airplanes seemed only a myth, our trained aviators having waited so long in vain for machines.

France had supplied all the machines she could spare, but because of the large number of our airmen that left most of them on the ground. For the first sixteen months we were in the war we placed no airplanes on the front, and it was impossible for our allies to supply our large needs in a comprehensive way because of their own requirements. We have had squadrons at work for months with French machines, but we could have had ten times as many men in the air had the machines been here.

American Machines at Front.

But now comes the refreshing promise that all this is to be changed. American airplanes, American from tip to tip, are here at the front, and that brings belief in the official statements that many more are coming, and that at last America is to be a big factor in the air, a factor the need of which has been very apparent in the recent fighting of our troops.

No air work so appeals to Americans as that of the chase machines. American aviators love to match nerve and wits against boche aviators with full confidence in the result. Consequently, there may be some disappointment that no chase machines are yet in sight from America. But if she never places a chase machine on the front, a big field of air service still lies open to America. It is in bombing work that America stands a chance to make a big air play.

Chase machines are essential, essential to protecting observation machines and keeping boche fliers beyond our lines, but I feel strong

TANKS LEAD BRITISH DRIVE

FOE'S LINE DEEPLY PIERCED

British Take Many Prisoners and Inflict Heavy Casualties Along a Ten-Mile Front.

NEW THRUST IN FLANDERS

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Under cover of a heavy fog General Byng's Third Army attacked this morning after a short "crash" bombardment on the ten-mile front from the Ancre River to the neighborhood of Moyenneville.

The enemy's lines were pushed back on the whole line, the British gains exceeding two miles at some points.

Seven villages were captured and more than 1,000 prisoners had been counted at the time of the filing of the latest dispatches received here.

Tanks, large and small, and armored cars played a prominent part in the British success.

The advance has reached the Arras-Albert railroad, and it is unofficially reported that the station of Achiet-le-Grand has been captured.

The battle continues with unabated fury, and there is no sign that its conclusion is near.

British Attacked at Dawn.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.)—Having smashed into General von Below's 17th Army during a heavy fog at dawn today on a front of more than ten miles, extending from the Ancre River to Moyenneville, the British have throughout the day made steady progress forward, capturing villages, taking prisoners and guns, and inflicting heavy casualties on the surprised army.

Coming directly on the heels of the battle south of the Somme, the scene of which virtually adjoins the field of the new operations, this blow exploits to the limit the confusion created among the German forces by their recent defeats.

Fierce Fighting on Railroad.

Heavy fighting has occurred along the embankment of the Albert-Arras Railroad, which, although well within the German lines last night, seems to have been easily reached by the storming British infantrymen, who were assisted in this task by tanks.

It was from this embankment that the Germans, armed with countless machine guns, fired a rain of bullets in efforts to keep the British from coming further; but while they were doing it they themselves must have suffered severely, not only from the flood of direct and indirect machine-gun fire, but also from shells which were sent crashing about their ears from directly in front of them, from the British field guns moved up closely in the rear of the infantry, and from their flank, where the big British guns hurled in an avalanche of steel from the north.

As is inevitable when a battle rages with such intensity as along this embankment, the exact situation is obscure, but reports have been received that the British have broken down the German defense at various places and have passed through to the eastern side. Behind the embankment there may not have

Women of England Have Saved the Allied Cause, Lloyd George Tells Women's Congress in Paris

I am anxious to bear testimony to the tremendous part played by the women of England in this vital epoch of human history. They have not only borne their burden of sorrow and separation with unflinching fortitude and patience, but they have assumed an enormous share of the burdens necessary to the practical conduct of the war.

If it had not been for the splendid manner in which the women came forward to work in the hospitals and munition factories, in administrative offices of all kinds, and in war work behind the lines, often in daily danger of their lives, Great Britain and, I believe, all the Allies would have been unable to withstand the enemy attacks of the last few months. For this service to our common cause humanity owes them unbounded gratitude.

In the past I have heard it said that women were unfit to vote because they would be weak when it came to understanding the issues and bearing the strains of a great war. My experience in South Wales last week is what has confirmed me in the belief that the women there understand perfectly what is at stake in this war. I believe they recognize as clearly as any that there can be no peace, progress, or happiness in the world so long as the monster of militarism is able to stalk unbridled and unashamed among the weaker peoples.

To them this war is a crusade of righteousness and gentleness, and they do not mean to make peace until the Allies have made it impossible for another carnival of violence to befall mankind. I am certain that this resolution of the women of South Wales is but typical of the spirit of the women of the rest of Great Britain.

This war began in order that force and brutality might crush out freedom among men. Its authors cannot have foreseen that one of its main effects would be to give women a commanding position and influence in the public affairs of the world. To their ennobling influence we look not only for strength to win the war, but for inspiration during the great work of reconstruction we will have to undertake after victory is won.

The women who have been flocking to France to work for the Allies are among the foremost leaders in this great movement of regeneration. My message to their representatives gathered in Paris is this: "Well done. Carry on. You are helping to create a new earth for yourselves and your children."

Foch Aims More Daring Strokes As the Germans Disclose Weakness

Noyon Salient Is Now Threatened So Seriously That Its Early Evacuation Is Predicted—Prisoner's Letter Shows Disgust at German Muddling.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Aug. 21.—General Mangin's advance, continued today, is big with promise for the immediate future. The progress that had been stayed for a brief period about noon yesterday, as the German divisions, broken by the first shock, were stiffened by reserves, was resumed in the afternoon, and by night the French left occupied Choisy Hill, more than four hundred feet higher than the low plain down to the Oise.

The night brought little fighting save in the region of Vezaponin, where the enemy launched a violent but abortive counterattack.

Today the French took the village of La Pommeraye on the northern slope of Choisy and reached the Oise along the main road from Blerancourt to Noyon.

The salient formed by the Ourscamps Forest and the Carlepont Wood cannot long remain in enemy hands. Indeed, it was reported last night that the evacuation had already begun. Operations will thus be facilitated against the Dreslincourt massif, across the river, which General Humbert's progress further west menaced considerably before, and the line can thus be re-established as it was before the Chemin des Dames battle, not only at a very small expense in lives, but in the face of resistance that has cost the enemy more than 10,000 prisoners, the loss of valuable material, and further depreciation of his morale.

Foch's Stroke Well Timed.

It is worth emphasizing that the whole operation has been less a separate battle than a second phase of the movement initiated by the Allies Aug. 8. Though the progress was slowed after that first rapid advance, it nevertheless has been continuous, if more piecemeal.

Foch's tactics are "nibbling," plus an occasional bite. Yesterday's stroke was a bite, but that does not mean that the allied generalissimo lacks the caution that inspired Joffre's historic saying.

Daring strategist as Foch is, and swift as he has been to strike if the enemy shows a weak point in his armor, he knows the real factors of the situation far too well to fling himself rashly into a colossal mass offensive for which certain armchair critics are clamoring. Though the Germans are much depressed and weakened, they still possess equality if not superiority of effectives, and it would be folly to fall into the same error of overconfidence that caused Hindenburg's downfall on the banks of the Marne.

German Numbers Less Potent.

On the other hand, a French soldier whose name, could I quote it, would entitle him to respect, expressed the opinion three days ago that the enemy really was less strong than he appeared to be according to numerical calculations. He emphasized the moral factor, the comparatively low value of other than the shock divisions—a guard officer prisoner declared last week that it was impossible to rely on the holding troops for "depth resistance"—the difficulties of transport and the terrible effects of the allied air activity. Perhaps he was right.

How conditions in the German Army actually compare with the Wolff or other official statements may be judged by extracts from two letters found on prisoners after the August defeat. The first was written on the 10th by a man in the Seventy-fifth Reserve Division, who says:

"The French occupied our first and second positions, and pierced our front for the length and depth of sixteen kilometers. It was an appalling muddle. I never saw the like. In short, all the ground we had gained ot the cost of so much blood on June 9 and 10 is now entirely lost."

The second letter by an under officer of a machine-gun company of the Forty-third Reserve, runs:

"I dare not say much about the military situation, but the division on our right broke and we found ourselves in a cul de sac and almost completely surrounded. There is a general retreat. Our regiment had orders to hold the enemy as long as possible. Soon rearguard fighting will begin and we are still surrounded."

Heroic Frenchman Decorated.

What the spirit of the French is was illustrated by the conduct of Marechal Logis Clement Darre, who was badly wounded in the eye while commanding a tank. At the same moment he learned that an officer commanding his unit had been killed. He immediately took the vacant place and despite his own suffering

GERMAN LINE IN DANGER

Flanking of Noyon and Fall of Roye May Follow French Successes.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Continuing their attacks in the territory northwest of Soissons, the troops under General Mangin today took Lassigny and advanced over a front of fifteen miles, piercing the German lines at some points to a depth of five miles.

It has been the general opinion of military commentators that the fall of Lassigny would mean that of Roye (the important German base to the north) as well.

Southeast of Lassigny the French by gaining a footing in Plemont and Chiry-Ourscamps menace the German hold on the valley of the Divette.

Further east, across the Oise, Mangin's forces have reached the river from the south between Sempigny and Pontoise, and are within a mile of the city.

Within the area of reconquered territory, which extends nearly to Soissons, the French have in the last twenty-four hours driven the Germans from about twenty villages.

Foe Losing Grip on the Oise.

FRENCH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 21, (Reuter.)—As a result of recent French victories the enemy's grip on his fronts on both sides of the Oise is relaxing, and on the left bank he frankly is falling back before the unremitting pressure of General Mangin's infantry.

Between Lassigny and the Oise the enemy has been pressed back to the line of heights overlooking the Divette River. Although the Germans are still holding Plemont, French forces from the west have reached the outskirts of the village.

Host of Prisoners Taken.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.)—On the right wing of the battlefront east of the Oise the French rushed their attack vigorously during the morning, taking Laval and arriving at the edge of Pommiers, which lies about two miles northwest of Soissons.

Several thousand more prisoners have been taken, one army corps capturing 1,600.

This advance brings the French troops to the plateau north of the Aisne, which will facilitate future operations by General Mangin's right.

The Germans brought up reinforcements during the night and are heavily counterattacking at Vezaponin, on the right of the Aisne-Oise battle line. They are obviously seeking to relieve the heavy pressure of General Mangin's men on their right in the region of Carlepont Forest. The attack on Vezaponin had only the result of largely increasing the German losses, as the French maintained their positions there.

Resuming their attacks this morning, the French gained further important successes, capturing the better part of the Carlepont Wood and reaching the Oise east of Sempigny. This advance enabled them to take on the flank by their artillery fire the important position of Mont Renaud on the other side of the river, which is still occupied by the Germans.

Further east Selena and la Pommeraye were occupied, giving the French command of the entire valley of the Oise south and southeast of Noyon.

The fighting has extended all along the battlefront from the Aisne to the Oise with the aid of the aviators, who are being favored by ideal weather for flying. The airmen have hindered greatly the movement of the enemy troops, bombarding bridges over the Oise and convoys and concentrations of troops. They also have accompanied the infantry in its progress, attacking the enemy's infantry with machine guns.

Humbert's Big Gains.

On the west side of the Oise General Humbert's troops, resuming their attacks against the Germans today, crowned their persistent efforts over difficult ground by taking Lassigny, the cornerstone of the German position south of the Avre River since the fall of Montdidier.

Plemont, the important height southeast of Lassigny, where violent struggles took place in April, and which bars the way to the Divette Valley from the west, was surrounded by Humbert's troops, thus opening up a way for the French infantry to pursue the Germans down the valley.

The Orvel Wood also was occupied, and General Humbert's men, advancing along the road from Ribecourt to Noyon, reached the region south of Chiry-Ourscamps.

The German resistance appeared to weaken during the day, both the artillery and infantry letting down in the efforts they had made in the last few days to bar the way to the French.

LUDENDORFF'S BOASTS ARE PROVED FALSE

Paris Rejoices In Quick Demonstration by Allies That His Prophecies Were Wrong.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Paris regards with intense satisfaction the undoubted success of the third offensive which Marshal Foch launched the last fortnight. This satisfaction is all the greater from the revelation by this morning's papers that on Aug. 4 Ludendorff sought to comfort his perpetually harassed troops by the promulgation of an order in which he asserted that neither the French, British nor Americans were able to undertake further offensive operations which have been powerfully repulsed, and that measures had been taken to place masses of infantry and artillery to such a depth that "we can meet with the greatest confidence any enemy attack."

Four days after this order appeared the British attacked between the Ancre and the Avre. A day or two later the French, under General Humbert, took the offensive between the Avre and the Oise, and last Sunday another French army, under General Mangin, carried the offensive further east from the Oise to the Aisne, repeating the dose by another staggering blow yesterday in the same territory.

These four uniformly heavy blows and their unanswerable accompanying arguments in the shape of more than 50,000 prisoners and the redemption of many square miles of invaded territory Paris regards as sufficiently enlightening to depress the morale of the German troops, even as low as Ludendorff fears it to be.

Another statement by Ludendorff that the war will not be won by stubborn defensive fighting, but by a series of violent attacks, is also recalled with great relish here. In this connection it is realized fully that in the matter of offensives the Germans have everything to learn from such a past master of aggressive tactics as Foch has now proved himself to be.

Foch's whole method of handling the allied armies since he took the offensive on July 18 is the admiration of every expert in France. What is especially appreciated is the contrast btween Foch's fine, scientific method and the clumsy work of the German high command. Day after day for the last fortnight the great battle, begun in the Albert region Aug. 8, has developed harmoniously and extended daily.

From the Ancre to the extreme point reached yesterday to the west of Soissons the battlefront now covers more than forty-eight miles. The Picardy battle is now joined with that begun between Soissons and the Marne on July 18, and from now on it is safe to predict that the names of the Soissons and the Chemin-des-Dames country will begin again to appear in the communiqués.

Never have the Germans been able to bring on an engagement on such a long extent of continuous front. Up to July 15 their greatest effort was a bull-like rush on a continuous line less than forty-four miles in extent.

On the evening of the second day he had reduced the great number of machine gun nests, taken two Minenwerfer, eight trench cannon, eight machine guns, and two field guns. When decorated with the Military Medal on the battlefield, he said simply:

BRITISH FOUND MERVILLE ABANDONED

By HENRY W. NEVINSON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Aug. 20.—British troops gained a very considerable success by the occupation of Merville. It is about two miles from the southeast end of the Forest of Nieppe, and it marked the furthest point of the enemy's great advance of last Spring and the apex of his salient, which projected roughly between Deailleul and Béthune.

Along the whole line beside the Bourre River and the outskirts of Nieppe Forest, the troops have been gradually pushing the German outposts back to the extent of a mile or two, and yesterday morning they found Merville abandoned and quietly entered its ruins without opposition. The Prussian 2d Guards Reserve Division had been there before, and their withdrawal, perhaps, marks more or less a general retirement from the German salient mentioned above.

It is true the enemy has a wired line passing through Neuf Berquin about three miles northeast of Merville, and perhaps another wired line further east, but the commanding ridge just gained at Outtersteene, near Merris, outflanks the former line, and, though the retirement may be slow and marked by several delaying actions, it is possible the enemy may find no abiding city till he is back among the dreary and deserted streets of coal-mining Armentières. He is reported, however, to be holding in some strength at La Coutre. In any case, a general withdrawal from the Merville salient to the straightened line is calculated to save him the men of about two divisions.

I have today seen a significant captured order signed by General von Marwitz, commanding the German 2d Army, but issued by the commanding officers of the 41st and 108th Divisions, which were among those opposed to General Rawlinson's 4th Army in its recent successful advance between the Ancre and the Roye road. It complains that outposts and even whole battalions are frequently captured almost without resistance for want of proper sentry duty and careful watchfulness. It states that battalions in the front line ought to be particularly on guard when opposed to Australians, who are trained in the bush to creep over ground unobserved and specially dangerous among standing corn, in which they entirely conceal themselves.

The order concludes by saying that, above all things, the men must fight and never surrender. They must remember that victory cannot be won by defensive but only by victorious action and assault.

Certainly, in the great forward movement of the last twelve days, the Australians have well earned the compliment of this warning, and by their conduct proved the vital importance of movement and assault. No praise can be too high for them, but at the same time one need not forget the Canadians and the familiar old British divisions which shared in the honor.

Another German army order complains that many letters from men contain precise indications as to the locality of the writer's unit, as well as accounts of their enemies' successes. The order concludes:

"It must be made clear that the morale at home is very seriously influenced by news coming from the front, and that it is an offense, by sending home pessimistic letters, to arouse anxieties from where there is in reality no ground."

AMERICAN PLANES CHEER OUR TROOPS

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

in the prediction that America is to make bombing the biggest war air work. Between the work of the chase wasp and the heavy bombing machine there is the difference between a machine gun and a heavy cannon. It is the machine gunner who can bravely stand off the enemy close at hand, but it is the gunner of the big field piece who can send destruction and fear far back into the enemy's lines.

Value of Air Bombers.

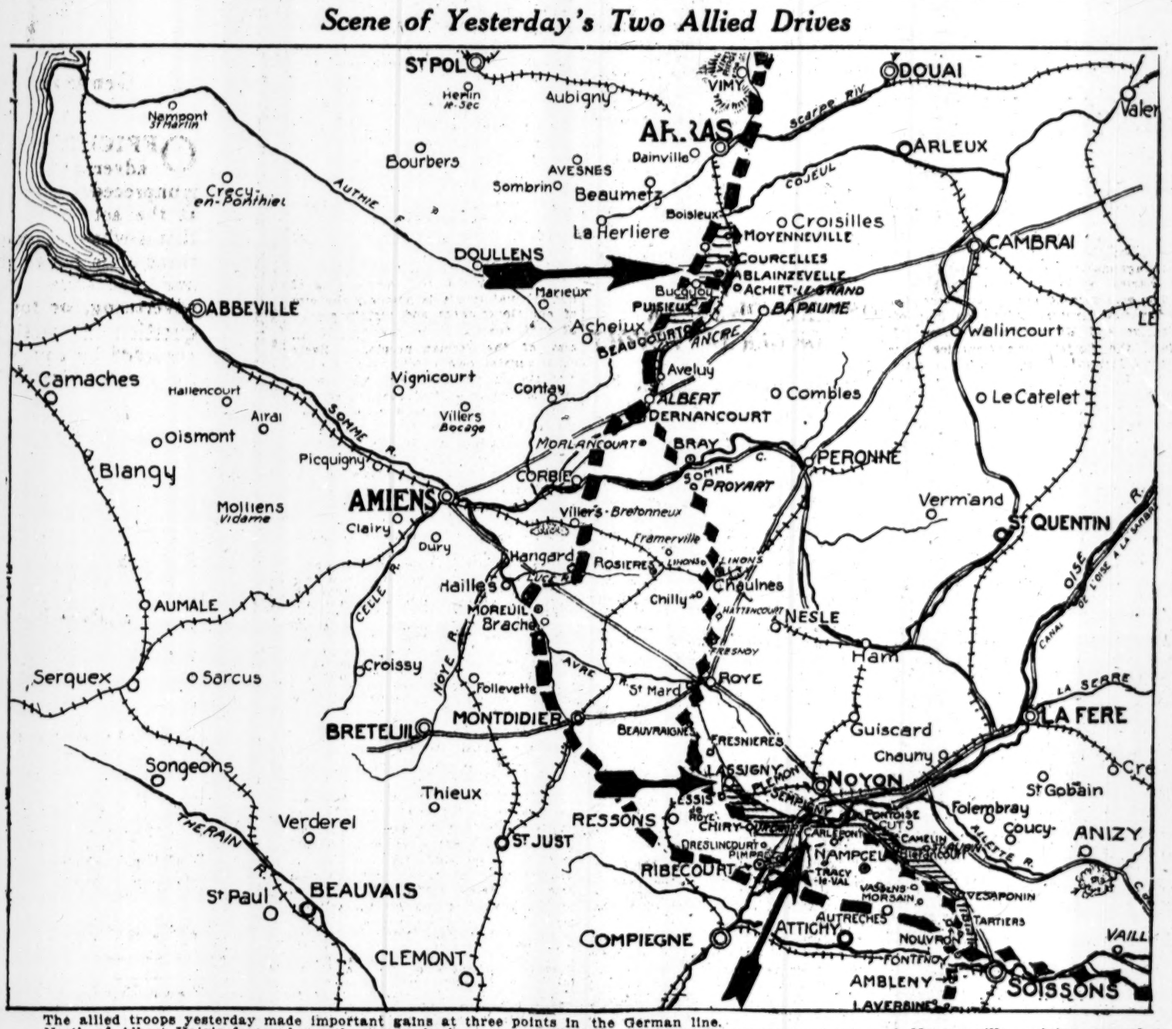
Air bombers in thousands from America can do wonders toward early victory. If America puts 5,000 bombing airplanes to work by next Spring she will have done her part in the air. One who has seen much of the work of German bombers in the last few weeks almost shudders to think of the havoc that could be done by a flight of 1,000 American bombers back of the Hun lines.

I believe it is safe to say that 1,000 bombing machines could have turned the tide of any big battle in this war. English and French bombers have already done such work as to make the Germans begin to squeal, and certainly it is telling no secret to the boche to say that they have had nothing like 5,000 bombing planes at their disposal. Let France supply the chase machines if she is best fitted for it. Let America supply the bombing machines.

I have good authority for saying that the American air service can man 5,000 bombing machines next Spring. Certainly there will be no great difficulty about their ammunition. The machines are what is needed. To keep 5,000 bombing planes in service would probably require monthly replacements of 1,000 machines, so that such a program would be a large undertaking but one to which American production should be equal.

Should America not evolve chase machines in addition to bombing machines, many observation airplanes will be needed. Such are those American machines which for the last two weeks have been on our front. They are equipped with Liberty motors and armed with machine guns. They are not chase machines or, properly speaking, fighting machines. Their guns are not used aggressively but for protection against enemy chase machines. In type they are modeled after the British DH-4.

Scene of Yesterday's Two Allied Drives



The allied troops yesterday made important gains at three points in the German line.

North of Albert Haig's forces drove the enemy back on a ten-mile front between Beaucourt-sur-Ancre and Moyenneville, gaining ground to a depth of two miles or more.

Lassigny fell before the attacks of the French, who also won important positions to the southeast of the town.

Farther east, across the Oise, the French under General Mangin pushed northward and reached a point on the river within a mile of Noyon, which is thus put in imminent peril, and continued their victorious northward advance over a front of approximately fifteen miles, extending nearly to Soissons.

been a great force of German reserves when the battle began, but by this time the harassed enemy certainly is rushing men to the scene as fast as he can, for another disaster threatens him.

Battle Opened in Thick Fog.

The battle opened with a sudden crash of guns of all calibres just as day was breaking. Great billows of thick fog, such as are seen only on this side of the Atlantic, hung over the scene. The infantrymen and tank crews could scarcely see a hundred feet ahead of them, and the flare of countless blazing cannon was smothered, while explosions from their mouths rolled up into a continuous deadened roar.

The fog was most favorable to the attacking formations, for it effectually shielded them from the eyes of the enemy and at the same time caused the Germans opposite to believe that the attack was not directly against them.

"The guns sounded a long way off," said one of the prisoners, "so we congratulated ourselves that we were not to be attacked. Just then a tank, followed by infantry, rolled right over our position, and I surrendered."

Smoke Screen Aids the Attack.

As tanks and men followed behind the sweeping barrage, the atmosphere became even more thick, for mixed with the fog were great banks of smoke from innumerable shells fired for just this purpose of increasing the protecting screen.

The German guns retaliated only feebly, but there was sharp fighting at various points, where isolated posts filled with machine guns put up a stiff battle. At the little shell-ruined village of Courcelles, about the centre of the battlefront, the German garrison made a desperate fight, and for a time the advance of the infantry was held up at this place.

But when the tanks arrived on the scene they charged into the enemy positions, quickly transforming them from strongholds to shambles. The tanks repeated this performance at other places in the line, where the Germans held out courageously. But their courage availed them nothing in the face of the great tanks, which dipped in and out of shell holes and across old trenches that have seen some of the war's fiercest fighting, and the smaller whippet tanks and armored cars, which sped over the ground at high speed.

They were dashing forward on their mission of clearing the way for the infantry sweeping in at the rear of the positions from which the enemy was working his guns.

In comparison with the harder fighting it is worthy of mention that at some places no resistance of any practical importance developed. For instance, the village of Beaucourt was taken with only three casualties. One wounded man returning from the fighting said he went in three kilometers through the enemy lines before seeing a single German. But this is explained by the fact that the German positions were very thinly held at some points.

As to prisoners there is no definite information, but more than 1,000 have reached the cages, and they have come in from a considerable distance, most of them having been captured during the early fighting. Some of the first prisoners arrived at the cages with handbags and long curved porcelain pipes. They seemed clean, and were as pleased with themselves as if going on leave. One of them, on being questioned, said he was very happy to be taken.

A wounded British soldier told of being separated from his platoon in the fog, but said he pressed on, nevertheless, and joined other groups. Another said that, plunging blindly through the fog, he ran directly into a German machine gun, which opened fire on him. It managed to get in one shot, taking off a finger before he and his comrades finished off the Germans with their rifles.

Airmen Active as Fog Clears.

In the early forenoon the fog cleared away completely, and the sun appeared, and ever since the battle has been going on under a broiling sun. As the fog disappeared the roar of airplane motors increased, the British machines pursuing the same tactics as at the Somme, harassing the enemy at the rear and strafing the German troops generally, upsetting them completely at many places.

The fast little whippet tanks had, as one tank officer said, "gone out into the wide world," and there is no doubt that they are exacting as great a toll here as they did south of the Somme. The armored cars had gone into action also, operating far forward, chasing the Germans from their lairs and making quick work of those who would not run.

In this battle the advancing troops did not stop a moment at their early objectives. Several formations joined forces and pressed on together. Successive échelons were merged at a place where the going was heavy.

A more difficult and desolate country for fighting does not exist anywhere. While the ground is flat, it is cut to pieces with trenches and shell holes, and is covered with old and new wire entanglements.

It is obvious that the Allies, having driven into the enemy's stomach at the Marne and delivered a smashing blow to the right ear south of the Somme, are now giving him a jolt on the left jaw, which may make him even more groggy before he has had time to recover from the other two defeats.

A stream of wounded Germans is trickling back, but it is noticeable that here, as in the battles south of the Somme, the British casualties have been excessively light. This, probably, is partly due to the efficiency of the tanks.

FOCH SPURS COAL MINERS.

Tells British Federation That "Coal Is the Key to Victory."

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Haig, and Admiral Beatty, Commander in Chief of the Grand Fleet, sent messages to the meeting of the Coal Miners' Federation at Southampton yesterday, urging a greater output of coal.

"Coal is the key of victory. The miners of Great Britain must help me," was the message from Marshal Foch.

FRENCH SOCIALIST OPPOSITION BREAKS

MAY RE-ENTER THE CABINET

New Propaganda for Relations with German Socialists Has Proved a Failure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—A declaration published this morning by Albert Thomas in Humanité may be regarded as meaning in plain language that the French Parliamentary Socialist Party has decided to relinquish its old practice of threatening to carry its opposition to the Clemenceau Cabinet to the extreme point of refusing to vote future war credits. This marks another step in the tendency of the French Socialists towards coming into complete alignment with the British and American labor organizations on the question of the war.

It is becoming clearer as the weeks go by that the real feeling of the French Socialists is represented by Thomas and his forty brother Deputies, who formally washed their hands of all taint of internationalism when they broke away from the main body of the party a few weeks ago. As the Thomas section of the party numbers two-fifths of the whole party representation in the Chamber, it is evident that the propaganda advocating a resumption of friendly relations with the enemy Socialists has proved to be a failure, despite the frantic efforts in Switzerland of Troelstra to revive the proposal for an international congress.

Thomas bases his declaration on a motion passed by the Socialist Congress at Bordeaux, which laid down the axiom that voting war credits during the war was a symbol of national defense and that the Socialist Party, before refusing to vote further credits, must be convinced that the Government asking for them was animated by imperialist motives or was a government of treason before the enemy or tending to betray the Republic régime. Ignoring the later vote of the Seine Socialist Congress, which led to Longuet and the Internationalists being placed in nominal command of the party, Thomas points out that the real underlying reason for threatening to refuse to vote war credits was a measure of reprisal against the Government for refusing to grant passports for the Stockholm international conference and refusing to discuss the alleged Austrian peace proposals and similar questions, in a word as a means of expressing opposition to the policy of the Government.

The question of voting war credits, Thomas insists, must not be allowed to degenerate into a weapon of mere Parliamentary opposition to Clemenceau or any other Cabinet. "Even if it is our duty to carry on vigorous opposition to Clemenceau," he adds, "we shall vote the credits all the same."

Thomas's statement will tend to clear the air in view of the coming Socialist Congress in Paris; from which many things may arise. Among them, it is rumored, is a possible return of Thomas to the Cabinet.

The real gain accruing from even a nominal reconciliation of the French Socialists with the Government would not be great, as the party commands in the Chamber only about a hundred votes out of nearly six hundred. Outwardly, however, such a step would mark a reaffirmation of the unity of the French people, which so splendidly characterized the first year or so of the war and the practical result would be, now that the enemy seems to be well on the road to defeat, greatly to strengthen the hands of France as to the nature of the terms to be imposed at the peace conference.

DISCORD 'TWIXT KAISERS VIENNESE NOW LEARN

Disagree Both on West Front Aid and Solution of the Polish Question.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Vienna dispatches deny that the conference between Emperor William and Emperor Charles resulted in an agreement between Austria and Germany, according to advices to The Daily Mail from The Hague. It is said that Germany appears to have reached an agreement with the Provisional Government of Poland over the head of Austria.

It is reported that the Germans have rejected Austria's plan for increasing the forces on the western front, while Austria rejected provisionally the German solution of the Polish question. This does not mean, it is added, that the plan to send a large Austrian force to the western front has been abandoned.

Prince Ferdinand Radziwill of the Polish Government Council, who attended the recent conference at German Headquarters, wires to the Warsaw Government that the "Polish question received very favorable treatment," according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. His telegram is quoted as follows:

"With the exception of the first Polish demand relative to the appointment of a King, the German Government accepts the demands of Poland. The western frontier will not be changed, while the frontier to the east will be left provisionally open. Germany declares that she does not intend to meddle in the internal affairs of Poland, not even concerning the Polish Army, which is to be used to protect the Polish-Russian frontier."

JAPANESE ASTONISHED BY COUNTRY-WIDE RIOTS

Outbreaks Not Marked by Anti-Foreign or Anti-Dynastic Manifestations.

TOKIO, Aug. 18, (Associated Press.)—The violence of the food riots and the rapidity with which they enveloped the country have astonished the Japanese. No such disturbances have convulsed the nation since the days of the restoration.

The movement appears to be entirely economic and social and has no political aspect except as it is directed against the Japanese Ministry, which is popularly regarded as bureaucratic.

From the protest against the prohibitive price of Japan's substitute for bread anti-wealth demonstrations developed. The property of the rich especially was attacked. The residences of a number of millionaires were burned to the ground and immense damage was done to the property of merchants dealing with the people and in particular those suspected of excessive profiteering. Not a single instance of anti-foreign manifestation has been reported and the movement has constantly been marked by impressive expressions of loyalty to the Imperial dynasty.

Anarchistic elements frequently led the mobs, but there has been no evidence of the Bolshevist tendencies such as have prevailed in Russia. The newspapers of Osaka condemn the Ministry for its failure to prevent the outbreaks and the resignation of the Cabinet is demanded.

The ringleaders of the rioting at Kobe who, flourishing their swords, led the mob, were killed on the spot. Most of the arrests were made by detectives who mingled with the crowds chalking a cross on the backs of the ringleaders and then capturing them when the riots were over.

Official Reports of the Day's Operations

British

LONDON, Aug. 21.

Night Report.—An attack launched this morning on a front of ten miles from the Ancre to the neighborhood of Moyenneville was successful on the whole of the front. We penetrated deeply into the positions of the enemy and have taken numbers of prisoners.

In the opening assault, under a mist, we captured the villages of Beaucourt-sur-Ancre, Puisieux-au-Mont, Bucquoy, Ablainzeville, and Moyenneville. Afterward we continued our advance to the neighborhood of the Albert-Arras Railway, capturing Achiet-le-Petit, the Logeast Wood, and Courcelles.

West of Achiet-le-Petit a strong counterattack was repulsed.

Patrol fighting has taken place also on the Lys front, as a result of which our line has been advanced in the neighborhood of Le Touret, east of Paradis, and between Merville and Outtersteene. A few prisoners were taken by us in these encounters.

In a successful local operation, carried out by us this morning south of Locre we captured 138 prisoners.

Day Report.—We attacked at 4:35 o'clock this morning on a wide front north of the Ancre River. Our troops are reported to be making satisfactory progress.

Yesterday afternoon strong hostile attacks, accompanied by heavy bombardments, against our new positions south and north of the Scarpe were completely repulsed.

We improved our positions slightly in the neighborhood of Fampoux (east of Arras) and captured a few prisoners.

We advanced our line during the night between Festubert and the Lawe River (on the southern side of the Lys salient) and are in possession of Le Touret.

Early this morning British troops carried out a successful local operation in the Locre sector on a front of over a mile. All the objectives of the attack were taken and a number of prisoners were captured.

French

PARIS, Aug. 21.

Night Report.—Between the Matz and the Oise the enemy, despite his resistance, gave way under the energetic thrust of our troops, and Lassigny fell into our hands.

Further south we gained a footing on Plemont and occupied Orval Wood. We carried our lines to the outskirts of Chiry-Ourscamps.

East of the Oise our troops continued their success during the course of the day. On the left Carlepont Wood fell into our power, and we reached the Oise to the east of Noyon between Sempigny and Pontoise.

Further east we crossed the road between Noyon and Coucy-le-Château. We took Camelin-et-le-Fresne and Blérancourt and advanced our lines to the outskirts of St. Aubin.

Since yesterday we have liberated about twenty villages and advanced eight kilometers at certain points.

Day Report.—During the night the situation between the Oise and the Aisne remained unchanged. The enemy did not attempt any reaction. This morning our troops continued their advance along the whole front.

Carlepont and Cuts have fallen into our hands.

We have taken ground west of Lassigny after sharp fighting.

A number of German surprise attacks in Champagne were repulsed.

BERLIN, Aug. 21, (via London.)

Night Report.—In Flanders there have been partial engagements west of Kemmel.

North of the Ancre strong English attacks, launched on a wide front in the direction of Bapaume, broke down with heavy losses.

Day Report.—Near Neuf Berquin and Merville and south of the Lys infantry detachments which had been left behind in the forefield of our new lines beat back several British thrusts and partial attacks.

In these engagements our machine guns and artillery inflicted considerable losses on the enemy.

There have been infantry encounters on both sides of the Scarpe and north of the Ancre.

Northwest of Rye a division, consisting of Guards and Lower Saxon reserve regiments, which since Aug. 9 has been fighting at the foci of the battle, beat off renewed strong enemy attacks. During the thrust which it made into the enemy's lines we captured prisoners.

Between the Avre and the Oise the artillery duels increased in the afternoon to great intensity. On both sides of Crapeau-Mesnil and north and south of Lassigny and the heights southwest of Noyon the enemy several times advanced in strong attacks. The attacks broke down under our fire or in counter-attacks.

On the battlefield between the Ancre and the Avre, according to the reports of our troops since Aug. 8, more than 500 of the enemy have been taken or been destroyed by the effect of our fire.

Between the Oise and the Aisne a renewed attempt by the enemy to break through, which had been expected for some days and which had been preceded on Aug. 18 and 19 by strong attacks, began yesterday. After the strongest increase in the firing, white and colored French troops, supported by numerous tanks, attacked in the early morning in deep formation on a twenty-five-kilometer front. They penetrated our front lines in places.

Toward midday the first assault of the enemy into our fighting positions on the line of Carlepont, south of Blerancourt, Vesaponin, and Pommiers, was broken. Strong counterattacks by German chasseur regiments drove the enemy, who had been thrusting forward for a time on the Juvigny Ridge, back to Bieuxy.

The French continued their bitter attacks until late in the evening, when they collapsed on the whole of the front under the fire of our artillery and partly in counter-thrusts.

The attempts of the enemy to break through have been brought to a standstill on the first battle day with severe losses to him, notwithstanding his reckless bringing in of forces. Our battle aviators took an effective part in repelling the attacks.

In nocturnal flights our bomb squadrons successfully attacked with bombs and machine gun fire the adversary, who was densely concentrated in villages and on railroads and highways.

U.S. TROOPS GUARD SIBERIAN ROAD

Release Several Hundred Czechoslovaks to Reinforce the Ussuri River Front.

EMERSON REPAIRING LINE

American Engineers About Whom Anxiety Was Felt Are Busy Near Lake Baikal.

REDS SLAUGHTER OFFICERS

Hundreds Out of 15,000 Arrested at Moscow Have Been Put to Death.

VLADIVOSTOK, Aug. 17, (Associated Press.) — According to the request of General Diedrichs, the commander of the Czechoslovak forces in Siberia, the head of the American forces recently landed here is dispatching a limited number of troops to occupy points along the railroad between this city and Nikolsk, the junction point of the Trans-Siberian Railway with the line running to Khabarovsk. This will release several hundred of the Czechoslovaks for service on the Ussuri front.

Assuming that the Japanese will take responsibility for safeguarding the line from Nikolsk to Khabarovsk, there is an apparent need that the Americans provide for the operation of the Trans-Siberian Railway westward to Manchuria Station, where a serious clash with the enemy is inevitable. This operation would be under allied supervision, and is made possible through the presence of the party of railroad experts under the leadership of John F. Stevens. This party includes 250 men, among whom are railway executives.

The allied commanders are impressed with the fact that the 1,200 miles of single track line, which constitutes the only communication between the coast and the field of operation, is only 20 per cent. efficient as at present operated. This is in spite of the fact that the physical condition of the property is excellent. The lack of efficiency, it is held, presents an unjustifiable peril to the success of the undertaking.

It is recognized that, as a military measure, Vladivostok and its vicinity should be under martial law, which would insure the uninterrupted operation of the railroads and telegraph and protect the stores, which include large quantities of explosives.

The third contingent of American troops arrived here last night. Because of the heavy rain the Americans did not parade.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 16.—Colonel George H. Emerson and party, for whom grave fears were felt because no tidings had been received from them for over two months, are now co-operating with the Czechoslovak troops near Irkutsk, according to a telegram just received from Colonel Emerson. The party is engaged in repairing bridges destroyed by the Bolshevist forces.

Czechoslovak forces are completely in control of the railway from Lake Baikal to the Ural mountains. It is reported that 10,000 Czechoslovaks are on their way to the Manchurian front and that the Japanese are going from Vladivostok to the Ussuri front, where they are replacing Czechoslovak forces which have been fighting there.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—General Otani, commander of the Entente allied forces in Siberia, who has arrived at Vladivostok from Japan, planned as his official act to review the American soldiers landed at the Russian seaport, according to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Vladivostok, dated Sunday.

Czechoslovak leaders left Vladivostok Saturday, the newspaper adds, for Washington and Tokio to urge the sending of more assistance to Siberia.

HUNDREDS OF OFFICERS EXECUTED BY LENINE

Details of Congress of Soviets Show Final Breach Between Revolutionary Parties.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 21.—Several hundred of 15,000 officers arrested in Moscow have been shot, according to a letter written in Moscow on Aug. 14 by Dr. Alfons Paquet and published in the Frankfort Zeitung.

Some of the officers who had renounced Russian citizenship and acquired German or Polish passes were released at the request of the German Consul General. The remainder were sent to a concentration camp surrounded by artillery. The officers, it is added, were subjected to conditions "beggaring all description." Those imprisoned included a number of former Generals and Colonels.

Dr. Paquet says that several hundred British and French business men have been arrested in Moscow, and adds that further arrests of representatives of the Moscow bourgeois are expected. If this proves inadequate to maintain order, he continues, "a reign of terror with public executions is unavoidable."

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A final breach between the two revolutionary parties in Russia was manifest from the opening of the Fifth Congress of All-Russian Soviets at Moscow early in July, according to a number of belated Reuter dispatches covering happenings in Russia during the first half of that month.

Uproarious scenes and recrimination marked the meeting of the Congress. An assertion that a majority of the people in the provinces were opposed to Soviet rule was made by Maria Spiridonova of the Social Revolutionists of the Left. [A Moscow dispatch received in Amsterdam on July 26 reported that Maria Spiridonova had been one of the number of Social Revolutionists shot for the murder of German Ambassador von Mirbach.]

The outstanding feature of the Congress was the denunciation by War Minister Trotzky of the action of the Allies in landing on the Murman coast and in helping the Czechoslovaks. He threatened merciless measures of defense, and on July 18 M. Tchitcherin in a note to the British representatives in Moscow made a sinister reference to "the results which may arise from the excitement caused among the masses of the Russian population by the unprovoked British attack on Murman."

On the same day eleven former officers who had served under General Alexeieff were summarily shot in Moscow as counter-revolutionaries. On July 18 French and British military officers were prohibited from moving from one town to another and a strict watch on their movements was ordered.

Reds Renounce Baltic Provinces.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21.—The Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, a copy of which has been received here, asserts that it learns on good authority that the Soviet Government in Russia has formally declared its disinterestedness in the former Russian Baltic provinces.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The allied strategy is now showing forth in full bloom. The Germans are getting no peace. Just as soon as it appears that they have one centre guarded against attack, the offensive breaks out against another. But all of the offensive moves, be it noted, have a central scheme which recent developments have only now made apparent.

The allied strategy in this is following closely the lines of that behind the German scheme of attacks which began on March 21. First was the offensive in Picardy, which drew up and halted after the Montdidier salient was formed. Then came the offensive in Flanders with the idea of linking up the line in the north to that in the south by breaking down the defenses of Arras. This feature, however, was, as we know, a complete failure. Then came the offensive along the Chemin des Dames, widely separated from the Picardy battlefield and generally, but erroneously, interpreted as an independent disconnected move.

The next move was an attempt to couple these two offensives by a drive down the valley of the Matz River, which would break down the bridge between Picardy and the Marne. This also failed, but its purpose was none the less obvious.

Now General Foch is working on very much the same lines. His scheme was worked out long before the offensive was launched near Soissons. The various attacks were anticipated and most thoroughly prepared for. After the Marne offensive, the Allies were held up along the Vesle River. After fighting of varying degrees of intensity, the scene of activity suddenly shifted westward to Montdidier, where the attack was launched. This attack was also successful, but finally came to a practical halt along the Chaulnes-Roye-Lassigny line.

Foch then tried to do exactly what the Germans had attempted—he began an effort to break down the bridge between Lassigny and the Aisne-Vesle front. He has, however, been much more successful in this attempt than the Germans have been, and has made very excellent progress on both sides of the Oise. He has but a little distance to go before his object is achieved and as the lay of the ground is in his favor these appears to be a very good chance of his getting there.

There is one decided difference in the ideas behind the offensive as a whole. The Germans have directed their efforts toward no particular point. They were simply trying to break through. In every case we are able to say with almost certainty that Foch's efforts have had a positive objective. In the case of the Marne it was first Soissons, then Fère en Tardenois. In the present offensive in the south it is Noyons. In the British offensive which was launched yesterday morning it is Bapaume. These are the main German bases and distributing points in the various regions, and their capture will greatly handicap the Germans in subsequent operations.

Incidentally, in making his various moves, Foch is inflicting very serious losses on the Germans both in men and material. Since July 1, at fewest, 100,000 men have been captured alone. How many the Allies have lost is, of course, unknown as yet. But one thing is distinctly noticeable in the allied methods! Just as soon as the fighting at a given point has stiffened so that the defense is in a position, by reason of the reserves who have been fed up to the front, to inflict losses upon the offense as heavily as, or heavier than, it sustains itself, the fighting is for the moment broken off. Then it has suddenly switched to the right or left of the reinforced front, and what could have been taken by frontal attack only with heavy loss is taken by a flanking movement with much reduced losses.

The difference in method is characteristic of the two belligerents. On the one side is a power which regards man as having been created for no other purpose than to wage war. He is either food for powder or is not worth considering. On the other is a power which regards human life as sacred, and which will take it only when forced by desperate emergency. By these methods the allied commander is saving his men, but at the same time is accomplishing his object.

We have had numerous instances of this in recent fighting. From Roye to Bray the German line had been stiffened to the point where an advance against it would be made only after the severest kind of fighting and with heavy casualties. Suddenly the fighting here was broken off and, during the ten days which have elapsed, it has not been renewed. But in an altogether new quarter a fresh attack has broken out which, if successful, will force the retirement of the German line to new positions east of the Somme and the Canal du Nord, giving up the places which had been so stubbornly defended.

This attack was the British attack of yesterday between Boisleux and Beaumont. The attack has been extremely successful in its preliminary stages. The net result must be that Germany will be hard put to it to defend any of the positions in this sector to which she has been so stubbornly clinging.

RUSSIA BETRAYED, HARDEN DECLARES

Calls Brest Treaties an "Unredeemable Crime" of Austro-German Diplomacy.

LIKE A PRIZE THROWN AWAY

Sees Grim Omen in Events at Moscow and Warns Germany to Make Amends.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The London Times gives the following extracts from a recent article by Maxmilian Harden in Zukunft. Moralizing on the death of the ex-Emperor Nicholas of Russia, Harden says:

"The world will not forget that it was Nicholas who procured for the idea of disarmament a resounding annunciation and that the opening of the Hague conference was for him as the dawn of a new life. History may discern in his character many signs of flickering weakness, but no ignoble trait of will • • • If the second Nicholas ever had a program it was to be mindful of the injunction of his namesake before him —to do on the throne all that lay in his power in order to win from the masses that looked up to him forgiveness for the monstrous prerogatives of the crown. • • •

"Nicholas Alexandrovitch, whom only light minds can regard as the last of the Czars, the last even of the Gottorps, sought to establish peace as firm as a rock. He summoned the nations to disarm and banned alcohol from Russia. That he willed these three things, history will some day write down to his credit in her book. His conquerors who gave themselves out to be the savior of mankind, the universal Messiah, have worked in eight months more horror and woe than he wrought in eight years • • • All their attempts to translate the great French revolution into Russian have merely landed them so deep in blood that they imagine they can earn Germany's commendation by reporting that so far 130 persons have been shot on suspicion of complicity in the murder of the German envoy at Moscow.'

Russia Not Dead.

"But Russia is not dead yet. Never forget that. The might of Russia, still ungainly and like a child, cannot be broken from without. Nor, as our Generals testify, has it been broken even in this war by any superior strength of Germany. Only from within has this power been paralyzed for a season by an incomprehensible miracle, or, if you will, by the poison of Leninite world communism."

The Brest treaties, Herr Harden declares, are a crime, the unredeemable sin of Austro-German diplomacy as represented by Czernin and Kühlmann. If, he says, as Czernin glibly suggested, the two belligerent groups were to submit their respective demands to arbitration by a neutral State the first demand of the western powers would be, "the annulment of all eastern treaties, since their survival would amount to the creation of a supremacy akin to world hegemony, and since they are indignantly rejected by the sentiment of the little Russians, of the Rumanians, the Letts, Lithuanians and Esthonians and most Poles and of the Finnish proletariat • • • the advocates of the Brest and Bucharest treaties have exhibited no trace of serious political morality. Nowhere have they manifested either a spark of intelligence for the sacred value of the personality of peoples or any sense of the unpardonable wantonness of gambling with nations in order to meet the interest on a temporary bill. Nothing but rhetorical tricks fit enough to qualify their authors to be the devil's advocates • • •

Missed a Rare Chance.

"Lenine's successful coup accrued to the quadruple Allies after the utmost military exertions on their part, like the grand prize in a lottery," he writes. "Had they honestly conceded all the idealist demands of Leninites; had they concluded a large-handed peace, then from Lake Peipus to the Black Sea, all the troops [not as now, merely a majority of them] would have been made available for service elsewhere. Then, indeed, all the raw materials and foodstuffs so urgently needed could have been had for the purchasing, and the peasants, workmen and traders, spared and treated with consideration by the invader, would have become firmly reconciled to the German spirit of such a peace.

"Such a peace, at the same time, would have opened the door to the west and might, after a brief interval, perhaps, have borne back to us, either from the White House or from the camp of the Allied Socialists, some echo such as this. 'Since the Germans are so manifestly resolved to restrict themselves within the bounds of good sense and moderation, it would be unpardonable folly to kick against a general discussion of peace questions.'

"No lapse of years can redeem the sin of Count Czernin and of Herr Von Kühlemann, in that they allowed this harvest of mercy, paid for in blood, to be swept away at the very door of the barn, and in that by their lust for the plaudits of a day they dissipated the profits of this grand prize. • • • The fruit of their world jugglery, the outcome of their despicable little game, now with a promise of free democracy and now with a threat of brute force, is that without the slightest need, almost everywhere from Kola to the lower Danube enemies are arrayed against us, and that at every Socialist meeting in Western lands warnings are loud against a people whose inmost aspiration has been laid bare by the treaties of Brest and Bukharest.

"The voice of duty now urgently enjoins that these treaties shall be transformed so as to satisfy the sentiments of every contracting party. If by tomorrow this voice is not needed the opportunity will never return."

Orators from Moscow and Kieff.

Bad as he admits the treaties to be, Harden can see no alternative for Germany but to refuse them in concert with the Bolsheviki, since, though their hands are steeped in blood, they are the only party in Russia that does not openly disassociate itself from the Brest peace.

This policy, apart from the motive of self-interest, he commends on the following grounds: "Ill news from Moscow and Kieff; bombs thrown at a young diplomatist and at a veteran Field Marshal, have a more ominous sound than the bell which four years ago proclaimed that the heir apparent of Austria-Hungary had been murdered on Austrian soil by Bosnian youths, subjects of Austria. Today nobody dreams of making a whole nation the scapegoat for such a deed. Those who know their world history remember that the threshold to every new age was draped in the scarlet of some such breach of law and order."

"Germany," Herr Harden vehemently concludes, "wants to live; she does not aspire to become the heir of the Czar. To see her Imperial eagle become like other eagles of empire, a target for the mortal enemies of Czardom."

WILL LET AMERICANS PASS.

Finland Promises Not to Hold Up Refugees from Russia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—No objection will be raised by the Finnish Government to the passage through Finland of Americans seeking escape from Russia, the State Department was advised today through the Swedish Foreign Office.

The exact number of Americans involved is not known here, but Secretary Lansing said today he thought there were about one hundred, most of them Y. M. C. A. and American Red Cross workers. They are supposed to be among some two hundred American and allied citizens gathered at Petrograd for whom the Swedish Consul General recently asked his Government, if possible, to send a ship.

RUSSIAN PARTIES LOOK TO PEASANTS

Country's Future Said to Depend on the Course They Choose to Adopt.

ALL SEEK THEIR SUPPORT

In Many Districts They Are at Present Hostile to Rule of the Bolsheviki.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Arthur Ransome, Petrograd correspondent of The London Daily News, who is generally recognized as the medium of communicating the views of the Bolshevist Government to the outside world, and who had been for many months the last English-speaking correspondent left in Russia, moved to Stockholm when, according to report, Lenine and Trotzky retreated to Kronstad. Under Monday's date he telegraphs from Stockholm:

"A Swedish merchant just arrived from Petrograd says it is rumored there that the station of Luga on the railway from Petrograd to Pskov is held by Right Social Revolutionaries with armed peasants, led by escaped officers.

"There is nothing incredible in this. Risings of peasants led by parties of the Right have been a feature of other revolutions, and no one will be less surprised than the Bolsheviki, who began in the late Spring of this year with a policy definitely intended to create class consciousness among the peasantry and, therefore, bound to embitter certain sections.

"For proper understanding of the situation it is necessary to know on what section of the peasantry those who organize such risings base their hopes. All parties alike realize that on peasant support depends the future of the revolution, consequently there is a fierce struggle to get and keep their allegiance. Representation of peasants is claimed both by the Left and Right Social Revolutionaries and by the Bolsheviki.

Peasantry at First Unaffected.

"At the beginning of the revolution the determining factor in the political outlook of the peasantry was the absence of the whole of the younger peasantry in the ranks of Russia's gigantic, overgrown army. At first the older peasants and the women, who alone were left in the villages, can hardly be said to have had a political outlook at all. The revolution for some time scarcely affected them.

"The peasantry in the army at first returned Menshevist delegates and men on leave took something of this political coloring to the villages, which, however, soon became the field of energetic propaganda by the Right Social Revolutionaries, while in the army Bolshevism was gaining ground and receiving enormous impetus. After the July offensive and Korniloff's disastrous affair, the Social Revolutionaries were consolidating their position in the country. By this time the Petrograd and Moscow Soviets were definitely Bolshevist, and the same could be said of the whole army, so that the October revolution was not only possible but inevitable.

"However, this was the culminating period of the Right Social Revolutionaries in the country, where they had exclusively to deal with the older peasantry, who, cowed by long years of subservience to their employers, followed the lead of the more substantial peasants. Then, with the flooding back of the Russian Army to its native villages, the younger men took with them Bolshevist coloring, which presently absorbed the whole of peasant politics, and, after the Left Social Revolutionaries had broken with the Right and supported the Soviet, was illustrated in the general returning of their candidates to the Soviets.

"Thus, by the time the Constituent Assembly met, it no longer reflected the feeling of the peasants because the peasantry was now strengthened by enormous numbers of younger men, who whole-heartedly supported the Soviets. Complete demobilization increased the Bolshevist hold on the peasant population, which only later began to wane as the young men were once more absorbed into the life of the country and came once more under the domination of the richer peasants. The non-arrival of the millennium, which some hopeful spirits had foolishly but forgivably expected, helped less the tendency of secession from the Bolsheviki than of secession from politics altogether.

Lenine Tries New Tactics.

"Lenine, who has always perceived the danger of basing the revolution exclusively on the town population in such a country as Russia, now initiated an attempt to create class consciousness among the peasants, knowing that the only success such an attempt could give the revolution was the wide basis which he needed. He said in April:

"'In the country of peasants which has just thrown off the yoke of the Left and only six months ago was bearing that of Kerensky there is only too much of the anarchic disorder, which was increased by the war. Therefore only the tenacious efforts of the workmen and conscious peasants can bring about a necessary change in the orientation of the masses, and it is only when the proletarians and half proletarians have made this change that the bourgeoisie, and above all that part of the bourgeoisie which is most numerous and most tenacious in defence of its privileges, namely, the rich peasants, will have been conquered.'

"Thenceforward a new phrase entered the revolutionary vocabulary, 'Kulak,' meaning tight fist or rich peasant, and from that moment the revolutionary struggle reached the Russian peasantry. The Kulaks were certainly hard masters, harder by far than the larger landowners, and their authority in the villages was almost unbounded. From then on all their influence was used against the Soviets.

"But famine introduced a new factor. It is well known even in America that the peasants as long ago as 1916 were burying corn. This has continued to the present day, and to the unwillingness of the peasants to give up their corn is due many of the hardships of the revolution.

"But the point is that only the Kulaks, or rich peasants, had corn to send, hence the political significance of what were known as the supply detachments of armed workmen and agitators, who were sent out to the country districts with the double object of taking bread from the Kulaks and showing the poorer peasantry that their interests and those of the Kulaks were opposed and not identical.

"In many districts this was entirely successful; in others the Kulaks succeeded in getting the poorer peasantry to resist what they represented as an attack on the peasantry as a whole. Coloring to this was often given by misbehavior of the supply detachments. In certain districts Right Social Revolutionaries have been able to organize the peasantry, led by Kulaks. This is easier at harvest, when the richer peasants can persuade the poorer that their bare sufficiencies are threatened as well as the stores of the Kulaks."

SUBJECT AUSTRIANS TO FIGHT WITH THE ALLIES

24,000 Transylvania Prisoners in Italy and France Will Join Allied Armies, Asserts Dr. Lupu.

A new body of 24,000 subjects of the Austrian Empire, in addition to the Czechoslovak army now fighting in Russia, will soon take part in the war against the Central Powers, when 18,000 Transylvanian prisoners in Italy and 6,000 in France are sent to the front, it was asserted yesterday by Dr. Nicolas Lupu, a member of the Rumanian Parliament, who has just arrived in this country from France and England to recruit a Transylvanian army in this country.

Dr. Lupu will establish headquarters in Cleveland to recruit Transylvanians, who will later be sent to Europe to fight with the Allies for the redemption of Rumania and for the liberation of Rumanian peoples held by Austria-Hungary in Transylvania. The Rumanians and all other nationalities oppressed by the Central Powers have been filled with hope for liberty by the entrance of the United States into the war, Dr. Lupu said.

"On the morning that I sailed for America from an English port," he said, "I met a large ship carrying American boys to the battlefields of the world's war. Seeing these young giants, joyful and careless, I knew that they would never be beaten and that they will put a quick end to Kaiserism and autocracy. France, England, and Italy are now in enthusiastic admiration for the magnificent behavior of the American Army. Even the most optimistic Germans realize that their dream of word domination is now shattered forever.

"The most popular figure in Europe is President Wilson. His magnificent speeches are for the democracies of Europe holy words of the Bible. Rumania, like the other martyred peoples, is anxiously looking to America. Rumania will never forget the military aid of France and England, and the service to her people done by the wonderful American Red Cross under the leadership of Lieut. Col. Anderson. America, in addition to all that she has done for us, can do more. In Ohio and elsewhere in this country we have large colonies of Rumanians from Transylvania. They have already begun here to organize a Transylvanian America of America. To aid in that movement here will be my first aim. My mission here is to let the American people know the real case of Rumania and to make her weight felt once more on the battlefield."

LENINE ANSWERS POPE.

Unable to Release ex-Czar's Family for Lack of Communication.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 21.—A dispatch to the Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger from Moscow says the Soviet Government has replied to Pope Benedict that it is unable to comply with the Pontiff's request that the family of former Emperor Nicholas be transferred to Spain.

The reason given, according to the dispatch, is that there is no communication at present between Moscow and the place where the former Imperial family is staying.

A dispatch from Rome Aug. 11 said the Pope had taken steps to assist the former Empress Alexandra Alix and her four daughters to leave Russia. The dispatch, which was credited to the Osservatore Romano, the official Vatican organ, said the Pope had given a pledge to the Russian Government that if the liberation of the women was granted he would provide for their support.

ORDER SHOWS FEAR OF GERMAN REVOLT

Ludendorff Directs Steps to Prevent Assembling of Weapons for That Purpose.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.) —Germany's military leaders have now become distinctly worried over the prospects of a revolution in Germany. General Ludendorff, in a captured secret order, has taken steps to employ the assistance of his commanding officers and various governmental agencies to help him stamp out the glowing spark which has been seen. The order, which is more illuminating than anything which has come out of Germany in many months, follows:

"It has come to my knowledge through a letter addressed to the Royal Prussian Ministry of War that men on leave have spoken publicly of a revolution which is to break out after the war.

"A soldier, said to have come from the industrial region of Rhenish Westphalia, declared in a train that in his home district men were going on leave, taking weapons with them for the aforesaid object, and that it was easy to take home German or captured revolvers as well as hand grenades separated into two parts.

"I desire that the clothing of men going on leave be searched as test cases before their departure. It will be possible to carry this out at the baths and dressing stations. I wish to impress upon all superior officers who happen to hear such objectionable talk or who hear of it through others that they must deal with it at once and without hesitation. The home authorities and the Director of Military Railways have been directed to take corresponding measures."

Another order just captured, bearing the signature of the Chief of Staff of the 41st Infantry Division, recites that courts-martial have had an increasing number of cases where subordinates emphatically refused to accompany their units into the line and where the "superior officers have neglected to enforce obedience by failing to compel the cowards to go into the front line." Obedience in this respect, the order says, must be enforced, even though it may be necessary to resort to force and the use of arms. It is right, the order sets forth, even to go to the length of shooting a man as an extreme necessity.

Another captured order deals with an investigation into a case where a German airplane was shot down, probably in mistake by German troops, and the occupants were secretly buried. "Such procedure," the order says, "is unworthy of the German Army."

In still another document General Ludendorff says that there are constant reports of German officers on leave voicing utterances that are calculated to awaken feelings of doubt as to German preparedness for battle. He mentions an officer in Berlin, who said that further offensives were impossible on the western front because of the shortage of horses and oats.

General Ludendorff warns officers against spreading unfavorable rumors. He declares that it is remarkable that they never take home encouraging news from the front, and that it is "better to color the situation with a rosy hue than with black paint."

Reds Arrest Grand Duke Paul.

AMSTERDAM, July 21.—The former Russian Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, says a Moscow dispatch to the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin, has been arrested by the Bolsheviki. He is an uncle of the late Emperor and father of Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch, (recently appointed an honorary Captain in the British Army.)

WANTS HER COLONIES BACK TO GERMANY

Dr. Solf, Colonial Minister, Argues for a Compromise in Making Peace.

PROTESTS KNOCKOUT SPIRIT

Denies German Aim to Make Belgium a Vassal, Defends Brest-Litovsk Treaty, and Blames Allies.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 21.—Discussing Germany's Russian policy and the Brest-Litovsk treaty, Dr. W. S. Solf, German Secretary of State for the Colonies, said today that Germany would not misuse her power in the east, according to advices from Berlin. He is quoted as follows:

"The German Government is fully resolved not to misuse the protection which has been asked for and which has been granted, because forcible annexation would bar the way now open to oppressed peoples—the road to freedom, order, and mutual tolerance."

Dr. Solf, who was speaking before the German Society, replied to the recent arraignment of Germany by A. J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary. He said:

"Mr. Balfour first mentions Belgium. The Chancellor declared last month in the Reichstag to all who wished to hear that we do not intend to retain Belgium in any form whatsoever. Belgium shall arise again after the war as an independent state, vassal to no one. Gentlemen, nothing stands in the way of the restoration of Belgium but the enemy's will to war.

"How small a part regard for Belgium plays in the plans of the Entente is most clearly shown by an extract from the American press, which England's Minister of Propaganda, Lord Northcliffe, printed with enthusiastic approval in one of his papers, THE NEW YORK TIMES wrote:

Germany's assurance that she does not intend to retain Belgium is neither of interest nor value. The Allies will drive the Germans out of Belgium and France.

"Referring to this Lord Northcliffe says in the Evening News of July 16:

We rejoice to hear such a clear, resounding voice from America. That is the way to speak. Germany must be destroyed in the sense of THE NEW YORK TIMES, we mean destroyed by bloody and absolutely irreparable defeats on the battlefield, so that nothing remains of Germany but the bones of her dead soldiers in France and Belgium. There is no other way.

"Thus speak the protectors who for the sake of Belgium have drawn their swords."

Proposes Colonial Compromise.

Dr. Solf said that the German working classes were becoming conscious of the fact that the retention of Germany's colonies was a vital question. Germany desired to compromise regarding colonial questions, he asserted, on the basis that these possessions should correspond to the economic strength of the nations.

On this point Dr. Solf said:

"I dare say that the safeguarding of our colonial future is not only the aim of our Government and certain groups of individuals, but it has become an aim of the German people. A lively consciousness now extends far into the workers' circles that the retention of our colonies is a vital question for the honor of Germany as a great power. Our colonial war aims are second to no other in national importance. The growing realization of German workers as to Germany's position is especially gratifying in view of the plans of our enemies, which have been clearly revealed during the last few days."

Referring to Mr. Balfour's statements regarding colonies, Dr. Solf said:

"He formally announced Great Britain's claim for the annexation o four colonies and did not hesitate to advance, on moral grounds, this claim for annexation. He not only concerns himself as to our colonial methods, but goes into high politics with all sails set. Mr. Balfour, in his speech, announced the British creed, which amounts to representing Britain's right to world domination as something self-evident, and morally annihilating Germany's claim to be a great power."

Admits Growing Jingoism.

"Mr. Balfour asserts that intellectual Germany is dominated by the mailed fist doctrine. Here there are Chauvinistic jingoes, people who worship the eternal yesterday, and anxiously and without understanding await the approach of a new era. Before the war these people formed a small group without political influence on the Government, which constantly combatted them. During the war their number, indeed, has increased, not because the struggle for German supremacy in the world had taken deeper root, but because their ranks were swelled by numerous sober and solicitous patriots.

"Among these are many who before the war held high ideals about an understanding of peoples, good-will and fair play in international relations, but whose political creed broke down under the experiences of the war.

"Where does the blame lie? Nowhere but in the spirit which animates our enemies—that spirit which is a dishonor and has turned to scorn the grand ideal of a league of nations by a simultaneous demand for a commercial war against Germany.

"If I believed that the spirit which at present seems to prevail in England, which speaks clearly in Mr. Balfour's speech and which was manifested against us in the Pemberton-Billing case—if I had to believe that this spirit would always have the upper hand in England, then I also would advocate that the war should be fought to the death.

"I am, however, firmly convinced that before the end of the war comes, an intellectual revulsion must and will supervene against this knockout spirit. Otherwise the realization of a league of nations remains a Utopian war aim."

Defends Brest-Litovsk Peace.

Referring to Mr. Balfour's "second charge," Dr. Solf said:

"This is directed against our Eastern policy. To this I reply that the Brest-Litovsk peace came about by agreement between the Russian and German Governments, that the frontier peoples of Russia after centuries of oppression should be permitted to live their own national life, for which object they had been striving. This agreement on the fate of the border peoples is a fact of world importance which never can be erased from history.

"Not about the aim, but about the ways and means leading to conferring their own national life upon these peoples, did the Russian and German conceptions differ. Our conception was and is that the path to freedom shall not lead through anarchy to wholesale murder. Between the first bursting of the bonds and full capability for self-determination of the border peoples there lies a natural transitory period. Until the regulation forces should cooperate in the various countries, Germany felt called upon to protect these communities in their own, as well as in the general, interest, as indeed she has been called upon to do by both national majorities and minorities.

"The Brest-Litovsk peace is a frame-

FIGHTING REDUCES FRONT BY 50 MILES

32 DIVISIONS OVERSEAS

Chief of Staff Discloses That Recent Advance in Vosges Was Made by 5th Regulars.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—In his semi-weekly review of the military situation along the western battlefront General March, Chief of Staff, said today that the general effect of the various drives that have been made on the Aisne-Marne, the Picardy, the Oisne-Aisne, and the Flanders fronts had been to shorten the length of the line from Rheims to the sea by fifty miles.

"At the beginning of the drive, when the Germans organized the positions of their furthest advance," he said, "the line was 250 miles long. It is now less than 200.

"Since the last time I talked to you the Allies have continued their activity in France, making attacks on limited fronts at widely separated points. In the Flanders salient the flanks have been bent in by attacks southeast of Meteren, on the north flank, and near Merville, on the southern flank. The new apex produced became untenable for the enemy and they fell back. The salient has been flattened out by a retirement of from one to two miles on a fourteen-mile front.

"East of Arras, on the Scarpe River, the British advanced in sharp fighting, taking Faupoux. On the plains near Noye the continued pressure by the French and British has carried the line well back of the old 1916-17 line.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne, on a fifteen-mile front, the French initiated an attack on Sunday evening. That carried the line forward about four miles across a broken plateau to its northern edge, from which the French now overlook the plains around Noyon, which is only four miles away.

"In the Vosges the 5th United States Division, in the sector of St. Die, which has been quiet for a long time, captured the town of Frapelle, eliminating a very sharp salient there. Here the line is only four miles from the German frontier.

"The attack reported to me by The Associated Press this morning north of the Ancre has not been officially reported, and I will not comment on it."

Thirty-two Divisions in France.

General March announced that the United States now has thirty-two army divisions in France. They comprise six Regular Army divisions, twelve National Guard, and fourteen National Army divisions.

Thirty of these divisions have been definitely assigned to the five army corps into which the expeditionary forces under General Pershing have been organized, and two of the divisions remain unassigned to any corps. The unassigned divisions are the Eighty-first National Army Division, composed of drafted men from the Carolinas, and the Ninety-third National Army Division, composed of drafted negroes.

The divisions which we now have in France, according to General March's announcement, are:

Regular Army—1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th.

National Guard—26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 32d, 33d, 35th, 36th, 37th, 41st, and 42d.

National Army—76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82d, 83d, 85th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92d, and 93d.

"In getting these divisions over," said General March, "and in projecting a larger program which has now been presented to Congress, the successful accomplishment of such a feat depends, of course, on having shipping. When war broke out the United States had no merchant marine, as you all know, and in order to accomplish what we have accomplished we have had to scour the world for ships.

"Ships coming in from the Emergency Fleet Corporation keep swelling the number at our disposal, and we took over German interned ships, requisitioned Dutch ships, and we chartered and hired from other nations all the ships we could charter and hire from them. That is where a large portion of the American money goes that is contributed; the contribution of ships is paid for by the American people.

"We have had in addition to that one ship which was really given to us. Brazil gave us a ship for two trips without any compensation at all, and so far as I know that is the only ship we got that way. In order to carry out the still larger program, before the shipping fleet construction gets to the point where they can carry it, it will be necessary for us to hire and charter other ships in sufficient quantity to carry it through."

Seventy-seventh Not in Italy.

General March denied that there was any foundation for the report that the 77th National Army Division, composed of men from New York City, who received their training at Camp Upton, had been sent to the Italian front.

"The 77th Division," said General March, "has not gone to Italy, but was last reported to be in the Vosges sector."

General March said that the 80th Division, which was trained at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va., commanded by Major Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, "as part of its training was sent to the British in Flanders, and after completing its instruction on the line all elements were withdrawn." The 76th National Army Division, composed of drafted men from New England and part of upper New York State, who were trained at Camp Devens, Mass., is being used as a replacement division, and General March said today it was stationed "in the back area."

General March furnished some additional particulars with respect to the 26th National Guard Division, composed of New England troops, commanded by Major Gen. Clarence Edwards.

"The 26th Division," he said, "was in the attack near Château-Thierry in July, and took part in the capture of Torcy and Belleau. It advanced past Bouresches and was relieved before it reached the Ourcq about the 22d of July."

The division was relieved for a rest and another division took its place at the fighting front. When asked what American troops are on the Italian front General March replied:

"They have not reached the fighting part of the front at all."

SHARP BARRAGES ON VESLE.

Germans Attempt No Movement After Artillery Fire.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE VESLE FRONT, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.)—Twice today the Germans laid down a sharp barrage over the American lines between Soissons and Rheims, but without affecting any change in the line and without attempting any movement of infantry.

Patrolling continues on both sides. One American detachment was attacked with the result that one German was added to the list of prisoners taken back of the lines, where he said he was a member of the Seventeenth Division.

The enemy planes were somewhat more active today in observation and attack over the back areas.

GERMANS SHELLING FRAPELLE

Patrol of Forty Ambushed by Americans in the Vosges.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, Aug. 21, (Associated Press.)—Military activity on the battle-front in the Vosges Monday night was marked by two patrol encounters.

An American patrol, consisting of one officer and seventeen men, ambushed a German patrol of forty men.

The Germans still are viciously pounding with their artillery the town of Frapelle, which they recently lost. The Germans are using gas shells.

REPORT DRAFT BILL WITH AMENDMENTS

Stiff Fight on Calling Youngest Men Last Is Expected in House Today.

MEASURE HAS CLEAR FIELD

Early Passage Expected—Technical Training of Drafted Men at Army Expense Provided For.

DRAFT PROTEST BY HYLAN

Mayor Fears All Able-Bodied New York Policemen Will Be Taken as Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A favorable report was made today to the House on the Administration Man-power bill for drafting men from 18 to 45 years. The bill will have the right of way tomorrow, and will be debated.

The Military Affairs Committee in reporting the bill specified that youths of 18 should be called for service last, and that the 19-year-old registrants should not be called until after the men from 20 to 45 years had been taken for service.

This provision, embodied in the McKenzie amendment, is expected to cause a stiff fight. Julius Kahn of California, ranking Republican member of the Military Committee, and others, will insist that the question be left for the War Department to settle.

An amendment by Chairman Dent allows soldiers under 21 years of age to obtain commissions.

The committee steered clear of the "work or fight" amendment inserted in the Senate bill by Senator Thomas of Colorado. No vote was taken in the House Committee on the subject. The amendment as included in the Senate bill stipulates that workers exempt from draft because they are needed in industry must remain at their work, as long as in good physical condition, or be drafted to the colors. Labor leaders protested vigorously against this amendment, and have characterized it as "conscription of labor."

Special Training of Selectmen.

At the request of the War Department Representative Lunn of New York offered a provision, which was accepted, that men of draft age may be technically trained in institutions, their military status not to be affected. The amendment reads:

"The Secretary of War is authorized to assign to educational institutions for special and technical training soldiers who enter the military service under the provisions of this act, in such numbers and under such regulations as he may prescribe; and is authorized to contract with such educational institutions for the subsistence, quarters, and military and academic instruction of such soldiers.

"Funds heretofore or hereafter appropriated for quarters and subsistance of the army shall be available for payment to educational institutions under the contracts above authorized, including the cost of military and academic instruction."

The house adopted a special rule giving the bill right of way. Chairman Sims of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce said he would allow the Administration Water Power bill to be set aside, and Representative Madden of Illinois said the Revenue bill would not be allowed to interfere.

Chairman Dent has said the bill can be passed in one day, but this remains to be seen. There will undoubtedly be arguments against lowering the age limit, and the question of whether the anti-strike amendment shall be included is expected to provoke bitter speeches.

The Senate will also discuss the bill tomorrow.

Vote on the Draft Classes.

There was a vote in the House Military Committee today on the proposal to split the drafted men into the 18-19, 19-20, and 20-45 classes, as finally adopted. The committee members who voted against the amendment were: Tilson of Connecticut, Crago of Pennsylvania, Green of Vermont, Olney of New York, Lunn of New York, Harrison of Virginia, and Kahn of California.

The lineup of those voting for the amendment was not given, but besides those men already named who were against the amendment, the members who attended the committee meeting were: Fields of Kentucky, Gordon of Ohio, Shallenberger of Nebraska, Garret of Texas, Nichols of South Carolina, McKenzie of Illinois, Aforin of Pennsylvania, Hull of Iowa, and Chairman Dent. The Chairman said he did not vote.

HYLAN FEARS DRAFT WILL ABSORB POLICE

Writes Calder 18-to-45 Plan Threatens to Take Every Able-Bodied Officer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Pointing out that if the Government should raise the draft age limit to 45 years practically every able-bodied policeman in the City of New York would be "sooner or later taken into the army," and that the drafting of the city's policemen would confront the municipality with a most serious situation, Mayor Hylan has written a letter to Senator Calder of New York, as well as to other members of the New York City and State delegation, urging them to save the situation.

The Mayor's letter to Senator Calder follows:

"Aug. 9, 1918.

"Senator William M. Calder, Washington, D. C.:

"My Dear Senator: I have the honor to invite your attention to conditions now confronting the administration of the police affairs of the City of New York by reason of the drafts upon members of the police force under existing and proposed military draft laws. The existing law calls all members of the police force from 21 to 31 to the colors. All the men on the existing civil service list are of conscription age, and consequently, should they be appointed, they become almost immediately a liability upon the city, without having rendered any appreciable service.

"Already more than 700 men have been drafted, and before the end of this year at least 1,000 will have been drafted into the military service, and ultimately 28 per cent. of the entire force, of 3,000 men, will be called.

Cannot Plead Dependency.

"Should the Government raise the draft age to 45 years, virtually every able-bodied policeman in this city will be, sooner or later, taken into the army. Policemen of this city, physically fit, will be called before civilians with dependents, because they cannot claim exemption from a monetary standpoint, since, under the provisions of the Fenner law, the city pays them the difference between the salary they get as policemen and the salary they get as members of the army.

"An efficient policeman cannot be made in a brief period; a year or two is required to bring about this result. If we are to be compelled to recruit the police force of this city, in this most trying period of its history, from the utterly green and, perhaps, thoroughly undesirable material left over from the draft, we are courting disaster.

"The possibility of disorder, due to labor unrest; the fomenting of disturbance by enemy alien elements, possible uprising against authority, due to dissatisfaction with the war or the Government by reason of insufficient, improper or unacceptable food, or due to the high cost of food and clothing, or increased burdens, may, under certain circumstances, burst into an appalling reality.

"The arguments advanced that no exception can be made in New York City regarding drafting of policemen, because to do so would mean that every other city in the country would be justified in making similar demands, should have no weight. New York City is in a class by itself. It is the financial centre of the world; from it radiates all activities looking toward the speedy and satisfactory conclusion of the war. This is not true of any other city in this country. Riots or disturbances in this city, improperly handled and ineffectively quelled, would be a national disaster that would be pleasing to the enemy, and would certainly demand the attention of the Government.

"New York is the gateway of American commerce; it is the pulse of this hemisphere, and from it is judged the nation's vigor and determination. It is unthinkable that the police force of this city should be otherwise than up to the highest standards in these momentous times, when unprecedented emergencies are bound to arise.

"Moreover, the city of New York is made up of many foreign elements. At least 75,000 enemy aliens, male and female, and hundreds of thousands of citizens of the Teutonic race, against whom demonstrations may be expected under certain conditions, make up a considerable part of our cosmopolitan population.

"The war activities in this city and our co-operation with the Federal Government have made unusual demands upon the police force of this city. To make further inroads upon this very much depleted force, which may not be recruited with proper material, is a matter worthy of serious consideration.

"I, therefore, feel it is my duty to request the representatives of this city and State in Congress to secure such modification of the existing statutes as will meet this very important and dangerous condition, for I am certain it cannot be to the best interest of the Government, considering all New York City means to the nation, to destroy or seriously restrict the efficiency of the police force in this city. A policeman can render much better service to the Government by good police duty in this city than he can by entering the military service.

"Very truly yours,

"JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor."

Senator Calder will offer an amendment designed to help the situation.

The Chamber of Commerce sent letters yesterday to Provost Marshal General Crowder and to Chairmen Chamberlain and Dent of the Military Committees of Congress, asking for the exemption of New York policemen from the operation of the proposed draft legislation, on the ground that it would reduce the police force here to a skeleton, and that the crippling of the city's Police Department would be a national disaster because of the city's importance as a gateway for troops and military supplies.

American Dirigible Sets New Mark.

SPAIN ANNOUNCES REPRISAL ON BERLIN

Will Seize Interned German Ships to Recoup for U-Boat Sinkings.

MADRID, Aug. 21.—Spain will utilize German vessels now in Spanish ports in place of Spanish ships sunk by German submarines, and will continue to observe neutrality.

This decision is announced in an official statement issued after a meeting of the Cabinet at San Sebastian. The Spanish Ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to inform the German Government of this action.

The Cabinet statement reads:

"In the course of the recent meetings held at Madrid the Government considered the international situation. As a consequence of the submarine campaign more than 20 per cent. of our merchant marine has been sunk, more than 100 Spanish sailors have perished, a considerable number of sailors have been wounded, and numbers have been shipwrecked and abandoned. Ships needed exclusively for Spanish use have been torpedoed without the slightest pretext, serious difficulties resulting to navigation.

"The Government has believed that it is unable, without failing in its essential obligations and without setting aside nutrality, to defer the adoption of measures necessary to guarantee Spanish maritime traffic and to protect Spanish crews and passengers.

"Consequently the Government has decided to address the Imperial German Government and declare that owing to the reduction of tonnage to its extreme limit, it will be obliged in the case of new sinkings to substitute therefor German vessels interned in Spanish ports. This measure does not imply the confiscation of the ships under definite title. It would be only a temporary solution until the establishment of peace, when Spanish claims also will be liquidated.

"Our Ambassador at Berlin has received instructions to bring this decision to the notice of the German Government. The Spanish Government does not doubt that the German Government will appreciate the circumstances determining this resolution and will recognize that Spain, in holding to the neutrality she has practiced since the beginning of the war, has sacrificed many of her rights and legitimate conveniences when it has been possible without affecting the dignity of Spain and her national life.

"The decision of the Government to assure for itself sufficient tonnage, which is indispensable to its existence, does not affect its firm resolve to maintain strict neutrality."

RAIDER NOT TO LAST LONG, NAVY MEN SAY

an official report on the capture of the Triumph reached the Navy Department.

Admiral Benson announced that the navy is taking steps to protect the fishing fleets operating along the Grand Banks of Newfoundland and to counteract any ill effects of the raider, should the Triumph prove to be endeavoring to operate as such. The Navy Department issued this announcement on the basis of its official reports:

The Navy Department is informed that the master of the steam trawler Triumph, who was landed with his crew at Canso, Nova Scotia, stated that the Triumph was captured by an enemy submarine sixty miles south by west of Cranberry Island about noon yesterday; and that two guns were mounted on the Triumph, presumably for use of the trawler as a raider among the fishing fleet. The navy is taking steps to protect fishing vessels, and to prevent any further damage by the alleged raider.

In a confidential conversation this afternoon Admiral Benson told in a general way what steps had been taken to deal with the case of the Triumph, but explained that it was impossible for the Navy Department to disclose for publication what measures were being taken. The Triumph, like other steam trawlers engaged in connection with the work of the fishing fleet, is not a fast vessel and it is not believed that it will operate very long as a raider in the face of the steps that have been taken by faster and more powerful vessels.

The view in naval circles is that the German crew that has been placed on board the Triumph will try to operate only over a limited radius, and after sinking any vessels that come within its zone, will try to meet the submarine at a predetermined rendezvous; that the German crew will place bombs on board the captured trawler, and return to their submarine after having sent the Triumph to the bottom. Meanwhile, until it has been definitely learned by the American and British navies that the Triumph has been sunk, the search for the converted trawler will be prosecuted.

Admiral Benson has received conclusive proof that at least one of the German submarines supposed to have been sunk by shell fire from a British ship was not destroyed. The proof came from the mouth of Captain David Evans, master of the steamship Penistone, who was taken prisoner by the submarine which is alleged to have been sunk, and who was later released.

Captain Evans has told Admiral Benson that after he was taken prisoner the submarine was sighted by a British steamer, which opened fire upon it. The battle continued some time and, according to the story brought to an American port by the British steamer's officers, they thought they had sunk the submarine, having made a number of direct hits. Throughout the battle Captain Evans was a prisoner on the submarine, and he told Admiral Benson the submarine was not even hit in the battle, and that the British vessel doing the firing was out of range, and its shells fell short. After the fight the Germans placed Captain Evans on board another vessel.

THREE SHIPS ARE SUNK BY MINE OR TORPEDO

19 Missing from the Polynesian —The Balkan and the Gasconier Also Lost.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Official announcement is made that the French mail steamer Polynesian, bound from Biserta to Saloniki, was sunk by a mine on the morning of Aug. 10. Six Serbian passengers, eleven Indian firemen, and two sailors are missing.

It is also announced officialy that the French steamer Balkan, on her way from France to the Island of Corsica, was torpedoed and sunk on the night of Aug. 15-16. One hundred and two persons are known to have been saved.

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 21.—The Dutch steamer Gasconier, operated by the Belgian Relief Commission and on her way from New York to Rotterdam with flour, struck a mine in the North Sea, caught fire and sank. Six lives were lost. A guard ship took the survivors to Haugesund, on the west coast of Norway.

The Polynesian was a vessel of 6,373 tons. She was built in 1891 and was owned by the Messageries Maritimes of Marseilles.

The Balkan was of 1,709 gross tons. She was built in 1882 and was owned in Marseilles.

The Gasconier is listed as a Belgian steamer, but was formerly under the Dutch flag and at that time bore the name of the Fruithandel. She was built at West Hartlepool, England, in 1906, and was 320 feet long, with a beam of forty-seven feet and a depth of twenty-two feet. She was owned by the Lloyd Royal Belge of Antwerp.

STEAMER MONTANAN SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Five of 6,659-Ton American Cargo Carrier's Crew Missing, 81 Others Are Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The American steamship Montanan of Boston has been torpedoed and sunk in foreign waters, according to information reaching the Navy Department tonight. The Montanan was being used as a cargo carrier for the Government, and had the protection of a naval armed guard. No troops were carried.

The report to the Navy Department, which gave Aug. 16 as the date of the sinking, stated that eighty-one survivors had been landed, but that five men were reported as missing. Following is the text of the announcement:

The Navy Department is informed that the steamship Montanan was torpedoed and sunk in foreign waters on Aug. 16. Eighty-one survivors were landed. Five men are reported missing—three members of the civilian crew and two of the naval armed guard, David W. Johnson, coxswain, and Chester C. Eldridge, seaman. The names of the three civilians were not given in the dispatch received.

The Montanan was an American cargo ship of 6,659 gross tons.

The Montanan, owned by the American Hawaiian Line, was launched in 1913 at Sparrows Point, Md., being built for service through the Panama Canal. In October last year, with other American vessels over 2,500 tons dead weight, she was requisitioned by the United States Shipping Board, and soon afterward assigned to the Army Quartermaster's Department. The vessel was outbound from an American port.

The D. A.— Democracy's Answer

To One's Shopping Problem How To Economize

Pay As You Go

An old saying made to fit war conditions in a practical and substantial manner.

Deposit a Sum With Us at 4%

You bring no pass book. You need no credit man's authorization. We accept your money on your own recognizance and pay you 4% on it from the day you deposit it until you withdraw it, which you may do in whole or in part at any time; or until it is exhausted by the purchases you charge against it.

Your Money Earns and Saves at Once

Besides the 4% interest, earned, your money saves you at least 6% on the merchandise you buy, since our prices are at least that much below those of our competitors.

Besides Which—

shopping on a D. A.—Depositor's Account—induces the habit of thrift from another angle, in that the balance standing in your D. A. is the amount of your credit, and to attempt to shop above this balance gives one a gentle check. For until additional cash is deposited, it is not possible to do so.

Charge Account Evils This Eliminates

—First, the evil of paying a store for the questionable privilege of shopping on the store's money.

Because the store charges you for its merchandise a price which includes the interest on the money invested in that merchandise for the time the store is to be kept out of its money.

—Second, the evil of paying the cost to the store of its "bad" accounts; which cost is figured into the price of the goods.

—Third, the evil of supporting a vast charge account department with its corps of clerks, collectors and expert credit men, which all charge account customers bear.

CITY DEPARTMENTS ASK FOR MORE CASH

Nearly All Estimates for 1919 Budgets Show Increases—Higher Salaries Demanded.

WAR CONDITIONS BLAMED

Police and Fire Department Estimates Not In Yet—Jump of Many Millions Expected.

Heads of city departments have submitted to Joseph Haag, Secretary of the Board of Estimate, who has charge of the budget, their departmental estimates for 1919. The estimates of eighty-four departments and bureaus have already been received and nearly all show increases. It is predicted that next year's budget will be many millions higher than this year's, with a consequent boost in the tax rate.

The estimates of the Police and Fire departments, the largest departments in the city, are expected in a few days. Owing to war conditions and the increased cost of living employes in every department have asked increases in salaries. Some of the departmental requests for 1919, as compared with the requests for the current year, are as follows:

Office.	1918.	1919.
District Attorney, personal service	$492,707	$446,231
District Attorney, other services	519,816	514,816

District Attorney, Bronx	107,462	118,121

Among the increases in salary asked for is that of Grover A. Whalen, the Mayor's secretary. Shortly after taking office Mayor Hylan reduced his secretary's salary from $6,500 to $5,000. The Mayor now wants the full amount restored.

According to the Charter, the preliminary budget of the city must be prepared by the Board of Estimate's secretary, assisted by the Committee on Finance and Budget, before Oct. 16, after which public hearings are to be held. The final budget must be prepared and filed between Oct. 20 and Oct. 31, when it must be adopted and then sumbitted to the Board of Aldermen. Under the present administration there will be no sub-committee of the Budget Committee holding hearings on the tentative figures.

TAKES BACK TELEGRAPHERS

Western Union Offers Reinstatement to Men Who Joined Union.

Vice President George W. E. Atkins, acting head of the Western Union Telegraph Company, announced yesterday that employes of the company who had been discharged for joining the Commercial Telegraphers' Union were eligible for reinstatement under a ruling by Attorney General Burleson.

The discharging of men for joining unions continued after the Government took control of the lines on Aug. 1, and union officials asserted that more than 1,000 had been turned out. President Newcomb Carlton said recently that only thirty had been discharged since Aug. 1. Vice President Atkins said yesterday that between 650 and 700 men, discharged before and since the Government took control, would be re-employed.

VICTORY ASSURED, SAYS LORD READING

British found ships, cost what it may, and whatever else might happen America would always be entitled to the gratitude of Great Britain and France, he said.

Nation of Idealists.

Lord Reading reminded his audience of the change that had taken place in the situation at the front since America entered the war. No American would want him to say that America did it all, he said, but an American would want him to pay equal credit to the French and the British and the Italians. He was as proud of their valor and heroism, as if they had all been his own soldiers, he declared.

He declared that America was a nation of idealists, adding: "Too many in the past have been inclined to think Americans materialists, whereas Americans are ready to sacrifice everything for an idea, provided the cause is noble and just."

He did not believe, he said, that there was any room for criticism of America because she had not entered the war sooner, for the head of the nation did not feel that the time was ripe or was not ready to take the responsibility until the nation had made up its mind. Now that America is in the war, he declared, one or the other of the world ideas must survive.

"We know positively," he said, "that democracy will triumph."

One thing that impressed any visitor to America, continued the Ambassador, was the all-abiding faith in democracy, the unalterable opposition to autocracy, the existence of which, Americans hold, means war.

"No democracy ever sets out to plot for war," he said. "True to the American spirit, once they have entered upon a path there will never be any turning back."

If there was a message he would bring to Britain from America it would be: "America is with you to the end, the only end possible—that is, until victory has been attained."

When the Ambassador denied the reports that he had returned to England to draft the terms of an offensive and defensive alliance between Great Britain and the United States, the audience chorused: "Too bad; too bad."

Pays Tribute to Women.

Lord Reading continued: "I want to say a word about the good service Germany has done us. Germany has taught us to know the good in our own people. We knew it, but did not realize it."

He then paid a tribute to the part the women had played in the war, saying that they had done any and every service they had been called upon to do. He also said that Britain had found great strength in the patriotism of labor, and as a result labor had won a better place in the world. He referred to the British victory of this morning and eulogized Marshal Foch. He asked, "What are the Germans now saying to each other? Are they realizing that they have arrived at a place where they have now begun to descend?" and added:

"Truth prevails, even in spite of the censor, more particularly the German censor. They must know that with America's assistance we can put far more men than they into the field. It is no exaggeration to say that we are almost double in productive capacity.

Ship Production Amazing.

"The Germans may answer: 'Yes, but you cannot transport them.'

"Well, look what we have done."

He then told of the gigantic American shipbuilding, which, he said, "baffles all description."

He was convinced that at the end of the war America and Great Britain would be able to work in closer cooperation and with better amity than ever before.

"Provided we don't fall into complacent optimism," he declared, "victory is absolutely marked out as certain."

Lord Reading quoted from President Wilson's Fourth of July speech to the effect that no half-way decision in the war was conceivable, and said that was the spirit of America in the inimitable words of the President, and no one knew it better.

As between Great Britain and America the war had destroyed every prejudice, he declared, and that the two countries were stronger together than ever in the history of the world. Their ideals and ambitions, he said, were the same and they would do justice to all small nations as well as big nations.

"We are fighting for justice," he concluded. "We have no desire to impose injustice on any nation. We, nevertheless, are determined that the war shall not end until, so far as humanly certain, small nations shall have justice and the peace of the world shall prevail."

THIRD AVENUE ROAD GRANTS AN INCREASE

Total of 2,100 Employes Will Benefit by Rise of 7 to 10 Cents an Hour.

The Third Avenue Railway Company announced yesterday an increased scale of wages for its motormen, conductors, and storage battery men. The increase affects a total of 2,100 employes, on all the lines operated by the Third Avenue Railway Company in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Westchester.

By the new increase the scale of from thirty to thirty-six cents an hour which prevailed up to yesterday for all classes of employes is raised to a scale of from forty to forty-three cents. First, second, and third year motormen and conductors will receive forty cents, and men of more than three years' service will be paid forty-three cents an hour. Storage battery men, regardless of the term of service, will receive a flat rate of forty cents an hour.

The company is one of the several transit corporations which are seeking an increase in fares and are before the Public Service Commission in an inquiry to ascertain just to what extent the cost of operations may be reduced by the elimination of parallel and adjacent transit lines for the period of the war.

Figures showing the ticket sales on the old and new subway lines on Monday, Aug. 19, as compared with the three Mondays previous, the first of the four being July 29, before the "H" operation was begun—were given out by the Public Service Commission yesterday. Generally the figures show an increase over weeks immediately preceding, but traffic on the whole system is not yet back to the point where it was before the change in the method of operation was made. It lacks about 35,000 of that figure.

Despite the fact that there is no shuttle service under 42d Street and that traffic is only north and south, the Public Service Commission reports an increasing sale of tickets at Times Square. The figures on July 29 were 32,258, while last Monday, this total was increased to 38,326. The fact that the old station was local in character while the new station is for expresses as well as locals accounts in part for the increase. On the other hand there has been a material decrease at the Grand Central Station where on July 29 the total sales were 74,472 while on Aug. 19 there were 57,435.

F. D. ROOSEVELT OPTIMISTIC

Says We Have Passed the Summit —May Don Uniform.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—"We have passed the summit of the mountain as regards the war," said Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the United States Navy, at a reception given by the French press this morning. "As to the submarines off the coast, the danger points can now be said to have been made safe."

Mr. Roosevelt insisted upon the necessity of all heads of departments seeing the war with their own eyes in order to understand its greatness. He dwelt on the fact that the improvements made at French ports to receive the American Army had all been made with a view to the future. He said that France would benefit from this work and that in this there was a "silver lining to the clouds of war."

Mr. Roosevelt, who has not slept two successive nights at the same place since he arrived in Europe, said that he hoped to return, adding "perhaps in uniform." He will visit Field Marshal Haig, the King of Belgium, and Government officials in England before his return to the United States.

78 MILES OF WARSHIPS.

Representative Randall Tells of Stupendous Array of Allied Fleet.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Representative Charles H. Randall of California, who, with several other American Representatives, returned to London today after visiting the allied Grand Fleet, issued a statement saying that he was profoundly impressed with the stupendous array of fighting craft.

The line of battleships and cruisers alone extends over a distance of seventy-eight miles, he says, and there are between 4,000 and 5,000 destroyers and smaller vessels of all sorts chasing submarines day and night about the British Isles. In conclusion Representative Randall said:

Smaller Concern Bought Out.

The corporation at Providence which according to Government officials was being used to pump profits from the Bayer Company, while under Government control, in the Williams & Crowell Color Company, Inc. Just before the Bayer concern was taken over, its officials, anticipating Government action, it is alleged, secretly obtained control of the Providence company, a comparatively small concern, which they purchased for $100,000.

The contract, which it is charged, was intended to pour huge unearned profits into the treasury of the small concern bound the Bayer Company to purchase its entire output of sulphuric acid dyes, which are being used to dye cloth for uniforms of American soldiers.

After the purchase of the Providence concern, a new company was organized in this city, using the same name except that "Inc." was added. A dummy directorate of American citizens, according to the charges, was formed, and they were curbed from possible participation in the excess profits by a section of the by-laws, limiting dividends to 10 per cent. on the capital of $100,000. Consequently the concern, which has been earning $50,000 a month and might soon have been earning more, could not pay out more than $10,000 a year to stockholders.

Suspicion, according to Government officials, was originally directed at the Bayer Company, because the Directors last January voluntarily asked Mr. Palmer to take over the property, because of its alien ownership. The officials of the company seemed to be overzealous in their desire to co-operate with the Government, it was stated, and this gave the impression that they were anxious to have the transfer effected without it being preceded by a searching inspection of the books and affairs of the concern.

Learned Facts by Accident.

An investigation of the company was made by Francis P. Garvan of the Bureau of Investigation of the Alien Property Custodian and Judge J. Harry Covington. Frank L. Crocker, counsel for the Bayer Company, co-operated. While they were going through the company's books an accident put the Government examiners in possession of the facts regarding the parasite corporation which had been established to absorb more than half a million dollars a year of the profits of the Bayer Company.

Dr. Stamm, the Providence agent of the Bayer Company, was investigated as a dangerous enemy alien on other grounds, but the inquiry into his affairs proved the connection between the Bayer concern and its secret offspring in Providence.

With information obtained from Dr. Stamm, the investigators learned that $100,000 had been taken from the Bayer Company treasury to buy the Williams & Crowell Color Company, and that other sums had been taken to expand the new enterprise.

When evidence of these transactions had been obtained, the investigators of the Alien Property Custodian confronted Director Seebohm and told him it was apparent that the Bayer officials had either committed a larceny of stockholders' funds by taking the money without authorization or that they had conspired to defeat the Trading with the Enemy act.

Seebohm was threatened with arrest on a larceny charge unless he could produce proof that the Bayer Company had legally authorized the use of its funds to buy out the Providence concern. He then admitted the connection between the two companies, and said the minutes of the Directors' meetings would show that the Bayer Directors had authorized the use of its money to get control of the Williams & Crowell concern.

Different Ink and Paper.

Director Seebohm the following day produced minutes intended to prove this. These appeared to have been freshly signed and the ink different in color from that with which Seebohm had signed his name at the foot of the minutes of other meetings.

The paper was also different. When the sheet which bore the signature was held up to the light, it was found to have a different watermark from that which appeared on other paper in the minute-book. Camparison showed that the watermark was the same as that which appeared on the stationary of a New York lawyer.

When Director Seebohm was asked to explain these discrepancies he said that the original minutes had not recorded the transaction correctly. He said they had been destroyed and that the lawyer had re-written the minutes on the day before.

An effort was made to learn the plans of the former Bayer officials for use of the money which the Williams & Crowell Co. was siphoning by padded contracts from the Bayer Company. The bylaws of this company provided that the corporation should have only three directors, and that one of them should constitute a quorum.

The minutes of the meetings did not name the directors present, but said only "a quorum present."

It was announced that waterfront property, which the Bayer officials and the disguised subsidiary had obtained at Edgewater, N. J., on an option, was valuable for war purposes, and would be taken over by the Government.

Effort to Disguise Ownership.

In order to disguise the ownership of this property still further, they used a legal device that has been encountered by the Alien Property Custodian in virtually every case of a German-owned concern which has sought to escape sequestration under the Trading with the Enemy act. This is what is called a "carry-in-the-hat" corporation, which means articles of incorporation framed to facilitate the transactions of a parent company which cannot safely appear to be connected with some of its transactions.

According to the Alien Property Custodian, when Seebohm secured the option on the waterfront property at Edgewater and turned it over to their lawyers they apparently lacked $100,000 to purchase the property. They then decided, according to Mr. Palmer, to use the same scheme by which they financed the Williams & Crowell Color Company, namely, the diversion of funds from the Treasury of the Bayer Company, and for this purpose the New Jersey Warehouse Company was organized, with a capital of $10,000. From the Williams & Crowell Color Company $100,000 was taken, which the latter in turn got from the Bayer Company.

The arrests were made at the close of the investigation by Special Agents Thomas Howick and Lewis F. Muccini of Providence and local agents of the Department of Justice. Dr. Hutz was reported to be on his way to this city from Boston last night. The case will shortly be placed before the Federal Grand Jury in this city.

At the Alien Property Custodian office, it was said that Mr. Palmer had turned the entire stock of the Williams & Crowell Color Company, Inc., into the Treasury of the Bayer Company, in addition to $250,000 in accumulated profits. This was done after their lawyer had told Mr. Garvan that the purchase of the Williams & Crowell Company was a clear case of camouflage, and had expressed his desire to turn over all the stock and money of the Williams & Crowell Company.

In connection with this case, Mr. Palmer directed assistants yesterday to question A. F. Mothwurf, a noted German chemist of the Bayer Company, and Max W. Stoehr, a Director of the Botany Worsted Mills of New Jersey. It was asserted that difficulty had been encountered by Mr. Palmer's office in making arrangements to take over assets of $16,000 belonging to Mothwurf because he had transferred the money to Stoehr in exchange for a note providing for repayment in German currency at the end of the war.

ARREST DR. RUDOLPH HUTZ.

Boston Chemist Seized in Bed on Warrant Charging Espionage.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 21.—Dr. Rudolph Hutz of Boston was held without bail by United States Commissioner Hodgman this morning, charged with violation of the Trading with the Enemy act and espionage. He was committed to Concord jail to await hearing on Aug. 28. Hutz entered the plea of not guilty. He is manager of the Bayer Chemical Company of Boston.

Hutz was arrested about 1:30 o'clock this morning at his Summer place on Pine Island, Lake Winnipesaukee, by Deputy Marshals and several Secret Service men, who rowed out to the island and found him in bed. He was handcuffed to one of his captors.

The warrant under which Dr. Hutz was arrested charges that he attempted to deliver to the German Government or its representative "certain documents, writings, code books, photographs, blue prints, plans, maps, models, instruments, appliances, or information relating to the national defenses."

Packers' Profits Are Regulated

The public should understand that the profits of the packers have been limited by the Food Administration since November 1, 1917. For this purpose, the business of Swift & Company is now divided into three classes:

Class 1 includes such products as beef, pork, mutton, oleomargarine and others that are essentially animal products. Profits are limited to 9 per cent of the capital employed in these departments, (including surplus and borrowed money), or not to exceed two and a half cents on each dollar of sales.

Class 2 includes the soap, glue, fertilizer, and other departments more or less associated with the meat business. Many of these departments are in competition with outside businesses whose profits are not limited. Profits in this class are restricted to 15 per cent of the capital employed.

Class 3 includes outside investments, such as those in stock yards, and the operation of packing plants in foreign countries. Profits in this class are not limited.

Total profits for all departments together in 1918 will probably be between three and four per cent on an increased volume of sales.

The restrictions absolutely guarantee a reasonable relation between live stock prices and wholesale meat prices, because the packer's profit can not possibly average more than a fraction of a cent per pound of product.

Since the profits on meat (Class 1) are running only about 2 cents on each dollar of sales, we have to depend on the profits from soap, glue, fertilizer (Class 2, also limited) and other departments, (Class 3) to obtain reasonable earnings on capital.

Swift & Company is conducting its business so as to come within these limitations.

EXEMPTION OF 10% IN WAR PROFITS TAX

Ways and Means Committee Simplifies Deduction, Eliminating Groupings.

TWO EXCESS PROFITS PLANS

Choice Will Be Made Between Them Without Consulting McAdoo, Kitchin Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The Ways and Means Committee of the House, which is drafting the $8,000,000,000 Revenue bill, agreed today upon a flat 10 per cent. exemption in the 80 per cent. tax on war profits. The basis will be the pre-war earnings in the three years 1911, 1912, and 1913. There will be no groupings. The 10 per cent. exemption will be universal.

In the matter of the excess profits tax, the committee considered two plans. The first is an 8 per cent. deduction, in addition to a $3,000 exemption, and all profits above 8 per cent. and up to 15 per cent. to be taxed 35 per cent. on the basis of invested capital, all above 15 per cent. and not above 20 per cent. to be taxed 50 per cent., and all above 20 per cent. to be taxed 70 per cent.

The second plan is to use the 8 per cent. deduction and $3,000 exemption, and tax all profits above 8 per cent. and under 20 per cent. 40 per cent., all profits above 20 per cent. to be taxed 70 per cent.

Neither of these plans, said Chairman Kitchin, was suggested by the Treasury Department, or will be submitted to it, and the committee itself will decide which is the better.

The committee will not meet tomorrow or Friday, but Mr. Kitchin and the financial experts who are drawing the bill will work on the measure. The section where the excess profits tax is to be inserted will be left blank until the committee's final decision.

"I do not think the bill can get into the House before the middle of next week," said Mr. Kitchin. "The excess profits matter may take a week in committee. Personally I favor the scheme with only two brackets. The two schemes are practically the same, and it is estimated they will raise from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 more than the present rates."

Practically all the proposed $8,000,000,000 of revenue sought to be raised has been provided for by the various taxes agreed upon by the committee, and there is little more to do except to put finishing touches to the bill in committee.

Corporations will be caught either under the war profits or excess profits taxes, said Mr. Kitchin. In most cases, the corporations will make two computations, one for each tax, and then the corporation must pay to the Government the higher of the taxes. There is also in the bill what is known as a "catch clause." It appears at first glance that if a corporation had invested capital of $1,000,000 or more and its earnings are less than 8 per cent. it will pay no tax. But the corporation would be taxed 10 per cent. on its net income.

"This will get the big, swollen corporations," said the Chairman. "On corporations whose invested capital does not exceed $25,000 we have limited the amount of excess profits or war profits tax, whatever it may be, to 35 per cent. In other words, the tax will not exceed 35 per cent. of its net income. On capital stock of $25,000 to $35,000 the tax would not exceed 40 per cent. of the net income."

Mr. Kitchin thought that from $2,275,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 would be realized from the war profits and excess profits taxes together. He said experts computed that the 1917 earnings of corporations were about $10,500,000,000, and in 1918 would be $9,700,000,000.

Merchants Favor 7-Cent Fares.

At a meeting of the Newark Board of Trade yesterday, Thomas N. McCarter, President of the Public Service Railway Company, presented resolutions asking that car fares be increased to 7 cents to meet increased operating expenses. He said the War Board had increased wages $1,800,000 and that the company had not enough surplus to buy a new car or lay a new rail, and was not in position to raise a dollar. The resolutions were adopted without a dissenting vote by the 300 members present at the meeting.

Senate Airplane Report Finished.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The Senate subcommittee which has investigated the airplane situation reached an agreement late today in a report which will be submitted to the full committee tomorrow before being made public.

ASKS AUTHORS' LEAGUE TO EXPEL DR. HALE

Less Entitled to Consideration Than George Sylvester Viereck, Says Clarence S. Thompson.

A petition was presented to Ellis Parker Butler, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Authors' League of America, yesterday, calling for the expulsion of William Bayard Hale as a member of the league.

The petition was prepared by Clarence Smedley Thompson, who headed the committee which recently petitioned for the expulsion of George Sylvester Viereck, German propagandist and former editor of The Fatherland, who was expelled from the league on July 25 last. Mr. Viereck sent his resignation, but it was not accepted.

The petition against Dr. Hale was directly due, Mr. Thompson says, to the statement made by Deputy Attorney General Becker recently that evidence had been submitted to the Government showing that Dr. Hale, in 1916, while a correspondent in Germany for the Hearst papers, acted as an agent of the German Foreign Office, making a trip with German passports to Rumania. The petition reads:

Whereas, It has come to our notice, through proceedings instituted by the office of the Attorney General for the State of New York, that a member of this league, William Bayard Hale, while serving as the Berlin correspondent of The New York American was at the same time acting as agent of the German Foreign Office; and

Whereas, While being in the employ of the German Government Mr. Hale, without acknowledging his German affiliations, conducted pro-German propaganda in America, even attacking the President of the United States at the very time when the President was endeavoring to maintain our rights at sea; and

Whereas, Such conduct on the part of Mr. Hale is, we believe, contrary to the high traditions of a writer and of American citizenship, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as American citizens and members of the Authors' League of America, do hereby petition the Executive Committee for the expulsion of William Bayard Hale as a member of the Authors' League of America.

Three names are necessary to bring the petition before the Executive Committee. Mr. Butler said it would be easy enough to get 200 if necessary. In his letter to Mr. Butler Mr. Thompson asks that Dr. Hale be expelled "at the earliest possible moment," saying that he is "much less entitled to consideration than Mr. Viereck, because, while acting as the paid agent of Germany, he sought to hide the fact."

Miss Gertrude Atherton, who seconded the motion to expel Mr. Viereck, said that she was heartily in favor of expelling Dr. Hale, and felt that it should have been done long ago.

Mayor So Orders, Holding That They Have an Obligation to the Public.

Gilchrist, Commissioner of Licenses:

Mayor's Office, City Hall, New York, Aug. 21, 1918.

John F. Gilchrist, Commissioner Department of Licenses:

My Dear Commissioner: Complaints have been made to me that newsdealers who have received a license from your department have refused to sell the daily papers published in this city. DRIVER OF SILK TRUCK SLAIN BY HIGHWAYMEN

Robbers Then Flee with $60,000 Booty, but Later Abandon It Near Cranford, N. J.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Aug. 21.—The police are searching tonight for the murderers of Charles Hilbert, who was shot to death this afternoon when a motor truck carrying $60,000 worth of silk, which he was driving from the Newark store of Kaltenbach & Stephens to their factory in Allentown, Penn., was held up by three armed men.

The highwaymen started to drive off with the truck, but later it was found abandoned near Cranford by the driver of another truck of the firm, which was on its way to Newark from Allentown.

The helper on Hilbert's truck, a boy named John Meyer, was robbed of $2 by the highwaymen. He was left standing in the road as the highwaymen drove off toward Cranford. Meyer ran back to this place and gave the alarm. The police went to the scene and found Hilbert's body. Later the other truck came in towing the missing machine.

Meyer says he and Hilbert were commanded to stop and when Hilbert hesitated one of the three highwaymen fired three shots at him, one of which took effect. Hilbert had just applied the brakes, and as the truck came to a stop the robbers jumped on the seat and dragged the dead man and Meyer to the ground. They seemed to know the contents of the truck, and soon made off, the man who did the shooting doing the driving.

Hilbert lived at Allentown. He leaves a widow and six children. Meyer also lives in Allentown.

RECORD IS CRUSHED BY ROAMER'S HEELS

Miller's Wonderful Racer Covers Mile in Speed Trial on Spa Track in 1:34 4-5.

GRASPS SALVATOR'S CROWN

Clips Seven-tenths of a Second from Mark Made 28 Years Ago—Great Crowd Sees Performance.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 21.—Andrew Miller's Roamer proved himself the fleetest thoroughbred in training this afternoon, when, practically unaided by pacemakers, he skimmed over the mile course in 1:34 4-5, breaking the American record of 1:35⅕ made by Salvator on a straightaway track at Monmouth Park, N. J., on Aug. 28, 1890.

The achievement, which had been looked forward to ever since the new track here showed the possibility of exceptional performances, delighted the largest midweek crowd of the meeting, among the veterans who saw the long-standing record shattered being Matt Byrne, who trained Salvator for his great feat, and William Walker, the jockey who rode Ten Broeck when that horse made the record of 1:39 3-5 that preceded the performance of Salvator.

Hundreds of expert timers held watches on the time test, which had been extensively advertised, and not one of these could be found who made the figures slower than those announced by J. D. Odom, the official timer of The Jockey Club.

The marvelous speed of the 4-year-old gelding was evidenced in the early part of his flight against time, for, racing along unimpeded by the wind which faced him in his plucky finish through the stretch, he covered the ground with a long raking stride, leaving two track records for intermediate distances in his wake and equaling another.

The fractional times were: Furlong, 0:12 1-5; quarter, 0:23 2-5; three furlongs, 0:34 3-5; half mile, 0:46; five furlongs, 0:58; six furlongs, 1:10 1-5; seven furlongs, 1:22 2-5; one mile, 1:34 4-5.

Spectators Frantic with Joy.

There was a wild and joyous scene when the gallant old horse which has been the hero of dozens of hard-fought contests came tearing through the stretch with head held well up in the air by Jockey Andrew Shuttinger, who, having ridden Roamer in most of his races, appears almost like a part of the horse himself.

Hundreds of timers had trooped into the infield, where the start in the chute could be observed and the time correctly recorded at the different points.

As Roamer swept by the successive points that marked each furlong it was evident to these experts that the smashing of the record was only a question of his finishing without faltering seriously. The mighty racer was equal to the occasion, and the first intimation that Roamer had succeeded in his task was received when hats of jockeys, trainers, and handlers in the infield went flying in the air. A moment later the mystic figures were flashed in the timer's stand and the air resounded with cheers such as have not greeted a winner of a horse race this season.

Shuttinger took his time in pulling up his mount and while he was returning to the stand Andrew Miller had to push his way through a crowd of companions, all wishing to congratulate him on owning the fastest horse alive today. He shook the hands of dozens of friends, and reached the track just in time to be photographed with his champion, Trainer Goldsborough, and Jockey Shuttinger.

Wind the Only Handicap.

Roamer's trial was made after the second race, the track receiving no special preparation except the usual grooming before the races began. Fine weather for a week or more had, however, served to make the going as good as at any time this season, the only drawback being a wind that blew across the track, so that it would be felt in the home stretch.

There had been much talk of pacemakers, but though Mr. Miller favored a fast horse to draw out the extreme speed of the champion, Trainer Goldsborough said this was not necessary. "The old fellow needs no pacemaker," said Goldsborough. "He will give up his best and that will be good enough."

Just to give Roamer the idea that he was in a race, the two-year-old, Lightning, was sent to the post with him, but he was a negligible quantity in the battle against time, as Roamer broke in front and never heard the sound of the juvenile's heels behind him.

The start was in the chute behind the stand, but when the cardinal jacket of Shuttinger flashed into full view Roamer was five lengths ahead of Lightning. It was not until after he had covered the first quarter of a mile that he arrived at the top of his speed. Shuttinger had rated him nicely to that point, but gradually let him have his head and Roamer, when once free to do his best, laid down to his work so that his body sunk closer to the ground, and his long raking stride carried him over the third furlong in 11 seconds, the fastest eighth of the journey.

Turns the Half in 46 Flat.

A half mile in 46 was next recorded, and, with Shuttinger still keeping him under control, he turned the next furlong in 12 seconds, so that he reached the five furlong pole in 58 seconds, two-fifths of a second faster than the track record held by Eternal. The pace was wonderfully even in the middle of the test, but the speed slackened just a little, so that the next eighth was a fifth of a second slower, but it brought Roamer to the six furlongs in 1:10 1-5, equaling the record held by Polymelian.

Shuttinger was urging his mount at this time and with good results, for the next furlong gave evidence of stamina as well as speed, and at seven furlongs his time was 1:22 2-5, two seconds faster than the track mark and only two-fifths of a second slower than the remarkable record made by the "big train" Rose-ben at Belmont Park. Up to this time Shuttinger had not used his whip, but at the furlong pole, with the goal in sight, he gave Roamer one little swish to remind him that the crucial moment had arrived. The early lightning speed had told its tale and the breeze played a part in holding back the great racer, so that the last eighth took 12 2-5 seconds, but he ran with his head well up and determined strides until his task was accomplished and the cheers of the thousands rewarded him.

Coming out in the paddock, Roamer seemed to know that he had made turf history and he pawed the ground playfully as if in acknowledgment of the praise bestowed on him by the bystanders. There may be more triumphs in store for the wonderful old horse, for when asked if he would start Roamer in the Saratoga Cup race, Mr. Miller replied, "Why, certainly. In the cup race he will have to meet the crack three-year-olds, as well as Cudgel, considered the handicap king.

The chief event outside of the time trial was the Saranac Handicap for three-year-olds, in which A. K. Macomber's Motor Cop, the winner of the Withers Stake, scored cleverly over The Porter, owned by E. S. McLean. The mile in the mile, 1:36 4-5, gave further evidence of the remarkable nature of Roamer's feat. The summaries:

CUBS SHOW NO QUARTER.

New York Crumbles Before Chicago in 9 to 2 Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The Giants crumbled and fell before the attack of the Cubs today, losing the opening game of the series by a score of 9 to 2. Poll Perritt, who started the game, was badly off form and his difficulties were increased by the loose fielding of his team mates. Ferdie Schupp, who relieved the slim right-hander in the fifth and finished the pastime, fared but little better.

When the Cubs went to bat in their half of the opening frame, the Giants became badly rattled. Flack opened with a single to right. Perritt pegged to Zimmerman to catch Flack napping off first base, but instead caught Zim napping, and the ball went all the way to the grand stand, Flack reaching second. Hollocher hit to Doyle, who fumbled the ball long enough to allow the batter to reach first base and then pegged it far over Zim's head, Flack scoring and Hollocher reaching second. Mann singled to right, Hollocher stopping at third, but Paskert brought the short stop in with a sacrifice fly to Kauff. Fletcher booted a grounder from Merkle's bat, after which Pick grounded to Zimmerman, Mann scoring.

In the fourth singles by Deal and Tyler, Flack's out, and a triple by Hollocher resulted in two more runs for the Cubs, and the Giants scored their second and last run of the afternoon in the fifth on successive singles by Burns, Young, and Kauff.

Baseball Today, 3:30 P. M., N. Y. Yankees vs. Detroit. Polo Grounds. Adm. 50c.—Adv.

JOLT BY MOGRIDGE SUBDUES DETROIT

Yankee Pitcher Cleans Bases with Two-Bagger and Wins the Game, 5 to 2.

One fat inning was enough to give the Yanks a 5 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Quite unexpectedly, the Hugins batting order was seized with a violent hitting spasm in the second inning and chalked up five runs during the operation of driving George Dauss out of the box. There was nothing about the event in Harlem which in any way disturbed any one's nerves or emotions. The crowd was neither large, nor distinguished, but it was orderly.

Even the presence of Tyrus Raymond Cobb, whose very name used to be enough to call the fans from far and wide, did not awaken any remarkable outbursts as it used to in the old days. The Jewel of Georgia is now only a ball player just like the rest of them. Mr. Cobb is thumping the ball at a .377 clip. He is leading the American League hitters but he isn't going anywhere. The unrest which is being felt in baseball has affected Cobb like all the other players. It was not an unusual thing for Cobb to go from first to third on an infield out once upon a time, but yesterday he tried to go from first to third on a base hit and died in the attempt.

The Yanks showed remarkable signs of consciousness yesterday. For instance, Ham Hyatt beat out an infield hit in the second inning. Not long ago he stole a base.

Lefty Mogridge was the big disturbance against the Detroits. He pitched so well when Tigers were on the runways that it was next to impossible for the boys from Fordville to get a glimpse of the plate. Mogridge took matters in his own hands in the second and, with the bases full, he swept them clean with one fearful blow to right center field. To any other ball player this would have been a three-bagger or a home run, but Mogridge limped as the result of being spiked, so he got only as far as second.

Peckinpaugh robbed Ty Cobb of a hit by a miraculous catch in the first inning. With two gone, the Georgia Gem rapped a hot liner to short, Peck turning his back to the ball and at the same time stabbing it with his gloved mitt for a unique back-handed clutch.

The Yanks feasted on Dauss's curves in the second and prodded him out of the box. Pratt singled to left and Fournier beat out a hit to short, both runners advancing on Bush's wild toss to first. Ham Hyatt beat out an infield hit, Pratt scoring. Peck's single scored Fournier, and Walters filled the bases when he rolled to Dauss, who failed to force Hyatt at third. Mogridge belted a long two-bagger to right centre, sending Hyatt, Peck and Walters over the plate. Carroll Jones then succeeded Dauss on the mound. Gilhooley lined to Bush and Mogridge was doubled at second. Lamar walked and died stealing.

Detroit had annexed a lone run previously in that round. Veach singled and Griggs was out, Fournier to Mogridge. The Yank pitcher was spiked but was soon patched up. Harper singled to left, and Veach scored when Walters muffed Hyatt's fine throw to the plate.

Detroit added another in the sixth. With one gone, Cobb singled to left. Veach singled to left centre, and Cobb beat Hyatt's throw to third. Veach was run down between second and first and while he was being trapped, Cobb scored. Jones was subtracted from the pastime in the seventh to permit Cunningham to go in and strike out. Kallio then assumed the flinging burden for the Tigers.

NET STARS TUNE UP FOR TITLE TOURNEY

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 21.—With a field of contestants that includes many of the leading tennis men of the country, play began this afternoon in the annual invitation tournament at the Meadow Club which yearly has provided the final test of strength preparatory to the national championships at Forest Hills. This season nearly every player who is considered to be of championship calibre is entered in the event.

Thirty-two contenders have a place in the singles draw, and the balance of strength is so well distributed that the highest quality of tennis is indicated in the latter rounds of the event. In the upper half of the draw are such prominent players as Elliott Binzen, Ichiya Kumagae, Harold Throckmorton and Theodore Roosevelt Pell, while in the lower half are Conrad B. Doyle of Washington, runner-up for the clay court championship in 1916; Walter Merrill Hall, William T. Tilden and Robert Lindley Murray and Vincent Richards.

Murray, who won the National Patriotic singles event a year ago, will arrive here tomorrow, his first round match going to him by default. In the case of the others who advanced through the first round the victories were achieved without great difficulty. Kumagae, who is among the favored for the National Singles title, showed a high quality of play when he defeated J. S. O'Boyle of Pelham Bay Naval Training Station in two love sets. The latter was bothered somewhat by an injured ankle, but it was perfectly evident, nevertheless, that Kumagae was playing the keenest sort of tennis, and that his game is far stronger than when he first arrived in this country.

Harold Throckmorton, who has been playing very little tennis thus far this season, proved that his duties as a soldier have not impaired the quality of his game. He was opposed by J. B. Hughes, and triumphed at 6—2, 6—1, but it was not so much the score itself that told of Throckmorton's strength as the manner of his play. There was hardly a trace of wildness in the work of the former junior champion, and he seemed to possess all of the speed that characterized his work during the tournaments of two years ago.

There was rather more spirited play in the lower half of the draw, for it was in this section that Tilden ran into a keenly waged match, and the same was true of Vincent Richards, who, with Tilden, recently won the national doubles championship at Boston. E. H. Hendricksen, Tilden's opponent, was defeated by a score of 6—3, 7—5. In the last set Tilden was well behind his rival, but he succeeded in pulling out the match. At one time Hendricksen led at 4—1 in the second set, and he was still leading at 5—all and 40—30.

Richards was a participant in the only three-set match played during the afternoon. It was Fred C. Baggs who carried the youngster along at a merry clip that for a time threatened disaster to Richards. The score of the encounter was 7—5, 2—6, 6—2. Baggs came within an ace of winning the opening clash. He led at 5—3 and 40—30, only to have Richards start a rally that clinched the honors. The young net star played a keen, heady game throughout the match, which emphasized more than ever how great is the merit of his tennis.

Conrad B. Doyle, with his clever cut stroke, brought about the confusion of E. F. Thomas, Jr., of Pelham Bay, with the score 6—1, 6—4.

Walter Merrill Hall's victim in the first round was one of the younger school of net starts, Harold Taylor. But as proficient as Taylor is, he nevertheless was unable to interpose any serious opposition to Hall, who won and allowed his opponent only two games in each set. The Canadian net star, A. S. Cassils, proved an easy victim in a first-round match against Elliott Binzen, who won at 6—2, 6—0.

A start was also made in the doubles tournament this afternoon, and in this event Harold Taylor was more fortunate than in singles. He and Kumagae defeated A. S. Cassils and H. C. Sonne at 6—2, 6—1. One of the best matches of the day was played between Harold Throckmorton and W. M. Hall on the one side and Dr. Rosenbaum and Fred Baggs as the opponents. Rosenbaum and Throckmorton played a finely balanced game and earned the verdict at 6—3, 6—1.

The summaries:

First Round.—Elliott H. Binzen defeated A. S. Cassils, 6—2, 6—0; Walter T. Hayes defeated H. D. Kerusey, 6—0, 6—0; Ichiya Kumagae defeated J. S. O'Boyle, 6—0, 6—0; Harold A. Throckmorton defeated J. CAPITAL TAX FORMS REACH COLLECTOR

DELAY IN DRAFTING RULES

Edwards, Urging Speed, Expects Big Increase in Revenue from Wall Street District.

Capital stock return blanks, which are expected to add several millions of dollars in taxes in the Wall Street District, were received yesterday by Internal Revenue Collector William H. Edwards. Many concerns in the financial district have been looking forward for weeks to these returns and it is expected that today there will be a big demand for them.

These tax returns were due to be filed in July for the Government's fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, but owing to a delay in drawing up the necessary form and regulations two time extensions were granted. The latest extension provides that the time-limit in the continental United States is Sept. 30, while returns are due to be filed at Honolulu, Hawaii, Oct. 31.

"For the past month there has been an incessant call for these blanks from concerns in my district," Collector Edwards said, yesterday. "No wthat they are available. I hope that they will be returned to this office as speedily as possible. Last year this tax netted approximately $6,000,000 in this district. This year we look for a considerable increase. Last year only those companies with a market value of capital stock of over $75,000 were required to file. This year all corporations must file. Those showing no tax the Government will pass upon."

The corporations required to make a return include "every corporation, joint stock company or association (except insurance companies) now or hereafter organized in the United States for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, irrespective of whether it is the creature of statute or of contract, engaged in business at any time during the year July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918, and not specifically exempt under the provisions of section 11, title I, of the Act of Sept. 8, 1916."

If any corporation or association fails to make and file a return within the time prescribed by law, or makes a false or fraudulent return, the Collector or his deputy is authorized to make the return from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise. Such return, when subscribed by the Collector or his deputy, shall be prima facie good and sufficient for all legal purposes.

From the fair value of the entire capital stock will be deducted the amount of $99,000, the exemption allowed by law, and the tax will be assessed on any balance at the rate of 80 cents for each full $1,000 of such remainder.

Corporations refusing or neglecting to file returns within the time prescribed by law, or rendering false or fraudulent returns, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $800, and an additional tax of 50 per cent in case of neglect to file the return within the time prescribed by law, and 100 per cent in the case of a false or fraudulent return shall be added to the assessment.

Corporations or associations doing business in the Upper Manhattan Revenue District should obtain the capital stock tax forms from Collector Mark Eisner, 1,150 Broadway. While Brooklyn firms will be supplied by Collector Henry P. Keith, with offices in the Federal Building.

DANIELS PREDICTS GREAT OCEAN TRADE

Secretary of Navy Says United States Will Control Commerce of Western Hemisphere.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels told the thousand distinguished guests at the dinner tendered at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria by the Mayor's Committee on National Defense in honor of the officers of the Argentine battleship Rivadavia and the officers of the Brazilian battleship Sao Paulo, that although in the past the United States had failed in its duty of sending ships to South America to enlarge commerce between the two continents, the stress of war had caused us to begin ship construction and having begun it, we would never stop until we have enough ships to ply between this and every port of the Americas.

Army and navy officials of all the allied powers were represented at the gathering, where speeches were made showing the strengthening ties between the United States and the countries of South America.

The dinner was attended by 210 line officers of the United States Navy and many distinguished guests, including Ambassador de Gama of Brazil, Ambassador Naon of Argentina; Major General J. Franklin Bell; Captain Carlos Daireaux, commanding the Rivadavia; Captain Cesar Augusto de Mello, commanding the Sao Paulo; Mayor Hylan, Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, John Barrett, Director General of the Pan-American Union, and Jorge Mitre, editor of La Nacion, of Buenos Aires.

"It heartens those of us who have long wished to see closer commercial and friendly ties between our Republic and all the Republics of America," Secretary Daniels said. "First of all our navies are getting closer together. That must be the beginning of a great merchant marine, for Admiral Mahan tells us that no nation, except a nation bent on conquest, ever has a great navy unless it has a great merchant marine; they must go together.

Continuing, Secretary Daniels said:

"When this war shall end—and it will not end until liberty prevails in all the world—when this war shall end we shall have a new heaven and a new earth. Old conditions have passed away, and the new problems that come to us will demand the wisdom, the unity and the solidarity of all the Americans to settle them wisely for ourselves and for the world."

SEVEN LOST IN WRECK OF A PATROL BOAT

The Montauk Driven Ashore on Cumberland Island in a Heavy Gale.

ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 21.—Seven members of the crew of the United States patrol boat Montauk were lost when the craft was driven ashore by a high northeast gale on Cumberland Island, twenty miles north of Fernandina, at 1 o'clock this morning.

The body of one has been recovered.

FORD TO RETURN WAR GAINS

Announces He Will Refund Personal Profits on U.S. War Contracts

DETROIT, Aug. 21.—Henry Ford, through his private secretary, announced this afternoon that he would return to the United States Government all the profits he makes personally on war contract work. He added that he thought several other stockholders of the Ford Motor Company would follow his example.

The contracts awarded by the Government to the Ford Motor Company amount to several million dollars. No profits have been paid yet because none of the contracts has been completed.

What the profits will amount to or just how they will be returned to the Government was not stated.

FORCING THE GERMAN RETIREMENT.

The ground gained, the strategic towns and railway junctions occupied by the Germans in their great offensive in five phases begun on March 21 are now being won back by Marshal FOCH and his French and British lieutenants. But that is not all. The total of prisoners taken by the Allies in less than five weeks is almost 100,000, and the number of field guns, besides great quantities of stores and equipment, must be well on to 3,000. Furthermore, the German casualties, far exceeding those of the French, British, and Americans, have been so great that scores of divisions are literally shot to pieces and must be reorganized. A French General, reviewing the fighting of the last month, has said that Marshal FOCH has deprived the German commanders of liberty of action, which means not only that they have been deprived of the offensive, but that they have lost control over their defensive plans.

In a sense the Allies are fighting the battle of the Somme over again, because the same slow and costly process of pinching the enemy out of objective towns is being gone through at the present time. The French have at last captured Lassigny, but only after many days of heroic effort. General MANGIN, by advancing his line to the northwest and southeast of Noyon—on the southeast it now enters to La Pommeraye and Elerancourt—is loosening the grip of the enemy on Noyon, and he must soon let go. General MANGIN, if he can drive on, will soon be master of the valleys of the Oise, Ailette, and Aisne, in which case it will be difficult for the Germans to make a stand on the Aisne after retiring from the Vesle. But if the progress of the French and Americans in this sector is not as rapid as was the forward movement of the Germans in the early phases of their offensive, it must be remembered that the French as they fell back were never shaken in their morale, which evidently cannot be said of the Germans. They are losing men in staggering numbers, and the effect must be undermining discipline, because the rank and file had been promised a decisive victory. Marshal FOCH cannot capture a German army or put it to rout, but his hammer blows, which fall without cessation, must be very damaging to the boasted morale of the enemy. No Hindenburg line can be held if the German troops, losing heart, realize that they are being steadily worsted and always beaten.

Marshal HAIG's new offensive between the Ancre and the Scarpe is plainly a counterpart of his late brilliant drive further south, in which he took such heavy toll in prisoners. The advancing lines will be linked up. The new drive was begun in a fog, and what has been accomplished has not yet been fully reported. But it is evident that General BYNG is moving with characteristic speed in the direction of Bapaume. If the Germans had planned a retirement in this sector, the British seem to be helping them along rather roughly. It seems to be Marshal FOCH's design not only to press the whole German line back, but to keep it on the move and not permit it to select Winter quarters.

POLLUTED WATERS.

The public is so much indebted to Mr. PERKINS for its pleasures at Palisades Park, and so much indebted to Mr. HATCH for the purity of its drinking water, that the clash between them causes regret. The public is more interested in its own welfare than in the personal aspects of the controversy, and does not fail to remark that Mr. PERKINS's suggestion that pecuniary interests are behind Mr. HATCH's charges that the waterside of Palisades is polluted to a degree dangerous to health is no answer to what interests the public chiefly. The charge that the river is polluted in the neighborhood of the park needs no proof to those who have eyes and noses. The pollution is not of a sort which needs a microscope or a chemist to disclose. It is more unwholesome than the factory acids or fumes which cause more annoyance, but less disease. In the river the swimmers "play whale" and spout the water which there is reason to believe to be poisonous.

This is not a New Jersey nuisance to which New Yorkers expose themselves when they cross the river to the park. The villages on the river side of the park have disposal works, put there by the activities of Mr. HATCH; the New York side is innocent of anything of the sort. Eventually New York City must protect itself against this threat to the health of its dwellers who seek health and risk disease on the New Jersey side of the river. That may come about by the intervention of Federal authority, such as has been exerted against the New Jersey polluters as part of the protection of the national harbor. But that is too distant to be considered in the present state of the city's finances.

The immediate necessity is for policing the use made of the park, reinforced by some simple and cheap sanitary arrangements. That is necessary because the users of the park belong mostly to a class of the population whose sanitary ideas are not well developed, and who are in the care of the park when they are there. It would be well if Mr. HATCH and Mr. PERKINS could get together somehow, the one to make reasonable suggestions along lines of his experience, and the other to make what use of them may be practicable.

"THE NECESSARY AID."

There is some comfort and reassurance concerning the situation in Siberia and the admittedly dangerous position of the Czechoslovak troops in a press dispatch from Washington published yesterday; not in the belief expressed that "assistance being sent to the Czechoslovaks in the Baikal region of Siberia will reach them in time," but in the statement made by "a high official in the State Department," who said "that this was a part of a bigger program now being worked out in a practical way to furnish the necessary aid."

The assurance that "a bigger program" is engaging the attention of Washington is an admission that the earlier "program" was inadequate. Willingness to admit mistakes, and correct them, is an attribute of large minds. The decision to send only a "little handful" of American troops to Vladivostok was a mistake. It was a mistake for the American Government to withhold its assent to the plan of our partners in the war to dispatch to Siberia a force sufficiently large to give the needed support to the Czechoslovaks against the German and Austrian war prisoners opposing them, and to the Russians needing and ardently desiring help and protection against two foes, the Teutonic enemy, and their Bolshevist oppressors. The course of events in Russia has brought that mistake and its consequences clearly into view. We hope the correction comes in time.

However comfortably confident Washington may feel that timely relief will reach the Czechoslovaks in the neighborhood of Lake Baikal, such information as is available from other sources is not equally reassuring. This force, friendly to the Allies, fighting the cause of the Allies, is in some peril. Its strength is variously estimated to be from 30,000 to 40,000 men. Before relief can reach it from Vladivostok, an intervening force of the enemy, of equal or greater strength, must be met and overcome. It would be a serious reproach to us, and a bitter memory, if these brave and loyal friends of the allied cause should be overcome because the aid it was long ago planned to send them was delayed by our objection.

The period of tenderness for the feelings and interests of the Bolsheviki, of the Soviet tyranny in Russia, is at an end, we hope. Openly or covertly, from one motive or another, oftentimes from a secret sympathy with the aims of socialism, the virtues and the aspirations of LENINE and TROTZKY have been much preached about in this country. This advocacy was of direct service to Germany, it has been seriously harmful to the cause of the allied Governments. The argument that intervention in Siberia would drive the great body of the Russian people into the arms of Germany was persistently employed by the friends of the Bolsheviki here, and it has had its effect, unfortunately. Nobody can any longer pretend that the Bolsheviki are not our enemies; and we can no longer doubt that the Russian people would be grateful for allied help in their efforts to overthrow the brutal and destructive despotism set up in the name of the revolution and of freedom, but really at the instigation of Germany, by the men of the Soviet. Precious time has been lost, but if an agreement has been tardily reached upon a "bigger program," if it has been really resolved to extend the "necessary aid," the outlook for the Russians and for the Allies in the east becomes visibly brighter.

VARDAMAN FALLS.

As the duper and idol of the "hillbillies," the astute player on ignorance, passion, and "poor white" prejudice, the "White Chief," the upholder of the "White South"; the man who went to the Senate, with his tongue in his cheek, to get the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments repealed; as a shrewd old Indian draped in a "Spanish cloak" or poncho; as the hero who was once drawn in triumph and a "chariot" through the streets of Meridian by eighty yoke of white oxen, JAMES K. VARDAMAN was an amusing figure in political vaudeville-melodrama. When the war broke out, he became a nuisance and a scandal.

The Senator who said that "the United States stabbed Germany in the back while France and England held her down"; that "American youths are to be fed to the Moloch of war so the European people who prefer a King should be forced, at American dictation, to take a Republican or Democratic President as their ruler"; that "the cause of this war was the interference on the part of Germany with commerce between New York and London"; that the war was "purely a matter of pecuniary profit"—this man will not be in the Senate after March 3, 1919.

Representative HARRISON, a sound, loyal American, will succeed this Senator who voted against the Armed Ship bill, the declaration of war, conscription; who opposed practically every war measure, though he promised to support the war after it was declared. His sneers and snarls will soon be heard no more in Washington.

Fire-eating pacifist, what screw was loose in him? Was he the victim of his own singularity, grown megalomaniacal, or did he simply overestimate the hillbilliness of his State? A good day's work for Mississippi, the Senate, the country is the downthrow of this egoist-pacifist. Would that the more lamblike, the woolier pacifist NORRIS of Nebraska had gone down, too.

AN ILLINOIS PROPHET.

To BONAMY PRICE, the economist, a hallowed Oxonian gibe, ascribes this opinion of Niagara Falls: "Beastly place. One can't hear the sound of one's voice." Our amiable friend, Senator LEWIS of Illinois, makes no such complaint of the thunders of war. From Paris, again adorned by his presence, he sends the thoughts that arise in him as he looks into the seeds of time. The Republican and Democratic Parties are to "have nothing left but their names." They "are already finished so far as their former traditions and activities are concerned."

How many times have those toughold entities been pronounced dead, been ostentatiously inurned! How often, to take a local example, has Tammany been buried! The Republican Party died in 1912; the Democratic Party in 1860 and again in 1896. They are still remarkably healthy, and while, as generations and issues arise, changes, modifications, reversals of old policies occur and new doctrines are accepted, the thread of historic continuity is never entirely lost.

Of the domestic readjustments and reconstructions, economic, financial, industrial, social, to be expected after the war, Mr. LEWIS says hardly a word. He sees just two great domestic issues: Shall war insurance be continued? Shall Government control or ownership be made permanent and its scope enlarged? In other words, shall Federal socialism, adopted for war reasons as a temporary necessity, or, in the case of the telegraph and telephone lines, as an assumed necessity, become a lasting and ever-swelling policy? Does Mr. LEWIS expect both parties or either party to favor this absolute remaking of the Government? He is a candidate for re-election to the Senate. His term expires next year. He is too prudent to emit his opinion. It is like enough that there will be a persistent effort to impose bureaucracy on the industries and communications of the United States. Mr. LEWIS is sure that the State rights issue "has been killed by the South." It may revive all over the country when the conception of a meddling, monstrous, all-swallowing Federal State is made clear to Americans, who now put up with anything for the war's sake.

But the great issue of the next Presidential campaign to Mr. LEWIS, looking fondly from the Seine to Lake Michigan, will be whether the United States "shall have formal defensive "and offensive alliances with other "countries," or co-operate "with "this or that country, or group of "countries" temporarily for "a specified worthy object." Mr. LEWIS finds "a group in the South" and another in New England that will favor the formal and permanent alliances. Then he turns him to his West and begins drawing lines across the map from Omaha to St. Paul, from San Francisco to Seattle. The "great foreign element" in the West is against formal alliances and is to be enlarged. Mr. LEWIS changes the immigration laws, inserts 25,000,000 immigrants, between the lines, gives each of the 25,000,000 "a farm as "large as the largest peasant farm in "Europe." Romantic mensurator, generous creator and distributer of "unutilized land," conqueror of the impenetrability of matter; scorner of space and possibility! Never has our amiable friend, instructor of the Qual d'Orsay, ornament of the Rue de Rivoli, written more fanciful poetry.

But when we remember the past industry and ebullience of alien sympathies, remember certain petitions that Mr. LEWIS has presented in the Senate, remember that he is a candidate, what shall we think of this:

These agricultural immigrants would be discouraged from coming if America had formal alliances with some countries, but not with others. Those from nations with which we had no formal alliances would feel that their fatherlands were being discriminated against.

Was it wise to export Mr. LEWIS, even for a season, before he found out that there is just one America, run by and for Americans? No other "fatherlands" need apply. From laying a dog tax to forming alliances, if they choose, with half Europe, Asia, and Africa, the American people will act for their own interest and good, according to their own sweet will, and not according to the pleasure of this race and that, from the Aland Islands to Zealand. This is not a branch and continuation of other "fatherlands."

"The Democratic Party cannot go East for its candidate" in 1920. Modesty forbids him to be specific. For particulars see "Who's Who"; article: "LEWIS, JAMES HAMILTON."

SPAIN MAY SEIZE GERMAN SHIPS.

There is no longer any room for doubt concerning the note of protest sent by Spain to the German Government. After the substance of it had been printed by the Spanish press, Foreign Minister DATO, on the 18th, issued a denial. "As to the Spanish note addressed to Germany," said he, "it is impossible to publish it, because it does not exist." The first contradiction of this denial came, on the 20th, from an associate in the Cabinet, General MARINA, Minister of War, who spoke of "the note recently sent by the Spanish Government to Berlin, regarding the sinking of Spanish ships by submarines," asserting that although its tone was "firmer" than that of preceding protests, it could not affect his nation's neutrality or cause a rupture with Germany. Minister DATO may have been angry, but his denial was not repeated.

Then the entire Cabinet, DATO probably included, on the 21st gave to the public an official statement about the note, admitting that in it Spain had given notice of her intention, "in case of new sinkings," to replace the vessels thus lost by taking German ships now interned in Spanish ports. The Berlin Government is told that 20 per cent. of Spain's merchant tonnage has been sunk, and more than 100 sailors killed or wounded, "ships needed exclusively for Spanish use having been torpedoed without the slightest pretext." The Government feels that it must guarantee indispensable maritime traffic and protect Spanish sailors, but its purpose, thus announced, "does not affect its firm resolve to maintain strict neutrality." Spain should have a more competent Foreign Minister than the one whose denial has thus been repudiated and disproved by the Cabinet.

But why should interned German ships be taken only for Spanish vessels which may hereafter be torpedoed and sunk? If justice and the nation's needs require such compensation for future losses, why should not some, if not all, of the eighty-one already destroyed be replaced by selection from the ninety idle ships lying in Spain's harbors? Germany is fortunate in being held accountable only for offenses which, after this warning, can easily be prevented by new orders to the submarine pirates. "New sinkings," with continued German reverses on the western battle-front, might lead Spain to replace the entire 20 per cent. which has been cut from her merchant marine. Her neutrality will be more commendable if the shipment of supplies to troops is not interrupted and German spies are driven from her coast.

FEDERAL TAXES AND THE LOAN.

The desire of Congress to postpone the pending War Tax bill until after the elections is natural, considering the sort of bill in preparation. But the Fourth Liberty Loan comes before the elections, and is more to be considered than they. What the Treasury fears is shown by the intimations that the amount to be asked for will be reduced, and that excess subscriptions to the six billion total will be accepted. The danger is not alone from the 80 per cent. war profit tax. The excess profits tax is more threatening to the loan, although it is pretty sure that Secretary MCADOO will prevent Chairman KITCHIN from doing his worst. The uncertainty is as bad as the rates proposed by the House Committee. It would even be a relief to know that Mr. KITCHIN's proposals were the worst to be feared, and that nothing new would result from action by the Senate or conference between the houses.

Until the bill is actually in final form, there is unsettlement as much from experience with surprises as from actual proposals, however much they may be disliked. Even if the House should end its deliberations forthwith, the Senate would require as much time as the House has taken, unless the Senate should take to itself the counsel of all prudent haste, which thus far has been confined to the House. Hardly six weeks remain before the loan date, and the pending bill must pass in less time than the existing law required, if it is to be got out of the way of the loan. If the fourth loan is successful, another might not be necessary this year, but disappointment with the fourth loan would make another necessary before New Year's. Nobody could wish that, not even Mr. KITCHIN for the sake of triumph over Secretary MCADOO, if that were possible.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

New York's Claim Is Special.

To demand for the New York policemen, as such, exemption from the coming draft is to invite ill-natured comment, of course, from other cities all over the country, for in those other cities, too, and especially the larger ones, there is naturally a disinclination to have their own police forces weakened by the departure of many men difficult or impossible to replace.

No other city, however, holds anything like the same relation to the rest of the country that New York does, and the maintenance in none of them of a police force of the very best quality is a matter of anything like such importance as it is to them all that here order and safety shall at all times be preserved. Upon that maintenance depends in no small degree—to a degree far greater than at any other port—the movement of our troops to France and the constant flow to them of ammunition and food supplies. It is not at all unfair, therefore, for New York to expect and to demand a special treatment in this matter of police exemption, not as a favor to its own citizens, but for reasons that are not appreciably any more theirs than those of other Americans. They are reasons directly connected with winning the war, and that is a New York interest only as it is an American interest, or, to put the case still more strongly, an interest of the whole civilized world.

Our police force lost many of its men as volunteers for every branch of the military service, and the draft of men from 21 to 31 took many more. The decrease will be serious indeed with the draft age advanced to 45, for that will include a large majority of the whole organization—practically all of the men who are capable of police service in those most strenuous forms for which there may any day be urgent demand.

Should there arise abroad a necessity for more soldiers as desperate as can be imagined, New York would be glad to see every one of its policemen sail for France, and it would and could get along, somehow, with grandfathers and boys for home guards. But such a necessity is not now in sight, and every day that passes makes less the likelihood of its coming.

This Change Would Be Advantageous.

That the adoption here of the so-called skip-stop plan of running surface cars would compel New Yorkers to do more walking than they do now is unquestionable. It is unquestionable, too, that New Yorkers prefer riding to walking, and that therefore the innovation, from the standpoint of their established habits and personal preferences, would be one for the worse. That is only one side of the case, however, and far from its most important side.

This generation does not realize as well as did its predecessor how much more of energy is required for the operation of a car that makes frequent stops and starts than for one that can traverse its route with only a few of them. When our street cars were drawn by horses the difference was pathetic as well as obvious, for it was in starting the loaded cars that the animals had to make the expenditure of strength that wore them out so soon. The difference is the same with electric cars, only now the expenditure is of coal at the power stations instead of horseflesh between the rails, and to prevent waste of coal is at present something for the sake of which we all should, and would, endure with cheerfulness a considerable amount of inconvenience.

But the skip-stop plan would do more than save coal—it would also save time for all passengers riding more than a few blocks. This it would do by increasing the speed of the cars, and the increase would be appreciable, even if only every other corner ceased to be a stopping place. Washington and several other cities already have the stops still further apart without finding themselves intolerably troubled, for, the longer the intervals, the greater will be the speed attained in the journey as a whole.

In New York the skip-stop rule cannot be an iron one, but should be adjusted to the widely different conditions that exist in different parts of the city. Where the distances between avenues are long the crosstown cars could be exempt from it entirely and stop at any corner, as now.

Surely We Will Do Our Share!

Beginning today and continuing for a week there is to be a determined and well organized effort to persuade the people of this city to buy all of the War Savings Stamps needed to fill the quota of $100,000,000 that was allotted to it by the National Committee. For some not very easily explicable reason, this particular loan has not been taken here quite as promptly and as generously as, on its merits, which are many and great, it deserved to be, and only four and a half full working months remain in which New York can have an opportunity to do its obvious duty and to maintain its record of giving for every worthy cause more than is demanded.

In this week's campaign the chief workers are to be the 20,000 members of the eleven organizations affiliated with the National Council of Traveling Salesmen. Supplementing them will be volunteers from among the 30,000 to 40,000 independent salesmen in the city, and together they will endeavor to sell all the War Savings Stamps which the 150 trade committees are willing to underwrite.

That this underwriting should be done at once is vital to the success of the undertaking, for all the stamps must be paid for before they are put in the hands of the salesmen. The results, too, will be measured in actual Treasury receipts, not in pledges, the stamp sales of the last few weeks having shown the questionable value of many of the pledges obtained during the June drive. The hope is to sell during the week stamps to the amount of $25,000,000. That would bring the completion of New York's $100,000,000 well in sight.

AIRPLANE PARACHUTES.

Some Difficulties of Their Use in Case of Accident.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial remarks in yesterday's TIMES invite comment upon the peculiar fact that although jumping from airplanes with parachutes has been practiced both here and abroad for some time no use is being made of such means of reaching the ground in safety either at the front or at our training camps.

As a matter of fact it is an entirely different matter to jump from an airplane on an even keel, choosing the exact moment to let yourself go, from a similar jump when made from a structure which is spinning—perhaps upside down—and certainly subject to very erratic movements.

For one thing, if an airplane comes down "out of control" it is the duty as well as the natural tendency of the pilot to "stick it out" and to do his uttermost to regain equilibrium. If he happens to be high enough the chances are in favor of his doing so before connection with the ground is made. By the time he realizes that it is too late for him to right his machine before crashing it will be too late for the parachute to open, provided he could possibly manage to jump clear of it into space.

Do not forget that a modern airplane presents considerable difficulty in getting in and out of the seat. Indeed, in many types the pilot or observer sits fairly between the wings and cannot get clear of the machine except by climbing over several stay wires. If the machine were falling "out of control" it would be next to impossible to get out of the seat in time, not to speak of the many chances of being caught in one of the many wires or the always present possibility of dropping into the path of the propeller.

Then, assuming the aviator to have jumped clear of the machine, there is the further chance, which amounts almost to certainty, of having the falling wreck drop upon his parachute as it opens. It will take a drop of two hundred feet or so to open a parachute of large size. Then its speed begins to slow down, and with the large area it presents it is unlikely that it will have a chance to get clear of the falling wreck, which travels much faster.

As it is, is is probable that many accidents are prevented by the very fact that the aviators are not provided with parachutes. They stick to their machines and, unless of course they are too near the ground, in a great majority of cases manage to regain control of their machines.

The Water Power Bill.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of the 16th inst. you carry an interview with Attorney General Lewis, headed "Another Veto Laid to Hearst by Lewis."

Mr. Lewis among other things says "that 14,000 horse-power development * * * in the city of Oswego is today going to waste because of Governor Whitman's subserviency to the principles of Mr. Hearst." The Attorney General is mistaken—the power named is today going to waste because Attorney General Lewis, upon succeeding to that office, persistently refused to recognize the rights of the city of Oswego to the power at the dam in question, and which rights have been adjudicated in the Supreme Court by Judge Irving G. Vann, former Justice of the Court of Appeals, sitting as referee in an action involving the ownership of such rights, as vested in the city of Oswego.

If Governor Whitman vetoed the bill which Mr. Lewis describes on the ground, as the latter alleges, that the bill made no provision for the acquisition of the power by the city of Oswego—then Governor Whitman certainly showed himself more alert to protect vested rights and to uphold the integrity of the State in dealing with one of its municipalities than has Mr. Lewis. Judge Vann has held that the State by its acts and agreements has conferred certain water rights at such dam to the city of Oswego. Mr. Lewis, as Attorney General, has persistently held these same agreements scraps of paper.

It looks now to citizens of Oswego that the whole play of the so-called Water Power bill presented to the last Legislature by the Attorney General was staged for Fall consumption.

A Sympathy Campaign.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The timely warning in your paper last Sunday by Gertrude Atherton as to the crying peace propaganda soon to be launched should be spread throughout the country. There is but one medicine for this ailment, and that is the "Serum of Silence." The attempts to poison the minds of the public in this country are now at the peak. The way to meet this German propaganda poison is with the "Serum of Silence." The "tongue cut out" stories and the "Red Cross selling sweaters" bunk should be met with silence. Refuse to listen to this stuff and the propaganda dies. The electric light bulb is a great success until you turn off the current. The prairie fire is a great success until it hits the back fired strip and has nothing upon which to feed. So with this propaganda poison, it dies when it cannot find a listener. Turn from the peddler of German poison as you would from the snake in the grass, but turn in silence and he will understand you mean business. Inoculate the enemy within our gates with this serum and we can win the big battle going on right here in our own country. Apply this treatment to the crying sympathy campaign Miss Atherton outlines and it will not get very far.

OF A BABY WHOSE FATHER HAS FALLEN IN BATTLE.

When others hold my baby in their arms
They see round limbs, a little flower face,
Eyes wherein baby ecstasy gives chase
To shadows cast from her wise soul.
They see pink palms,
Opening and closing on her world around
And on the hearts of those who hold her.
They see again her father, and his way
Of lighting lives with love. A baby crowned
With memories! And thus my little Sweet
Perfected is—for them!
But, ah, for me,
She is not only blessed Memory!
For through her eyes mine do watch her greet
Her father at this moment! She so late
Has sped from heaven to earth, her April eyes
Have brought clear vision from the skies,
While mine are blind. . . . There is a faery gate
Through which she pulls me with her little hands—
Her fluttering petal hands. . . . Dreams, blossom-white,
She lays upon my heart with fingers light,
And, fairywise, makes true my Soul's demands.
She is my sweet Responsibility,
For I must shelter her with tenderness
Until my dreams bring us the dawn of happiness
When we are with him in Eternity!

ROUNDING UP BRITONS.

Recruiting Mission Will Now List Delinquents for Draft Boards.

Brig. Gen. W. A. White, in charge of the British and Canadian recruiting mission in the United States, yesterday issued this statement:

"During the last year, while the New York depot of the British and Canadian recruiting mission, 220 West Forty-second Street, has been recruiting British subjects residing in New York City between the ages of 20 and 45 years, a large number of men who have signed their preliminary application for enlistment in the British and Canadian Armies and have undergone medical examination have failed to report on the date when they were to be attested and sent forward to join their military units.

"The custom has been to allow recruits a sufficient time after signing their application and being passed by the Medical Board to close up their private affairs before going forward. Now that the British and Canadian recruiting mission is about to cease operations under the ruling of the draft treaty between the United States and Great Britain, it is proposed to prepare lists of the names of those men who have failed to report for duty and send them to the local draft boards so that these men may not escape military duty after the British and Canadian recruiting mission closes its operations in the United States."

BOY PATRIOT WINS FRIENDS.

Lawyers Get Him Clothes and a Job After Court Frees Him.

Ernest Snyder, 14 years old, of Philadelphia, told Judge Mack in the Federal District Court yesterday that he would do anything to get a "German shooting license" and would continue his efforts to enlist in the marines even though he had been discharged after it was discovered he was under age when he enlisted.

Ernest was arrested, charged with wrongfully wearing the uniform of a soldier. Asked why he continued to wear the uniform after being discharged, the boy said he understood he had a right to wear it three months. "Besides, I had no other clothes," he added.

"Why did you go on the street with a cigar box and solicit money from people?" asked Judge Mack. "Did you not know that was wrong?"

The boy said he wanted the money to buy civilian clothes.

The court assigned A. H. Gleason to defend the boy, and after he had been discharged Mr. Gleason promised to buy him a suit of clothes and another lawyer offered him a job in the Atlas Valve works in Newark. The court told Ernest he was lucky to have one lawyer furnish him a suit and another with work.

ASKS LAFAYETTE TRIBUTES.

Davison Urges States to Exalt Principles for Which He Fought.

The American Defense Society yesterday addressed a letter to the Governor of each State in the Union urging that the 161st anniversary of the birth of Lafayette be properly celebrated throughout the United States on Sept. 6. A letter written to the Governor of each State by Charles Stewart Davison, Chairman of the society's Board of Trustees, said in part:

"The American soldiers in France, who are aiding the French in the world's greatest war in defense of liberty, will make us bring to the celebration of Lafayette's birthday a real devotion to his memory for the help and succor he brought us in the darkest days of our struggle for national existence. This year, therefore, in the name and for the sake of the soldiers we are sending across the seas, let us commemorate the name and fame of Lafayette and, above all, the generous and exalted principles for which he fought and of which his name is significant."

Chairman Davison reminds the Governors that for Americans of today a new meaning surrounds the name of Lafayette. The further point is made in the letter that Sept. 6 is the anniversary of the first battle of the Marne, and adds: "America did not know when the battle of the Marne was fought that its own liberty was at stake, but it knows now."

REDUCE STORAGE OF COAL.

Fuel Administrator Rules No Supply to Extend Beyond April, 1919.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Heavy demands on Eastern coal fields have caused the Fuel Administration to limit the amount of coal storage for industrial plants and to fix a uniform amount for each State east of the Mississippi, and also for Minnesota, North and South Dakota. The action was agreed upon at a meeting of State Fuel Administrators with officials of the Federal Fuel Administration.

Demand for fuel is increasing in the navy and transport service, and a policy of the Fuel Administration upon storage was announced.

"Coal in excess of that required for current operations shall be delivered to plants not on the preference list of the War Industries Board only when it is not in demand for use before April 1, 1919, by consumers on said list, namely, railroads, the Federal Government, States, counties, public utilities, retail dealers, or manufacturing plants on the preference list," said Dr. Garfield.

New Jersey Federation Criticises His Attitude Toward Labor.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Aug. 21.—Criticisms of Postmaster General Burleson's policies were contained in a resolution adopted today at the closing session of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor here. The resolution, which was adopted without a dissenting voice, said:

"Postmaster General Burleson has fought the unionizing of postal employes and has refused to aid them in obtaining more pay, and for this nothing but condemnation could be expected from organized labor. He has refused to listen to the recommendations of the business men of the country who favor the pneumatic postal tubes, but instead has added thousands of motor trucks to the already heavy traffic of the streets of large cities where formerly tubes did the work. The public interests demand the tubes, yet he opposes the public interests."

GIVE IN TO WOMAN'S PARTY.

Washington Police Will Let Them Hold Demonstration Today.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Members of the Woman's Party received a permit by the Army Engineer's Office today for a speech-making demonstration tomorrow on Lafayette Square, opposite the White House. This apparently ends the row between the Washington police and the women, who for several weeks have been attempting demonstrations in defiance of the police to protest against the Senate's delay in acting on the Federal suffrage amendment.

All the women who were sentenced to short jail terms when they refused to pay fines for participating in gatherings on Lafayette Square were released last night without completing their terms.

MURPHY NO LEADER, OSBORN DECLARES

"Never Contributed an Idea or a Dollar to the Cause," Candidate Adds.

WOULD HAVE HIM OUSTED

Democratic Party Cannot Win in Presidential Election, Says Osborn, with Murphy as Tammany Head.

William Church Osborn, who is contesting the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination in the primaries with Alfred E. Smith, made a bitter attack yesterday upon Charles F. Murphy. He declared that Murphy would have to be ousted from the leadership of Tammany if the Democratic Party hoped for success in the State in the next Presidential campaign. Mr. Osborn likened Murphy to a feudal lord of old and termed him one of the "funniest anachronisms" of the times. He said he had been asked whether, if nominated and elected, he would acknowledge the control of Murphy as leader of the State organization, and he emphatically replied that he would not.

"I am a regular Democrat and believe in home rule," said Mr. Osborn. "I do not believe in the right of one district to interfere in the affairs of another. Mr. Murphy has control of the State organization, but he is not and never has been a leader. I have watched him closely for fifteen years, and he has never contributed an idea or, so far as I know, a dollar for the cause. When Mr. Shepard was a candidate for the United States Senate Mr. Murphy announced at the Grand Central Station that he had eliminated him from consideration, and he thereby started a party fight that led to the wrecking of the administration of Governor Dix.

"When the Progressive split made a Democratic victory in the State certain, he nominated Sulzer, and then he brought on the impeachment proceedings and the good name of the party was ruined. His control of the State organization has been marked by a series of stupid moves, which have dissatisfied both the people and the organization throughout the State.

"The only men of ability he has brought forward are Senator Robert F. Wagner and Alfred E. Smith, who for years have been his personal representatives in Albany. I can see no prospects of Democratic development in this State while he retains control of the organization. I am making no fight against the organization men of the State, many of whom are my friends and associates. Those who recollect the proceedings of Mr. Murphy at the Saratoga Convention of 1916 and their subsequent effect on the Democratic Presidential campaign in this State are convinced that similar conditions should not obtain in 1920."

CLAIMS ALL FOR WHITMAN.

Chairman Cocks Says That Governor Will Carry Every County.

W. W. Cocks, Chairman of Governor Whitman's primary committee, predicted yesterday that the Governor would carry every county in the primaries with the possible exception of Albany, where the Barnes organization is in revolt, just as he did two years ago. He declared that the sentiment for Mr. Whitman is strong in every county with the exception of half a dozen scattered sections where certain leaders, for personal reasons, are opposing the Governor.

"Mr. Barnes's organization at Albany shows signs of weakening," said Mr. Cocks. "In its opposition to the Governor as Mr. Barnes and his leaders learn that the Governor has many warm supporters, including William H. Storrs, Superintendent of Buildings in Albany, an officer of the Albany County Republican organization; the Rev. Mr. Dugan; ex-Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety Rice, and others who are active in supporting the Governor."

Seth G. Heacock, candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, declared yesterday that he intended to remain in the primary race against Edward S. Schoeneck, despite Governor Whitman's indorsement of the latter's candidacy. "Loyalty," he said, is to be his issue.

Presiding Justice Almet F. Jenks of the Appellate Division of the Brooklyn Supreme Court called a special session yesterday and set Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock as the time for hearing the appeal of Controller Eugene M. Travis from the decision of Supreme Court Justice Cropsey throwing out his petition for renomination in the primaries. Five of the seven Justices were present.

HEACOCK STATES ATTITUDE.

Thinks Schoeneck Should Not Have Place on Ticket.

ILION, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Seth G. Heacock, candidate in the primaries for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, today gave out a statement explaining his reasons for opposing renomination of Edward Schoeneck. He reviewed the charges of sedition against John A. Tolishus, clerk in Mr. Schoeneck's law office, and the dismissal of the indictment against Tolishus.

"I have studied very carefully the full exposure of Mr. Schoeneck's connection with the Tolishus case," said Mr. Heacock. "Supplementing this, I made an investigation in Syracuse, where John A. Tolishus, Mr. Schoeneck's law clerk, was indicted, in the course of which I visited the city on no less than eight different occasions, conferred with the Lieutenant Governor's friends and neighbors and many of those connected with the case, until I came to the conclusion for myself that there was no place, on our platform on which Mr. Schoeneck could stand. Then, and not until then, did I consent to have my friends file their petition making me a candidate.

"I make no accusation or charge against Mr. Schoeneck; I simply ask that the loyal American newspapers of this State tell the full story of his connection with the Tolishus matter, and I ask the patriotic enrolled Republicans of the State to read it carefully and decide for themselves whether there is a place for Mr. Schoeneck on the Republican ticket."

LEWIS KEEPS UP ATTACKS.

Assails Whitman in Opening Campaign Speech at Koenig Club.

Attorney General Merton E. Lewis, who is opposing Governor Whitman for the Republican nomination for Governor, opened his speaking campaign last night at the clubhouse of Samuel S. Although Chairman Koenig is supporting Governor Whitman, the district organization gave Mr. Lewis a hearty welcome and listened respectfully to his attac

AUG. HECKSCHER SUES WOMEN FOR SLANDER

Asks $500,000 Each from Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Kelly for Alleged Pro-German Accusations.

ALL SUMMER NEIGHBORS

Papers in Suit Repeat Gossip Said to Have Been Indulged In at a Social Party.

August Heckscher, one of the largest real estate operators in New York, an officer and Director in many corporations, clubman and yachtsman, has sued Mrs. Teenie Noel Johnston of New York and Huntington, L. I., and Mrs. Dorothy Van Schaick Kelly of Huntington for slander, demanding $500,000 damages from each, and the costs of the action. Mr. Heckscher alleges that the defendants did the slandering when, in the case of Mrs. Johnston, she said that Mr. Heckscher was decidedly pro-German, and that his yacht left Huntington Bay every morning at 1 o'clock to spy on American shipping and report later to German agents whatever those aboard the yacht thought would be of value to the Imperial German Government. In the case of Mrs. Kelly, it is alleged that she slandered Mr. Heckscher by repeating to a friend what she had heard from Mrs. Johnston.

Mr. Heckscher, the Johnstons, and the Kellys are Summer neighbors at Huntington. Mrs. Johnston is the wife of J. Herbert Johnston, Secretary of the Agatine Shoe Hook and Eyelet Company of 38 Broad Street. Their town house is at 18 Washington Square North. Mrs. Kelly is the wife of Robert J. Kelly, and it was said at the Kelly home at Huntington last evening that Mr. Kelly was the son of the late Eugene Kelly, a well-known oldtime New York banker.

The suit was brought for Mr. Heckscher in Suffolk County by the New York law firm of Bayles & Sanborn. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Johnston, at a party she gave at her home on July 6, "in the presence and hearing of divers and sundry persons, and with the intent of injuring this plaintiff and to cause it to be believed that this plaintiff had violated the espionage act, * * * did, in the presence and hearing of such persons, speak and publish the following false, defamatory, and malicious words concerning this plaintiff: 'The boatman said Mr. Heckscher's boat went out every night at 1 o'clock,' meaning thereby that the plaintiff's boat, nightly at 1 o'clock went forth clandestinely and habitually, under cover of darkness, upon the waters of Long Island Sound and it tributaries for the purpose of spying, conveying information or supplies to, or otherwise serving, the interests of the German Empire and its servants and agents, contrary to the interest and welfare of the United States, with which said German Empire then was and now is at war."

The complaint continues to the effect that Mrs. Johnston intended, by her languages to convey to her guests, and it was so understood by them, that Mr. Heckscher had been guilty of the crime of espionage and with having, in time of war, attempted to injure the United States and to assist the German Empire.

The complaint in the action against Mrs. Kelly recites, among other things, that, "upon information and belief, this defendant * * * said the following false, defamatory, and malicious words concerning the plaintiff: 'At a luncheon today' (referring to a luncheon that she gave at the home of Mrs. Teenie Noel Johnston, at West Neck, in the town of Huntington aforesaid,) 'they were talking about the Hecksch-ers being pro-German, (meaning thereby that this plaintiff and other members of his family were followers, helpers, and sympathizers of the German Empire in its war with the United States of America.) 'You know, Grace,' (meaning Mrs. Grace Lambert, who was then present,) 'Mrs. Johnston said that the boatman said Mr. Heckscher's boats went out every night at 1 o'clock. They even say that Mr. Heckscher's money is German money,' (meaning thereby that the money which this plaintiff has devoted to the cause of the United States and its allies and their charities, and to his business purposes and in maintaining his home, was money furnished to him by the German Empire, or its citizens, for illegal, improper, and disloyal purposes, and was tainted and corrupt)."

The complaint goes on to state further that Mr. Heckscher was born in the free city of Hamburg, that he came to the United States about the year 1867 and that, in 1874, he was naturalized and became a citizen of the United States in Pottsville, Penn. Since then, the plaintiff avers, he has at all times loyally and unqualifiedly supported the United States and its institutions in peace as well as in war.

SPEAKS FOR MRS. MELLEN.

Counsel in Separation Action Denies Charges.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 21.—M. B. Warner, counsel for Mrs. Charles S. Mellen, who is being sued for a legal separation by her husband, Charles S. Mellen, former President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, today issued a statement in her behalf in which it was said that she had submitted for more than a year to unfounded charges.

"Such a propaganda has been conducted, however," the statement continues, "that we no longer can submit in silence without justly arousing suspicion that the charges that have been made are true. Mrs. Mellen alleges that Mr. Mellen caused a groundless suit to be brought in New York City to which wide publicity has been given. This action was wholly unwarranted. These extraordinary proceedings launched against Mrs. Mellen have forced her to take action for the protection of herself.

"Mrs. Mellen and her daughter Catherine are now stopping in this city. A hearing in the case is set for Sept. 10."

OPEN SALESMEN'S DRIVE.

Several thousand traveling salesmen assembled at Carnegie Hall last night for the opening of the great drive to sell $25,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps by Aug. 29.

Last night's gathering was in the nature of a patriotic rally, in which the salesmen and their friends, packing the hall from floor to gallery, not only had their instructions expounded to them, but also the war-winning purpose of the whole thrift movement. The speakers included Alfred H. Smith, President of the Board of Aldermen; John Hedges and Frederick W. Allen, Director of the New York War Savings Committee.

In the course of the week a series of war savings features will be conducted by theatrical stars in front of the Forty-second Street Library, the stars of some particular Broadway success appearing each day of the drive.

5,000 ARSENAL MEN GIVE PLEDGE TO BAKER

Frankford Force Promises Secretary That Nothing Will Be Permitted to Hinder War Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—Resolutions pledging loyalty to the Government were adopted by the 5,000 employes of the Frankford Arsenal and presented to Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, who delivered an address today at the centennial celebrataion at the arsenal. The workers promised not to go on a strike under any consideration or encourage others to do so, and declared they would not do anything to hamper the speedy progress of the war. Mr. Baker said any grievances of American ammunition workers would be speedily and justly settled.

After congratulating the men on the growth of the arsenal, Secretary Baker said the chief business of the United States was to win the war at the earliest possible date. He praised the workers in the munition plants and shipyards and urged them to speed up to the limit.

"We are fortunate in having a great single-minded purpose," he said. "We are not desirous of taking territory or riches from any other country, but we are in pursuit of freedom and a more perfect civilization. The bulk of the skilled and technical employes of this country are now engaged in industries essential to the winning of the war. The nation which produces not only the largest army but is backed by the greatest industrial force will win. We are matching smokestacks as well as armies today with Germany. General Foch has taken the initiative and he is choosing the time and place for his encounters with the enemy.

"The vaunted German advance and superiority has burst like a bubble in the sun before the strength and courage of the American soldier. He is backed up by the arsenals of this country."

After his address Mr. Baker inspected the arsenal and returned to Washington.

MOVING TO SETTLE LONDON BUS STRIKE

Arbitration Body Will Reconsider Its Decision About Women Drivers' Wages.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—An agreement was reached today that the Committee of Production, an arbitration body, would reconsider its decision on the tram and bus employe bonus and that pending the decision work would be resumed.

The strike arose out of a decision of the committee to give male employes 5 shillings weekly bonus to meet the increased cost of living, but excluded the women employes. In the circumstances of this strike public opinion is on the side of the women conductors, who have been doing their work as well as the men could do it.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The National Transport Workers today passed a resolution declaring that the strike arising from the refusal to pay the women street car and bus conductors the 5 shillings advance given to the men must be settled on a national basis of "equal pay for equal work." The resolution announced that the transport workers would take steps to enforce this principle. This means that unless the demands of the women are granted there will be a general strike of transport workers.

A "sex war" is a possibility seen by some commentators on the strike of women transportation workers for the pay received by men for the same work. It is pointed out that the ramifications of the strike may extend to all war industries.

Newspapers advocating equal pay for men and women argue against the contention that many women workers are receiving a separation allowance because their husbands are fighting. The bonuses given women in many munition plants are lower than those paid to men workers, and it is reported that the women are becoming dissatisfied over what they claim to be "inequalities."

COOKS AND WAITERS STRIKE

Knickerbocker Dining Rooms Closed and No Meals Served.

All the waiters and cooks at the Knickerbocker struck yesterday. The dining rooms were closed and no meals were served. Some of the men, when asked the reason for the walkout, said that they wanted $40 a month instead of $35, and that they objected to certain extra charges which they had to bear, such as the cost of laundering of their aprons.

Manager Moriarty said he thought the matter would be adjusted by tomorrow. He is negotiating with the men and expects to arrange with them to go back. In the meantime patrons of the hotel have been compelled to go out for their meals.

DRIVE FOR OLD CANES.

Many Sticks and Crutches Needed by Wounded Soldiers.

Persons having canes to spare will be doing an act of charity and patriotism by calling or communicating with Frank W. Beck, whose telephone is Columbus 3996.

Mr. Beck is doorman at the Spencer Arms Apartment, 140 West Sixty-ninth Street. Among those who have apartments in the house are Walter H. McIlroy, Assistant Field Director of the Red Cross, and Mrs. McIlroy of the West Side Branch of the Red Cross.

One day last week Mr. McIlroy casually told Doorman Beck that many wounded American soldiers, for lack of something better, were hobbling about, using broomsticks or shovel handles for supports.

"Let's make a drive for old canes," said Beck, and the "cane drive" started. The first day Beck gathered a dozen canes and a number of crutches. It seemed that every man in the big apartment house had a cane to give. News of the need of canes has reached apartment houses and hotels in the neighborhood and more canes are coming.

DIDN'T WANT CARUSO FOR HIS SON-IN-LAW

Park Benjamin Says He Refused Singer's Plea for His Daughter's Hand.

THE WEDDING A SURPRISE

Based Opposition on Difference of Ages, Nationality, and Temperament.

Park Benjamin, father of Dorothy Park Benjamin, who was married on Tuesday to Enrico Caruso, the singer, said at his Summer home at Spring Lake, N. J., yesterday that the marriage had come to him as a great surprise, for he had absolutely refused his permission when the tenor asked him for his daughter's hand. He said that Caruso had been spending week-ends at his home, and had come to him last Friday to ask for his daughter.

"We talked the matter over amicably enough," continued Mr. Benjamin, "and I supposed that with my refusal the matter was closed. My daughter went to New York on Monday, and I heard nothing more of the matter until somebody called me on the telephone on Tuesday night to tell me of the wedding. It was neither my daughter nor Mr. Caruso who called, but I assure you that I was completely surprised.

"My objections are of a kind that cannot be overcome. They are based upon the difference in the ages of the couple, and the fact that they are not of the same nationality. Moreover, the singer is a man of temperament. I did not want my daughter to marry riches or a voice, or an orator, but just a man. However she is a mature woman and Caruso is 45, therefore the match cannot be ascribed to the ardor of youth.

"As for the singer's past that the newspapers have raked up, that makes no difference to me. The incidents related occurred when he was a mere youth. Since then he has become the world's greatest singer, and he has reached that position as the result of the very hardest kind of work, and so has had no time to do anything but lead the best kind of life.

"You ask me whether my daughter and son-in-law will be received here if they call. I can hardly answer for the whole family. The whole thing was so extremely precipitous that we haven't had time to think, but the thing is done now and cannot be helped, so we shall probably make the best of it. There is no mystery at to why we did not go to the wedding. We were not asked."

In his apartment at the Hotel Knickerbocker yesterday afternoon Caruso talked freely of his marriage and seemed to enjoy immensely the bustle and to-do connected with the staging of his suite to eight rooms. While he talked and laughed and told of what his friends had written to him in congratulation, the hotel men were moving in new furniture, his secretaries were answering telephone calls, receiving telegrams, and meeting callers. Caruso showed a stack of 150 telegrams which he and his wife had received, among them being congratulations from General Guglilmotti of the Italian Military Commission, from Amato, Gatti-Casazza, and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Mr. Caruso is daily expected to be received at a small party of friends and relatives at his father-in-law's house a week from Saturday.

JULY'S SHIPPING LOSS SLIGHTLY ABOVE JUNE'S

LONDON, Aug. 21, (via Montreal.)—Losses of merchant shipping by Great Britain during July aggregated 176,479 tons, an increase of 10,985 tons over June.

Allied and neutral gross tonnage sunk aggregated 136,532, making the total gross tonnage lost during the month 313,011. The loss in allied and neutral tonnage was an increase of 20,552 tons over the report for June.

Compared with the adjusted May losses the July shipping casualties show a decrease in British vessels lost of 55,300 tons and an increase in allied and neutral vessels of 3,829. Compared with the July figures of 1917 the combined British, allied, and neutral losses show a decrease of 262,938 tons.

The British losses in July exceeded the building figures in United Kingdom yards by 34,531 gross tons, but during the same month a total of 12,220 tons was completed for British account, reducing the deficit to 22,311, as compared with the average monthly deficit in the first six months of this year of nearly 90,000 tons.

Sailings to and from Great Britain during July were more numerous than ever, being 7,718,898 gross tons for steamships exceeding 1,500 tons. This represents an increase of 288,512 tons, as compared with June.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

While yesterday's stock market proved to be a repetition, in many ways, of previous sessions, with irregular price changes taking place in most issues, and with little evidence of interest on the part of the public in the fluctuations, the bond department reflected clearly the reaction on the minds of investors with large incomes of the proposals to add to income taxes, while removing the immunity which many issues always favored by the wealthy have enjoyed. The bidding for the Liberty 3½s, which have sold this year as low as 97.20, took up all of the bonds that were offered without checking the rise, and the price advanced to a new high at 102.06. At this figure the yield is reduced to approximately 3.30 per cent. The trading in this issue was in unusually large volume, and the entrance of the speculative trader into the field of Government bonds supplied a real novelty. The Land Bank bonds moved up rapidly, nearly reaching 106, while State and municipal issues at present enjoying the exemption privilege were firm.

Efforts to inject something of the old speculative fever into the stock market have so far proved abortive, although in a few of the specialties, such as Hide and Leather, pool activities have brought about noticeable gains. The familiar tactics of one group of the International Mercantile Marine family in putting out suggestions of developments of great importance without first making sure that their associates would at least give them tacit approval by remaining silent on publication proved a sad failure yesterday, as measured by the public's response. Marine preferred closed off ¾ and the common down ⅝—a strange response to the promise that the preferred stock would be paid off at 100 and the common at 40.

Just what the outcome of the peculiar situation in which the big shipping company has been placed by the British and American Governments' seizure of its principal vessels will be is by no means clear, even to the Directors. Terms for the sale of the British ships were agreed upon some months ago, and the transaction will undoubtedly be consummated in due time. It is also expected that the present International Mercantile Marine Company will be liquidated, with a new corporation taking over the ships when released by the United States authorities. Beyond that it is idle to speculate.

Money continues to be quoted at the fixed rates, but with the bankers standing ready at any time to administer a check if the speculative demands threaten to absorb more than the rather limited amounts now being put out.

STOCKS SCARCE IN LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The stock market today was in good tone, though there was a scarcity of available securities, which checked business generally. The feature of the day was the strength and activity of Canadian rails.

Japanese securities were firmer on further bond cancellations, and also on the report that order had been restored in Tokio. Mexican securities were in renewed demand. Russians were irregular. Shipping shares are improving, while oil stocks are strong. There were persistent inquiries today for low-priced oil shares.

Money was in more demand today.

Paris Bourse Active.

SAYS MEXICO WANTS ALLIES TO HAVE OIL

Luis Cabrera Declares New Decrees Will Not Harass Them.

WOULD INCREASE OUTPUT

Former Finance Minister Says His Country Has No Pro-German Tendencies, as Reported.

The new oil decrees of Mexico which separate the title to surface lands from the sub-soil deposits which the Government claims, and which decrees drew allegations of "confiscation" from Great Britain, will not work hardship on the United States or the other allied nations, according to Luis Cabrera, formerly Minister of Finance of the Carranza Cabinet, who is stopping at the Hotel McAlpin. Mr. Cabrera, who returned several days ago from South America, where he had gone as Chairman of a Mexican mission, said that the origin of the present system of taxation and regulation of oil in Mexico dated back to February, 1917.

"Mexico never meant to interfere with the oil supply of the Allies," he declared, "nor to interfere with vested interests. Her purpose was just the opposite, to increase her output and to open the production of oil to all interests on an equal basis. Mexico is today supplying the Allies with more oil than they can transport."

Mr. Cabrera said there was inserted in the new Constitution of his country a clause calling for the separation of the title to surface lands and sub-soil deposits, with the intention of nationalizing the oil fields. He said the idea of the measure was to prevent monopoly and assure reasonable revenues to the Government, which until 1913 had let its oil wealth pass out of its hands. We have no income tax, and we charge a certain percentage on the rough output of oil, so that with the tax levied on it Mexican oil is the cheapest oil in the world today."

Speaking of his trip to South America, Mr. Cabrera said he left here last December to take part in the proposed neutral congress in the Argentine, but that he heard the congress had been postponed on the way down. Not desiring to lose the opportunity of surveying the commercial and economic fields of the South American countries, he visited Argentine, Brazil, Paraguay, Uruguay, Chile, Bolivia, and Peru, and came to the conclusion that after the war these countries would come to a better understanding with the United States and with Mexico regarding their mutual economic interests and ideals.

The sentiment in the countries of South America toward the United States is distinctly friendly, said Mr. Cabrera. He declared that reports of pro-German tendencies in Mexico were without truth, and added that Mexico was doing all it could to aid the Allies in the way that the Allies needed help, through shipments of oil, hemp and other articles.

DENY BIG SHIPPING MERGER.

Officials Say Combination Was Never Seriously Discussed.

Denial was made yesterday by officials of every one of the companies concerned, of the story published yesterday morning that a great steamship merger, under the guiding hand of the American International Corporation, was to be formed by the consolidation of the International Mercantile Marine Company and the combination of its properties with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company, and the New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

George J. Baldwin, senior Vice President of the American International Corporation, and acting President in the absence of Charles A. Stone, who is away on a vacation, President of the Pacific Mail, and Chairman of the Board of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, characterized the story as "pure fiction." Officials of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Company were equally emphatic, asserting that no such combination had ever been seriously discussed by them.

WILHELM KNAUTH RETIRES.

James F. Shaw Succeeds as Partner in Banking House.

The retirement of Wilhelm Knauth as a partner in the banking house of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne was announced yesterday. Mr. Knauth lives on Staten Island, and has been a member of the firm for a number of years. No reason for his withdrawal was made public, and a partner said that there was nothing to add to the announcement.

Coincident with Mr. Knauth's retirement, the firm announced that James F. Shaw had been admitted to partnership. Mr. Shaw was President of the American Electric Railway Association for three years, and several years ago represented the North Shore District of Massachusetts in the Senate of that State. He has been associated with Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne for two years.

The banking firm is one of the oldest in New York, having been formed in 1852. Formerly it had important German connections, but these were severed before the United States entered the war. The present members are Oscar L. Gubelman, Rollin C. Newton, who is a member of the Stock Exchange; James F. Shaw, and Mrs. Mary Whitman Knauth, widow of Percival Knauth. Percival Kuhne was a special partner from 1909 to 1914.

WAR PRESSURE BRINGS SHIFT IN STEEL TRADE

Sharp Alterations of Manufacturing Programs Enlarge Output of Essential Products.

The pressure of war demands is bringing greater concentration on steel output on the part of manufacturers and Government officials than at any time since the United States entered the war. News from steelmaking centres indicates sharp alterations of manufacturing programs at various plants, the change being made from less essential to purely essential products. The Government has ordered 20,000 more cars for the military railroads in France, and fabricating mills are getting rush orders on ship material.

A sub-committee of steel manufacturers is scheduled to meet representatives of the War Industries Board in Washington today, presumably to settle the matter of rail prices, and The Iron Age reports that a general meeting of steel men will be held in New York next Wednesday to take steps to meet the expanding demand for ship, munitions, and railroad steel.

"The pig iron shortage complained of for months," this periodical says, "grows more acute, but the proposal from Washington that the few remaining cold furnaces be started up will come to nothing. Operators of some of the small furnaces now blowing, particularly in the South, threaten to put them out if the pig iron price is not advanced by October."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Four million men in France by the end of June of next year will win the decisive victory toward which all our energies are being strained only if they can be properly munitioned and supplied. The effect of the enlarged military program on the steel industry will be tremendous. With our bigger army must go thousands of guns, millions of shells, and hundreds of ships, to mention only a few fundamentals. All this calls for increasing quantities of steel, which can only be obtained by scientific distribution and the maintenance of maximum production."

Short Time Bonds and Notes
Yielding 6 to 8¼ Per Cent

Present conditions have resulted in a great deal of short-term financing because many governments, municipalities and corporations needing funds are unwilling to pay present high rates of interest over a long period. Rather than issue bonds maturing in twenty to thirty years they sell securities which mature in one to five years.

This gives the investor who has money available for a short period an exceptional opportunity to get sound security coupled with a high rate of interest.

We have a special list of "short time" securities yielding from 6 to 8¼ per cent., which we recommend for conservative investment. We shall be glad to send you this list if you are interested.

OUR BANKERS FAVOR RESTRICTED CREDITS

EXCHANGE LOANS PUZZLING

Authorities in Washington Asked to Decide Whether They Are Essential or Not.

New York bankers are co-operating to the fullest extent with the Federal Reserve Board in the endeavor to carry out successfully the suggestion that credits be restricted as much as possible to purposes clearly needed for the prosecution of the war. In most instances, the general policies enunciated by the board and by the Directors of the local Reserve Bank have been acceptible to the banks, but in some few instances institutions have been inclined to seek specific instructions. Such instances have been relatively few, because most bankers believe that the best interests of the country would be best served by having a minimum of Government interference and supervision.

The head of a large institution asserted yesterday that he had indirectly asked the Reserve Board to make a ruling in respect to Stock Exchange loans. He said he desired the board to state whether in its opinion such banking transactions were "essential" or "nonessential." Thus far the board has not made a ruling on this point. It is generally recognized that a certain amount of trading in stocks and bonds cannot be dispensed with, and that while trading continues the banks must accommodate investors and brokers. It is also conceded that the elimination of all loans based on Stock Exchange collateral would be disastrous, for it would necessarily cause the closing of the Exchange and generally result in a serious financial disturbance.

At the same time, the banks have for a considerable period been exerting their efforts to curtail loans of this character. They have effectively reduced the volume of Stock Exchange loans by discouraging speculation. The fact that this result has been accomplished is shown by the statements of stock brokers who are constantly complaining that the money market is responsible for the lack of activity in the stock market. Thus far this year, the total sales on the New York Stock Exchange have amounted to 85,642,113 shares, compared with 121,881,854 shares during the corresponding period last year. This is approximately 30 per cent.

The so-called "Money Committee," which was formed soon after the beginning of the First Liberty Loan campaign, and which has managed to prevent rates from going above the 6 per cent. level, keeps close watch over the loan accounts of the banks. It receives daily reports showing the totals for call loans, and other transactions and is in that way kept informed of the amount of credit that is being employed for the carrying of stocks. It is understood that the committee has made every effort to prevent an expansion of these loans. Brokers have been advised that they must adjust their business to new conditions of the money market. The brokers know that while they can obtain accommodations within reasonable limits they would find great difficulty if they tried measurably to increase their borrowings.

Bankers say that it is impossible to do away with stock loans entirely and that the only sensible policy to follow is to keep them down and reduce trading to a minimum, by which is meant that speculative commitments in the stock market must be checked while maintaining a ready market for securities to persons or institutions who find it necessary to sell out their holdings to place themselves in funds required for other needs.

The Federal Reserve Board has been reluctant to make any specific recommendations in respect to what is "essential" and "nonessential." In its August bulletin, it calls attention to the fact that it had received a great many inquiries along those lines, and adds:

"The question must be determined in each case by local bankers after conferring with the business men of their communities and after careful study of existing conditions. Reasonable discretion should be exercised and drastic steps calculated to bring about hardship or embarrassment or to work injustice should be avoided. The banks should endeavor to divert the use of their credit more and more into productive fields where its employment will result in augmenting the national resources."

The board adds that consumers can assist in the process of credit curtailment and shifting "by exercising a greater degree of economy and self-control in their purchases and by confining themselves to those objects of expenditure which involve the use of their funds for purposes necessary to the maintenance of the efficiency and comfort of the individual, abandoning those which are unnecessary and which can safely and wisely be deferred to the future."

COTTON PRICES DECLINE ON A BULLISH REPORT

Work Gradually Lower During the Day—Close Barely Steady at Net Loss of 20 to 35 Points.

In spite of another very pessimistic Government weekly weather report, the local cotton market did not even hold its previous prices in yesterday's session, and, opening at declines of 12 to 18 points, worked gradually lower during the day, closing barely steady at net losses of 20 to 35 points. The only show of strength was early in the morning, immediately after the publication of the weather bulletin, when the active months were bid up some 20 points above Tuesday's close.

Every time October struggled up above the 32-cent level, however, or other months to correspond, fresh selling caused a sharp dip downward, while on the other hand toward the close the market appeared pretty well oversold, and there were sharp upturns of several points. It was a dull market.

Moline Plow Company
7% Serial Gold Notes

To Be Dated September 1, 1918 — Due $1,000,000 annually as shown below

THE MOLINE PLOW COMPANY was incorporated in Illinois in 1870. It manufactures a complete line of farming implements and is one of the largest manufacturers of tractors in the world. The Company has plants at Moline, Rock Island, Freeport and Chicago, Illinois; Stoughton, Wisconsin; Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Poughkeepsie, New York. It has also twenty-two branch houses at distributing points throughout the United States.

The investment position of this offering is indicated by the following statements in a letter from Mr. F. G. Allen, Vice-President and General Manager of the Company:

"During the last twenty-four years the Company's earnings have amounted to $17,579,153, of which $7,679,153 has been put back into the business.

"Net sales for the last eleven months have been $17,315,036. For the last five years and eleven months the annual average income available for interest and Federal taxes has been $1,582,145, which is more than 3¾ times the interest requirements for these notes.

"These notes will be the direct obligations of the Moline Plow Company, and will constitute its only obligations, except bank loans, outstanding in the hands of the public.

"The Company will covenant not to mortgage or pledge any of its fixed assets without providing for priority of payment of these notes.

"It and its constituent companies will at all times maintain an excess of current assets over current liabilities, other than these notes, equal to at least 200% of the face value of these notes then outstanding, and will maintain current assets of an aggregate amount equal to at least 175% of the amount of all liabilities, direct or contingent, including these notes.

"The net current assets, when this financing is completed, will be more than three times the amount of the note issue.

"The value of the fixed assets, even at pre-war prices, is in excess of the total amount of these notes."

We offered these notes, if, as and when issued and received by us, at prices to yield from 7¼% to about 7¾%, according to maturities, which are as follows:

One-Year (Series A) Notes due September 1, 1919

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Stocks were fairly steady at the close of the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Heavy selling pressure in the final hour caused recessions. Final quotations as a rule were slightly lower than the lowest levels, but the closing tone of the market was uncertain.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....6 per cent. for the best names
Tuesday .....6 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Ribbon Situation Improves.

The quiet of the last few weeks in the local market for ribbons is being dispelled somewhat by the arrival of buyers in town seeking Fall merchandise. The higher prices now quoted, while they may in some instances serve to curtail the size of orders, are said not to be unduly restricting business. Buyers need a certain amount of merchandise and, with the present scarcity of supplies, are willing to pay the price when they find what they want. The millinery trade, women's underwear manufacturers and garment cutters generally, are mentioned as the heaviest purchasers of ribbons.

The Glassware Market.

There has been more activity in the glassware trade in this city during the last few days than for some time past. It is said that there are quite a number of buyers arriving daily from many parts of the country all of whom appear fairly eager for supplies. Local retailers also are placing some quite substantial orders now for Fall stocks and for replenishing present lines. Cut glass and blank shapes for cutting are moving fairly well. Fancy household sets are not as well sought, relatively, as the plainer goods. Heavy tumblers for nearby delivery are rather scarce and are becoming very difficult to obtain in any quantity.

More Interest in Gray Goods.

Though the local market for gray goods could not be said to have been active yesterday, there was more business transacted than for several days past. Sheetings came in for the greatest attention, with 36-inch 48-40s and 36-inch 48 squares occupying the centre of the stage. Both were dealt in at Government prices, which are 18½ cents and 14½ cents, respectively. The deliveries called for in these cases were chiefly August and September. Some sateens and twills for October, November, and December were sold with the price clause inserted on the orders. There was also quite a little business done in low count bandage cloths for September and October deliveries at prices fixed by the Government.

Sweaters Suddenly Back Again.

With the first touch of cool weather the local department stores are experiencing quite a sudden and unexpectedly good demand for women's sweaters. The slip-over type, in spite of all the arguments used against it and its apparent waning popularity last Spring, is said to be wanted more than anything else. Light colors are usually preferred, and a delicate shade of sky-blue seems to be among the leaders. Most of these sweaters are purled at the waist, and many have collars, cuffs, and a border around the bottom in white or a shade contrasting with the body of the sweater. Quite a few are being sold which have no collar at all, but are finished off round or square very much as the collarless waists are finished.

Burlaps Quiet, with Little Change.

The burlap market in this city has been rather quiet during the last week or ten days with not radical movement in prices. Eight ounce burlaps are quoted at 18¼ cents in the East which is about the same as the price on the Pacific coast. Spot deliveries of this construction are bringing 18½ cents. Ten and a half ounce goods rule around 24 cents, and ten ounce materials at 20½ cents. Neither of these latter weights is very plentiful, however, and buyers seeking them are said frequently to have difficulty in locating sufficient quantities to fill their needs. In the Calcutta market, prices rule around somewhat higher levels than prevail here.

PIER MEN MAY ASK RISE.

Ship Agents Hear Longshoremen Will Demand Higher Wages.

The contract between the steamship companies and the longshoremen expires on Sept. 30, and it is expected that the men will demand a big increase in wages. They now receive 50 cents an hour for day work, 70 cents for overtime, and $1 an hour for Sundays and holidays. Those engaged in steady work along the North River average from $50 to $65 a week. Steamship agents said yesterday they had heard that the longshoremen were considering a demand of $1 an hour for day work and $2 an hour for overtime Sundays and holidays.

John F. Riley, President of the District Council of the International Longshoremen's Association, said yesterday that the men had discussed the question of an increase in wages at a meeting Tuesday night. It was attended by nearly 300 delegates from the fifty-four local unions in the city. Mr. Riley added, but nothing was decided upon. There will be other conferences to discuss the new contract, and also meetings with representatives of the steamship lines.

Paul M. Warburg on Long Vacation.

Paul M. Warburg, former Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, left New York yesterday for a vacation in Canada. With Mrs. Warburg and their daughter, he intends traveling from Montreal to Vancouver spending a week at Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies. Mr. Warburg has not yet announced what he intends to take up in the way of business when he returns.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The midtown loft zone, which has shown signs of renewed speculative activity during the past few weeks, furnished another interesting transaction yesterday in the sale of 19 to 21 West Thirty-sixth Street, a twelve-story loft building occupying a plot 48 by 98.9.

William M. Sperry, formerly of the Sperry and Hutchinson Company sold the property to Frederick Brown, operator. It is fully rented for about $38,600 a year and was held at $400,000. William A. White & Sons negotiated the sale.

Last month Mr. Brown purchased the Horner Flint building at 20 to 26 West Thirty-sixth Street and resold it last week to Conrad Hubert, for investment. The three transactions involved over $1,800,000.

Government Takes Printing Crafts Building.

The United States Government announced its intention yesterday of taking over for the duration of the war the twenty-two-story Printing Crafts building occupying the block front on the west side of Eighth Avenue from Thirty-second to Thirty-third Street. This decision was reached at a conference between Major Gen. Goethals and Raymond E. Baylis, representing the hundred tenants in the building.

Brett and Goode, agents of the building, stated last night that the office tenants would be requested to move as soon as possible and the big printing firms would be given sixty days to vacate. The building has an annual rent roll of about $350,000. It is understood that it will be used by the Quartermaster's Department of the Army.

Buys Site for Spanish Villa.

As a site for a villa in the Spanish style of architecture, Mrs. Eurara de Bobula, purchased from the Cox estate a plot of about ten city lots on the west side of Palisade Avenue and extending west to the Hudson River Railroad, having a frontage of about 105 feet on Palisade Avenue, south of Kappock Street, Spuyten Duyvil. David Stewart negotiated the sale.

Tenement Deals.

Edward Wolf sold to an investing client of Freidus & Co., 2,089 Madison Avenue, a five-story flat on a lot 25 by 90.

A client of William A. White & Sons purchased from the Italian Savings Bank, 35 and 37 Crosby Street, two six-story tenements, with stores and two rear six-story tenements, on a plot 50 by 100.

Buying in the Bronx.

J. Clarence Davies sold for the Mott Haven Company, a plot 50 by 100 on the south side of 146th Street, 250 feet west of Morris Avenue. L. Casario represented the purchaser.

Rubin & Marcus purchased from the Benenson Realty Company, 1,072 Forest Avenue, a five-story flat on a plot 50 by 103, held at $52,000.

Anna Fredrick sold to an investing client of J. F. Fetzer, 138 Forest Avenue, a three-story brick dwelling.

Frederich Brown, operator, resold to Isaac Cohen, 820 Dawson Street, a five-story flat on a plot 50 by 100.

Richard L. Lee & Clarence M. Haight, sold for the American Realty Company, Joseph Mautner, President, a five-story building with three stores situated on the corners of Franklin and Third Avenues and 162d Street, to a munitions manufacturer for $85,000.

DENIES STARRETT AIDED HIS OLD FIRM

PUTS PROFITS AT $400,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Flat denial of the allegation that the Thompson-Starrett Company of New York had been favored in the award of army camp construction work by the Emergency Construction Committee of the War Industries Board, of which Colonel W. A. Starrett, former President of the Thompson-Starrett Company, is the Chairman, was made today by Louis J. Horowitz, President of the company, before a subcommittee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee. Mr. Horowitz, who asked leave to appear before the subcommittee, declared that, instead of having been favored, his company had got far from its proportionate share of army camp work.

Mr. Horowitz told the Senate committee that Colonel Starrett has not been influenced to turn contracts over to the Thompson-Starrett Company. In fact, he said, there had been strained relations between the Starrett interests and others in the company just before Colonel Starrett and his brothers quit the concern, in 1910. If anything, Mr. Horowitz said, Colonel Starrett, as head of the Emergency Construction Committee, had unconsciously turned contracts away from the Starrett-Thompson Company in his effort to avoid any show of favoritism toward it.

"Colonel Starrett is too honorable a man to think of favoring any one concern above another," said Mr. Horowitz. "He has been moved, in his service at the head of the Emergency Construction Company, I believe, entirely by a sense of the greatest interest to his country. I might say that I do not believe he has used the best of judgment in the award of many of the contracts for army camp work. If he had, the Thompson-Starrett Company, with its capability for huge undertakings, would have had more contracts."

The witness said that all the Starrett interest had left the Thompson-Starrett Company in 1910, after what he characterized an altercation.

"It does not look reasonable," he went on, "to assume that Colonel Starrett would go out of his way to aid the company after that."

Mr. Horowitz ridiculed the impression which, he said, had been allowed to get out, that the Thompson-Starrett Company had made $100,000,000 out of Government contracts. The entire profits from army, camp, and cantonment construction, he said, would not exceed $400,000. The company built the cantonment at Yaphank, N. Y., he said, at a contract price of $10,000,000, making $250,000 profit.

"I was one of a committee of contractors who were asked by the War Industries Board to suggest what would be a fair profit to fix for army camp work," said Mr. Horowitz. "We fixed the maximum limit at $250,000, and it was accepted by the Government."

The Thompson-Starrett Company's only other army camp contract besides that at Yaphank, the witness said, was on Staten Island, in which $3,000,000 was involved, with a profit of $140,000.

Aside from the contracts, Mr. Horowitz continued, his concern had obtained two other Government contracts, one to supervise the erection of a powder plant at Nitro, W. Va., at a cost of $50,000,000, for which the fee would be $362,000, and the other to erect a plant at Chicago costing $1,500,000, in which the Government was supposed to be interested.

Senator McKellar, Chairman of the sub-committee, asked why the Thompson-Starrett Company was to get $362,000 for merely supervising the building of the powder plant.

"Well, we are furnishing the 'know-how,'" replied Mr. Horowitz.

"I don't think so," replied the witness. "The country where we are putting the plant up is full of typhoid, and it is dangerous work."

NORRIS LEADING BY 1,000.

Morehead Probably Will Oppose Nebraska's Republican Senator.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 21.—Returns from yesterday's primary election received tonight show United States Senator George W. Norris leading his opponents by about 1,000 votes for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. John H. Morehead, former Governor, has probably won in the Democratic race for nomination as United States Senator.

In the Democratic Governorship contest, Governor Keith Neville continues to hold a commanding lead over Charles W. Bryan. Samuel R. McKelvie is running far ahead of Walter Johnson for the Republican nomination for Governor.

VARDAMAN'S RIVAL GAINS.

Harrison's Majority in Mississippi Primaries Now 7,253.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 21.—With returns available tonight from all of the eighty-two counties in Mississippi, the nomination of Congressman Pat Harrison of Gulfport as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator over James K. Vardaman, the incumbent, and former Governor E. F. Noel, was considered certain.

Harrison's majority on the basis of the returns thus far is 7,253. From a few counties the returns tonight were incomplete but it was believed that should the counties vote solidly for Vardaman the majority of Harrison would not be lowered more than 2,000 votes. The returns available tonight follow: Harrison 48,740, Vardaman 35,672, Noel 15,815.

BARBERS STRIKE IN HOTELS.

If the terms drawn up by the Barbers' Union are not complied with today 800 of the 900 members will be called out on strike immediately, said H. P. Apgar, President of the New York local, last night at the headquarters, 300 West Forty-second Street. Yesterday the barbers struck in many of the hotels, among them the McAlpin, Astor, Biltmore, Manhattan, Belmont, and Waldorf. The contention of the men is that they want living wages, reasonable hours, and union recognition. They say that the public will benefit, for tips are to be abolished. However, no mention of this phase of the matter is made in the printed agreement which the employers are asked to sign.

The specific terms under which the men want to work are:

1. No barber to work more than ten consecutive hours. Saturdays and legal holidays from 8 A. M. to 12 M.
2. Hotel shops, $16 per week and half over $30. (This means that the employer is to give to the barber half of all the money the barber takes in over $30.)
3. All employers must be union men, and new men must be secured through the local.
4. Hair cuts are to be 50 cents in hotels and 40 cents in street shops. Shaves 25 cents in hotels and 20 cents in street shops.

At the local headquarters last night the organization was in full swing for the prosecution of the strike.

SAFE AND SANE

MOST amateurs in stock speculation will admit that up to date, they are behind the game—but they have hopes.

Most professional speculators are not much more than even.

In the stock game, there are moments of exhilaration over successes, but there are periods of depression that more than make up for them.

Those who invest their money in mortgages guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company are not subject to these constant changes.

They have no champagne suppers celebrating temporary advances, but on the other hand, there are no anxious days by the ticker's side and no sleepless nights.

"I think the best thing about The Ediphone System is the fact that they did not forget the stenographer and her comfort when perfecting it.

"The light and flexible Comfortubes, on the Transophone, weighing only a few ounces, make you almost forget them. I can work all day at my typewriter, transcribing Ediphone dictation and at the end of the day I don't know I've had the Comfortubes on.

"It sounds like a little thing, but any stenographer who has a lot of work to do knows that it's details like this that make you bless the man who thought some of your convenience and comfort."

Quoted from the statement of a stenographer with one of the thousands of Ediphone users listed by name and business in our book "STABILITY."
